COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Session 1917 — 122nd of the General Assembly

VOL. 4. HARRISBURG, PA., THURSDAY, APRIL 12, 1917. No. 37.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

THURSDAY, April 12, 1917.

The House met at 11 o'clock A. M.

The SPEAKER (Richard J. Baldwin) in the Chair.

The Honorable A. Ramsey S. Black offered the following prayer:

Our Father, Who art in Heaven, in all our work as legislators let us realize that we are not legislating for ourselves, but for the common good of all the people. Help use to realize that our lives are not our own but are Thine. In all our deliberations here this morning help us to be kind and thoughtful of the feelings and opinions of each other.

We ask it in Jesus' name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings, when, on motion of Mr. Spangler, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal was approved.

Mr. EBY. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 797, File Folio 2179, be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know the purpose.

Mr. EBY. Mr. Speaker, it appears to me that this is a salary raiser, and I believe that all bills of that character should be in the hands of the Appropriation Committee. They appear to be abundantly able to cope with any situation, and I think it would be well to have them look over the bill before we pass it.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Perry.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Perry, Mr. Eby, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. EBY. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have the gentleman inform the House what committee acted on this bill.

Mr. EBY. Mr. Speaker, I think the Judiciary Special, but I am not sure.

Mr. MILLIRON. Make yourself sure.

Mr. EBY. Mr. Speaker, my impression was that this bill came from the Judiciary Special Committee. For that reason I thought it ought to be put into the Appropriations Committee.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, since the gentleman is not sure where it came from, I would ask the House to vote no on the motion.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was not agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1045 (Senate Bill No. 347), entitled

Size

"All permanent booths or enclosures to be at least seven feet high the floor space to vary according to the number of machines in booths or enclosures as follows

One picture machine six feet by eight feet

One picture machine and one stereopticon nine feet by eight feet

Two picture machines and one stereopticon twelve feet by eight feet

The same to be made of structural steel as follows

Four outside horizontal members at top and bottom

Four corner uprights and members supporting roof to be made of one and one-half inch by one and one-half by one-fourth inch angle-irons

Intermediate uprights to be spaced every two feet and to be made of either one and one-half inch by one and one-half inch by one-fourth inch angle-iron or two inch by two inch by one-fourth inch tee-irons

Tee-irons to which roof is attached to be made of one and one-half inch by one and one-half inch by three-sixteenth inch tee-irons

All joints to be made with a three-sixteenth inch steel plate to which each angle-iron or tee-iron shall be riveted or bolted by the use of at least two (2) one-fourth inch bolts or rivets

All bolts or rivets in frame to have flat heads said heads always to be placed on exterior side of booth all angle or tee-irons being so countersunk as to accomplish this result

Frame to be built with a six-foot by two-foot doorway frame of said doorway to be built of one inch by one inch by three-sixteenth inch angle-irons which are to be joined together by the use of a three-sixteenth inch

Covering of Booth

"Sides and top of booth to be covered with asbestos boards of at least one-fourth inch in thickness said boards to be cut and arranged that vertical joints between boards shall always come over an angle or tee-iron so that both boards may be securely fastened to the same

After booth is complete all openings where combustible material is exposed must be plugged with asbestos cement or other equally substantial material When joints of asbestos boards on outside of booth do not come over angles of tee-irons the cracks between the boards shall be covered by a strip of asbestos board at least one-eighth inch thick and two inches wide said strips to be securely fastened to both boards in such manner as to cover the exposed joints The above-mentioned strips and all asbestos boards shall be secured in the proper place by the means of proper bolts and nuts said bolts and nuts to be spaced not more than six inches apart

Flooring

"Floor shall be made of two parts an upper and a lower floor Lower floor shall be made of boards seven-eighths inches minimum thickness supported on lower leg of horizontal angle-iron Resting on this floor shall be a floor made of asbestos boards of three-eight inch minimum thickness or an equally good material

Windows

"There shall not be more than two windows per machine in the booth—one for the operator and one for the machine Window for machine shall not be more than six inches high and twelve inches long and shall be located and cut after machine is set up Operator's window shall not be more than four inches wide or more than twelve inches high

All windows shall be provided with gravity-doors which when closed shall overlap the window opening at least one inch on all sides said doors to be held open normally by use of a fine combustible cord in series with a fusible link so arranged that the doors may easily be released by hand

Main Door

"Outside of door to be provided with a substantial spring sufficient to keep door closed Door to be provided with stop to prevent it from swinging into booth or injuring the hinges

Shelves

"To be made up of slate slabs or board not less than seven-eighth inches thick not exceeding four feet in length or twelve inches in width Said shelves if of board to be painted with at least three coats of asbestos paint and supported by means of angle-irons Upper shelf to be used for the rewinding and the repairing of films the lower shelf to be used for the storage of films A separate metal case made without solder shall be provided for each film when the same is not in the magazine or in the process of winding said films to be kept in these cases

Ventilation

"Booths to be provided with an inlet in each of four sides said inlets to be fifteen inches long three inches high the lower side of the same not to be more than three inches above floor level Said inlets to be covered on the inside by a wire net of not greater than one-eighth inch mesh netting to be firmly secured to the asbestos boards by means of iron strips and screws

Near the center of the top of the booth shall be a circular opening of not less than ten inches in diameter the upper side of said opening to be provided with an iron flange which flange is to be securely fastened to the tee-irons supporting the roof Securely fastened to this flange shall be a vent-pipe not less than ten inches in diameter said pipe leading to the outside of the building or to a special incombustible vent-flue In this vent-pipe shall be a box containing a twelve-inch electric fan said box to be provided with a door of sufficient size to permit of the examination or removal of this fan this door to be made tight and provided with proper fastenings Box and vent-pipes to be made of galvanized iron or other non-combustible material fan to be so connected that it can be controlled from within the booth

Wiring

"If house lights are controlled from within the booth an additional emergency control must be provided near the main exit and kept at all times in good condition

All electric wires to be brought in to the booth and carried to all machines lights et cetera in conduits one light will be allowed for each machine and one for the rewinding-bench but all such lights shall be provided with wire guards

Rheostats

"All rheostats to be mounted on slate insulator properly supported said supports to be made of iron and securely fastened to the floor rheostats to be securely fastened to slate insulator

Machines

"Must be securely fastened to the floor to prevent accidental overturning of the same Provided That this section shall not apply to cities of the first and second classes" be amended to read as follows

Section 1 That in all theatres and opera houses where moving pictures are exhibited and in all other buildings where moving pictures are usually or regularly exhibited or where a moving picture machine is regularly housed and held in readiness for the purpose of exhibiting moving pictures there shall be provided a permanent booth or enclosure of fireproof construction and all moving picture machines and stereopticons operated or used in connection therewith shall be installed maintained and kept within the said booth or encluosure at all times and all moving picture films exhibited stored held or used in connection therewith shall be stored and kept within the said booth or enclosure at all times and in such manner as is hereinafter provided

Two picture machines or one picture machine and the stereopticon nine feet by eight feet

Three picture machines or two picture machines and one stereopticon twelve feet by eight feet

Such booths or enclosures shall be made of structural steel as follows

Four outside horizontal members at top and bottom

Four corner uprights and members supporting roof to be made of one-and-one-half inch by one-and-one-half inch by one-fourth inch angle-irons

Intermediate uprights shall be spaced every two feet and shall be made either of one-and-one-half inch by one-and-one-half inch by one-fourth in changle-irons or of two inch by two inch by one-fourth inch tee-irons

Tee-irons to which roof is attached shall be made of one-and-one-half inch by one-and-one-half inch by three sixteenth inch tee-irons

All joints shall be made with a three sixteenth inch steel plate to which each angle-iron or tee-iron shall be rivited or bolted by the use of at least two (2) one-fourth inch bolts or rivets

All bolts or rivets in frame shall have flat heads and said heads shall always be placed on the exterior side of the booth or enclosure and all angle-irons and tee-irons shall be so countersunk as to accomplish this result

The frame of the booth or enclosure shall be provided with a doorway six feet high by two feet wide The frame of the doorway shall be bulit of one inch by one inch by three-sixteenth inch angle-irons which shall be joined together by the use of a three-sixteenth inch steel plat

The sides and top of booth shall be covered with asbestos boards of at least one-fourth inch in thickness and said boards shall be cut and arranged in such manner that all vertical joints between boards shall always come over an angle-iron or tee-iron so that both boards may be securely fastened to such angle-irons or tee-irons

After the booth is complete all openings where combustible material is exposed must be plugged with asbestos cement or with other equally satisfactory material Where joints of asbestos boards on the outside of the booth do not come over angle-irons or tee-irons the cracks between the boards shall be covered by a strip of asbestos board at least one-eighth inch thick and two inches wide Such strips shall be securely fastened to both boards in such manner as to cover the exposed joints The above mentioned strips and all other asbestos boards shall be secured in the proper place by means of proper bolts and nuts and all such bolts and nuts shall be spaced not more than six inches apart

The floor of the booth shall be made of two parts an upper and a lower floor The lower floor shall be made of boards of seven-eights inch minimum thickness supported on the lower legs of the horizontal angle-irons Resting on this floor there shall be a floor made of asbestos boards of three-eighth inch minimum thickness or an equally good fireproof material

Provided That such permanent booths or enclosures may be constructed of concrete brick or hollow tile in a substantial manner provided the herein prescribed regulations as to size windows door shelves ventilation wiring rheo-stats machines and all other structural features and equipment are fully met observed and furnished and that no wood or other conbustible material shall be used in the construction of such booths

Windows

There shall be not more than two windows per machine in the booth one for the operator and one for the machine The window for the machine shall be not more than six inches high and twelve inches long and shall be located and cut after the machine is set up The operators window shall be not more than four inches wide or more than twelve inches high

All windows in the booth shall be provided with gravity-doors which when closed shall oerlap the window opening at least one inch on all sides Such gravity-doors shall be held open normally by use of a fine combustible cord in series with a fusible link directly over each machine and so arranged that the doors may easily be released by hand

Main Door

The main door of the booth shall be provided with substantial spring hinges and heavy steel spring or springs sufficient to keep door closed and said door shall be kept closed at all times The door frame shall be provided with a stop to prevent the door from swinging into the booth or injuring the hinges

Shelves

Two shelves shall be permitted in the booth each of which shall not exceed four feet in length or twelve inches in width Such shelves shall be made up of slate slabs or boards of not less than seven-eighth inch thickness and shall be substantially supported by means of angle-irons If such shelves are made of boards they shall be painted with at least three coats of asbestos paint Additional wooden shelves or cupboards shall not be installed

Film Cases

A separate fireproof metal case made without solder shall be provided for each individual film and such film cases shall be tightly closed at all times Each film shall be kept in one of such cases at all times when the same is not in the magazine of the machine or in the process of re-winding

Ventilation

Each booth shall be provided with an inlet in each of four sides Such inlets shall be fifteen inches long and three inches high and the lower side of each shall be not more than three inches above the floor level Such inlets shall be covered on the inside by a wire net of not greater than one-eighth inch mesh netting and the wire net shall be firmly secured to the asbestos boards or walls of the booth by means of iron strips and screws

Near the centre of the top of the booth there shall be a circular opening of not less than ten inches or more than twelve inches in diameter The upper side of said opening shall be provided with an iron flange which flange shall be securely fastened to the tee-irons supporting the roof Securely fastened to this flange shall be a vent-pipe of not less than ten inches or more than twelve inches in diameter Such vent-pipe shall lead directly to the outside of the building or to a special incombustible vent-flue and shall be provided with asbestos or other approved non-combustible fireproof material wherever such pipe shall pass through the roof of the building or wherever such pipe shall pass through or come within six inches of any combustible material Into this vent-pipe shall project by means of an elbow pipe a secondary metal pipe which shall be four inches in diameter and which shall enter the main vent-pipe from outside the booth and where such secondary pipe passes into the main pipe a metal flange shall be provided To the outside end of the four inch pipe there shall be connected a motor driven blower with a capacity for exhausting fifty cubic feet of air per minute Leading to this motor driven blower there shall be an air inlet pipe of five inches in diameter and such air inlet pipe shall be so arranged that the air shall be taken from without the booth All vent-pipes shall be made of galvanized iron or other non-combustible material and shall be connected without the use of solder The motor of the motor driven blower shall be connected to the electric circuit which controls the exit lights and such electric circuit shall be independent of the main electric circuit which controls the house lights and the said motor shall be so connected that it shall be controlled only from the switch controlling the said exit lights

Provided That nothing in this section shall interfere with vent-pipes and electric fans installed prior to the enactment of this act and in strict accordance with the regulations and specifications prescribed by the provisions of the act of May first one thousand nine hundred and nine and approved by the proper authorities

Legislative Journal.

VOL. 4. HARRISBURG, PA., MONDAY, APRIL 16, 1917. No. 38.

SENATE.

MONDAY, April 16, 1917.

The Senate met at 9 o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Frank B. McClain) in the Chair.

The Chaplain, Rev. Thomas W. Davis, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, we thank Thee that the genius of American statesmanship, being tested in this crucial period of the world's history, is upholding with honor the traditions of our country. Their attitude presents our flag unstained, so that we are led to pray:

Wave on, wave on, good stars and stripes!
Our sons of Freedom will follow thee,
And wage the battle for Human Rights,
Both on the land and on the Sea.

Wave on, wave on, oh glorious flag,
Our soldier boys are joining in the song.
The world democracy no more can lag,
For we are coming one hundred million strong.

Steer us straight, oh worthy Master,
Staunch and strong, a glorious nation,
Prepared in triumph or disaster,
To hold with courage our given station.

This prayer we ask in our Saviour's name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when on motion of Mr. WASBERS, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

The Chair asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Cambria, Mr. Tompkins.

BILLS SIGNED.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Frank B. McClain) announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bills had passed both houses of the General Assembly and the same being correct, the titles were publicly read as follows:

House Bill No. 295, entitled

An Act to further amend clause three of section one of an act approved the eighth day of May one thousand eight hundred and fifty-four (P. House Bill No. 900, entitled

An Act amending section nineteen of an act entitled "An Act relative to the supervision and control of hospitals or houses in which the insane are placed for treatment or detention" approved the eighth day of May one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three, so as to permit certificates of physicians as to the insanity of patients to be sworn to or affirmed before a judge or magistrate of any county in the Commonwealth.

Whereupon,

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Frank B. McClain in the presence of the Senate signed the same.

HOUSE MESSAGE.

RESOLUTION RECOMMENDING CHANGING THE NAMES OF INSANE ASYLUMS.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives, being introduced, presented communication from the House of Representatives, informing the Senate that the House has concurred in resolution from the Senate, as follows:

In the Senate, April 11, 1917.

Whereas, Many persons committed to insane or feeble-minded institutions are being cured of their diseases and are being returned to their homes and families; and

Whereas, Many persons so discharged from such institutions are often conscious of the fact that their neighbors and friends are aware that they were inmates of such insane or feeble-minded institutions; and

Whereas, In order to remove at least in some degree this conscious feeling of such persons, and to bring this Commonwealth in line with the modern thought as well as the idea of medical science, the names of such institutions should be changed; therefore be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That it is the sense of the General Assembly that the names of all State and semi-State and private institutions for insane and feeble-minded be changed by striking from such names the words, "insane, lunatics, feeble-minded" and similar words, which will materially aid in removing the possibility of having that stigma cast upon inmates thereof; and be it further

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the trustees, or directors of all insane and feeble-minded institutions be urged to take the proper steps to have the names of their respective institutions changed to conform with the ideas conveyed and objects desired to be accomplished by this resolution by naming them by amendment of the present laws or otherwise as "Institutions or Hospitals for the Treatment of Mental Diseases," or other appropriate names.

HOUSE BILL NO. 384 RECALLED FROM THE GOVERNOR.

He also presented communication from the House of Representatives, which was twice read as follows, considered and agreed to:

In the House of Representatives, April 12, 1917.

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That House Bill No. 384, entitled: An Act to amend an act approved the fifth day of May one thousand nine hundred eleven, entitled "An Act to amend the first section of an act approved the tenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred seven, entitled 'An Act to fix the salaries of the clerk, deputy clerk, court clerks and employes in the office of the clerk of the court of oyer and terminer and quarter sessions of the peace of any county of this Commonwealth having a population of one million or over,' so as to make it apply to counties having a population of one million four hundred thousand and over."

be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Chair cleared his table and laid before the Senate communications in writing from His Excellency the Governor of the Commonwealth, which were read as follows:

TRANSMITTING COMMUNICATION FROM HONORABLE NEWTON D. BAKER, SECRETARY OF WAR.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 12, 1917.

To the Honorable, the Senate and the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: I have received from Honorable Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War, under date of April ninth, a communication containing the following resolutions of the Council of National Defense and its Advisory Commission, which resolutions were adopted by these bodies on Saturday, April seventh:

"That the Council of National Defense urge upon the legislatures of the states, as well as all administrative agencies charged with the enforcement of labor and health laws, the great duty of rigerously maintaining the existing safe-guards as to the health and welfare of workers, and that no departure from such present standards, in state laws or state rulings affecting labor should be taken without declaration of the Council of National Defense that such a departure is essential for the effective pursuit of the National Defense.

That the Council of National Defense urge upon the legislatures of the several states that before final adjournment they delegate to the Governors of their respective states the power to suspend or modify restrictions contained in their labor laws when such suspension or modification shall be requested by the Council of National Defense, and such a suspension or modification, when made, shall continue for a specified period and not longer than the duration of the war."

I invite your special attention to these important declarations of national policy, and respectfully request that the spirit of the same may be given prompt and full consideration by your bodies.

The resolutions meet with my cordial approval, and I shall be very glad, so far as my powers permit and so far as additional power may be given me by your bodies, to comply with the requests contained therein.

Very respectfully yours,

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

The PRESIDENT. Inasmuch as the suggestion of the Secretary of War transmitted through the Governor recommends the modifying or suspension of the health laws of the Commonwealth, the Chair refers the communication to the Committee on Judiciary General.

Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 13, 1917.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed Senate Bill No. 86, entitled "An Act authorizing C. M. Warner a citizen of Erie County Pennsylvania to bring suit in the court of common pleas of Erie County Pennsylvania against the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania."

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

APPROVAL OF SENATE BILL NO. 104.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 12, 1917.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed Senate Bill No. 104, entitled "An Act fixing the salaries of the Superintendent and Deputy Superintendent of the Department of State Police and fixing the number and salaries of the officers and the enlisted men of the State Police force."

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

VETO OF CONCURRENT RESOLUTION DIRECTING THE DEPARTMENT OF STATE POLICE TO GUARD AND PROTECT THE CAPITOL BUILDING.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 13, 1917.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: I return herewith, without my approval, resolution of the Senate and the House of Representatives, relative to the placing of a sufficient number of State Constabulary at the State Capitol Building to give it the necessary protection in this unsettled condition as a result of the war situation in our Nation.

I beg to advise you that I have already acted upon this matter and have requested Major Groome to place a sufficient force around the Capitol building and the Library building to comply with the intent of your Resolution.

I enclose herewith for your information a copy of a letter sent to Major Groome.

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 12, 1917.

Major John C. Groome, Superintendent of State Police, Harrisburg, Pa.

My dear Major Groome: During the unsettled condition the State Capitol Building, including the Library building, should be efficiently guarded and protected.

I hereby request you to detail whatever number of your men you may find it expedient so to do, to the State Capitol buildings, in order to give efficient protection there.

I further advise and direct that until you receive orders to the contrary all of the State Capitol Police force shall be under the direction of your force and its commanding officer there, and you will proceed to organize this State Capitol Police body for such services as you may find it expedient and proper to direct them to perform, in order that they with your own officers and men may give to the Capitol the necessary protection.

I am sending you for your information a copy of a letter just sent to the Acting Superintendent of Public Grounds and Buildings, Mr. James C. Patterson.

Very truly yours,

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

On the question,

Shall the resolution pass, the objection of the Governor to the contrary notwithstanding?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I move that the question, together with the further consideration of the resolution, be postponed for the present.

Mr. W. W. SMITH. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

HOUSE MESSAGE.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION PROVIDING FOR A COMMISSION TO INVENTORY THE FOOD PRODUCTS WITHIN THE COMMONWEALTH; TO REGULATE ITS PROPER AND EQUITABLE DISTRIBUTION; TO FIX THE MAXIMUM PRICE THEREOF; AND TO INVESTIGATE THE POSSIBILITIES THROUGH MARKETING AND OTHER FACILITIES OF THE REDUCTION IN THE PRESENT HIGH COST OF FOOD STUFFS; EMPOWERING SAID COMMISSION TO ISSUE SUBPOENAS AND PROVIDING FOR THE ATTENDANCE OF WITNESSES, AND THE PENALTY FOR FAILURE TO OBEY SUCH SUBPOENAS.

He also presented extract from the Journal of the House of Representatives, which was twice read as follows:

Whereas By reason of the present war conditions the prices of food products have been unnecessarily increased, and

Whereas It is to the best interest of the general public that prices be regulated with a view of protecting the welfare and the health of the people of the Commonwealth

Now therefore be it resolved by the House of Representatives (if the Senate concur), That a commission of nine (9) persons, citizens of this Commonwealth to be known as the Food and Marketing Commission be appointed by the Governor of this Commonwealth, two of whom shall be members of the Senate and two of whom shall be members of the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania, to serve without compensation. Said Commission shall make an inventory of all the food products in the Commonwealth and shall have power to regulate the proper and equitable distribution of the said food products and to fix the maximum prices thereof. Said Commission shall have the power, in any manner in which it may deem advisable to investigate thoroughly the possibilities through marketing and other facilities of the reduction in the cost of food stuffs. Said Commission shall also have the power to confiscate food products upon the refusal of the person, persons, partnership, associations or corporations in whose possession or control same may be upon refusing or failing to fix the prices that may be decided upon by said Commission.

For the purpose of enabling said commission to carry out and perform its duties, the said commission shall have the right to sit in any part of this Commonwealth; and shall have power to compel the attendance of witnesses, and the production of books papers, and other evidence, at the meeting of the commission, and for that purpose may issue subpoenas, signed by the president of the commission, and cause the same to be served and executed in any court of this Commonwealth; and if any witness shall refuse to testify any fact within his knowledge, or to produce any books or papers within his possession or under his control the secretary of the commission shall forthwith report the facts of such refusal to the court of common pleas of the county wherein such witness resides, or wherein his attendance was required, and all question arising from such refusal shall at once be heard by said court. If the Court determines that the testimony or evidence required by such witness is legal and properly competent and ought to be given or produced by him or her, then said court shall make an order commanding such witness to testify or produce books or papers or both, as the case may be; and if such witness shall thereafter refuse to testify or to produce books or papers, as aforesaid, in disobedience of such order of the court, then the said court shall have power to order the commitment of such witness to the county jail of the proper county for contempt.

The said commission shall have power to call upon the Attorney General for such legal advice as it may require.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, I move that the resolution just read be referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. CROW. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 623, entitled

An Act to amend the act approved the second day of June one thousand nine hundred and fifteen entitled "An Act providing for the creation and administration of a State fund for the insurance and compensation for injuries to employes of subscribers thereto declaring false oaths by the subscribers to be misdemeanors and providing penalties for the violation thereof" be recommitted to the Committee on Insurance.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr SPROUL. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until 11 o'clock to-morrow morning

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 10.48 o'clock P. M. until Tuesday morning, April 17, 1917, at eleven o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

MONDAY, April 16, 1917.

The House met at 9 o'clock P. M.

The SPEAKER (Richard J. Baldwin), in the chair.

The Chaplain, Rev. S. G. Zerfass, offered the following prayer:

At the close of this day, our Father, we come into Thy presence. Our prayers have been heard and Thou hast kept us from accident and harm, yea Thou hast blessed us in many ways.

We thank Thee for comfort and prosperity.

Bless, we pray Thee, the members of the House of Representatives, the Speaker, and all connected therewith in all efforts for good.

Forgive all our shortcomings and cleanse our hearts from sin. May we be cheerful in difficulties and under all discouragements.

Give us strength to endure, so that we do not cast shadows upon any other life by our fretting or discontent; speaking kind words and using our best endeavor to give cheer and courage.

Receive us now into Thy care, keep us through the darkness and bring us to the morning light if it be Thy will, if not, bring us to heaven's morning, which is far better. Grant that the prayer of Thy unworthy servant may be heard, we ask in Jesus' name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of the proceedings of Thursday, April 12, 1917.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the proceedings of Thursday, April 12, 1917, when, on motion of Mr. Perry, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR.

Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, Pa., April 12, 1917.

To the Honorable, the Senate and the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: I have received from Honorable Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War, under date of April ninth, a communication containing the following resolution of the Council of National Defense and its Advisory Commission, which resolutions were adopted by these bodies on Saturday, April seventh:

"That the Council of National Defense urge upon the Legislatures of the States, as well as all administrative agencies charged with the enforcement of labor and health laws, the great duty of rigorously maintaining the existing safeguards as to the health and welfare of workers, and that no departure from such present standards, in State laws or State rulings affecting labor should be taken without declaration of the Council of National Defense that such a departure is essential for the effective pursuit of the national defense.

"That the Council of National defense urge upon the Legislatures of the several States that before final adjournment they delegate the Governors of their respective States the power to suspend or modify restrictions contained in their labor laws when such suspension or modification shall be requested by the Council of National Defense and such a suspension or modification, when made, shall continue for a specified period and not longer than the duration of the war."

I invite your special attention to these important declarations of national policy, and respectfully request that the spirit of the same may be given prompt and full consideration by your bodies.

The resolutions meet with my cordial approval, and I shall be very glad, so far as my powers permit and so far as additional power may be given me by your bodies, to comply with the requests contained therein.

Very respectfully yours,

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

RESOLUTION.

Mr. GLASS asked and obtained unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of a resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to as follows:

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION PROVIDING FOR A COMMISSION TO INVENTORY THE FOOD PRODUCTS WITHIN THE COMMONWEALTH; TO REGULATE ITS PROPER AND EQUITABLE DISTRIBUTION; TO FIX THE MAXIMUM PRICES THEREOF; AND TO INVESTIGATE THE POSSIBILITIES THROUGH MARKETING AND OTHER FACILITIES OF THE REDUCTION IN THE PRESENT HIGH COST OF FOOD STUFFS; EMPOWERING SAID COMMISSION TO ISSUE SUBPOENAS AND PROVIDING FOR THE ATTENDANCE OF WITNESSES AND THE PENALTY FOR FAILURE TO OBEY SUCH SUBPOENAS.

Whereas By reason of the present war conditions the prices of food products have been unnecessarily increased, and

Whereas It is to the best interest of the general public that prices be regulated with a view of protecting the welfare and the health of the people of this Commonwealth.

Now Therefore be it Resolved by the House of Representatives (if the Senate concur), That a commission of nine (9) persons, citizens of this Commonwealth to be known as the Food and Marketing Commission be appointed by the Governer of this Commonwealth, two of whom shall be members of the Senate and two of whom shall be members of the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania, to serve without compensation. Said Commission shall make an inventory of all the food products in the Commonwealth and shall have power to regulate the proper and equitable distribution of the said food products and to fix the maximum prices thereof. Said Commission shall have the power, in any manner in which it may deem advisable to investigate thoroughly the possibilities through marketing and other facilities of the reduction in the cost of food stuffs. Said Commission shall also have the power to confiscate food products upon the refusal of the person, persons, partnership, associations of corporations in whose possession or control same may be upon refusing or failing to fix the prices that may be decided upon by said Commission.

For the purpose of enabling said Commission to carry out and perform its duties, the said Commission shall have the right to sit in any part of this Commonwealth; and shall have power to compel the attendance of witnesses, and the production of books, papers, and other evidence, at the meeting of the Commission, and for that purpose may issue subpoenas, signed by the president of the Commission, and cause the same to be served and executed in any court of this Commonwealth; and if any witness shall refuse to testify any fact within his knowledge, or to produce any books or papers within his possession or under his control the secretary of the commission shall forthwith report the facts of such refusal to the court of common pleas of the county wherein such witness resides, or wherein his attendance was required, and all questions arising from such refusal shall at once be heard by said court. If the court determines that the testimony or evidence required by such witness is legal and properly competent and ought to be given or produced by him or her, then said court shall make an order commanding such witness to testify or produce books or papers or both, as the case may be; and if such witness shall thereafter refuse to testify or to produce books or papers, as aforesaid, in disobedience of such order of the court, then the said court shall have power to order the commitment of such witness to the county jail of the proper county for contempt.

The said commission shall have power to call upon the Attorney General for such legal advice as it may require.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO CONDUCT OF WAR.

Mr. COOK offered the following resolution, which was twice read and laid over under the rules:

In the House of Representatives, April 16, 1917.

Whereas, The Government of the United States, by virtue of the state of war existing with the German Government, faces a condition unequaled in its entire history; and

Whereas, The use of calm judgment and the adoption of practical systems in the present crisis will aid greatly in bringing victory to the Arms of the United States, and accomplish the great purposes for which this Government stands in this present crisis; and

Whereas, The great assets in the waging of successful warfare are the soldier in the trench, the efficient worker in the factory and industrial establishment, and the agriculturist; and

Whereas, The granaries of the world, due to the drain thereupon by the European war of the last few years, are practically empty; and

Whereas, The producer at home who furnishes to the Army in the field the means of waging successful warfare should be considered as much a patriot as the man who serves in the field; therefore

Resolved (if the Senate concur) That the President and the Congress of the United States be respectfully petitioned to avoid so far as possible the mistakes of European countries in recruiting into their armies soldiers unprepared for the proper conduct of modern warfare, in recruting skilled workmen from her factories and industries whose work in such factories and industries was of more importance to the success of their cause than was their enlistment into actual service, and in recruiting men engaged in agricultural pursuits whose continuation in their present occupations is absolutely a necessity to produce the food which eventualy goes to feed an army and to keep it up to its highest standard.

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Commonwealth be directed to send a copy of this Resolution to the President of the United States, the Senate of the United States and the House of Representatives of the United States

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULE NO. 39.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, the time set for the discussion of the Woman Suffrage Bill is to-morrow at 10.30 A. M. I am told that a large number of ladies representing both sides of the question will be here, and it seems to me that the gentlemanly thing to do would be to admit them to the floor of the House, and for that purpose I move that Rule 39 of the House be suspended at the session of April 17, 1917, for the discussion of House Bill No. 117.

Mr. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the consideration of the motion at this time? Is there any objection? The Chair hears objections, and under the rules a motion to change the rules must lie over for one day.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, this is not a resolution, it is a motion to suspend the rule.

The SPEAKER. A motion to suspend the rule can be made at this time, but the motion lies over. The Chair rules that it cannot be considered at this time without unanimous consent.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, is it not possible to make a motion at any time and have it considered by this House without unanimous consent?

The SPEAKER. Rule 43 reads as follows: "Any rule of the House may be suspended at any time, for a specific purpose, by a majority vote; after the accomplishment of which purpose the rule shall remain in force as before." The Chair holds that if the House at this time wants to suspend a rule for a particular purpose, it could do so, but the proposition of the gentleman from Westmoreland is to take action on a rule for to-morrow. Consequently the Chair will hold that it lies over until to-morrow.

Mr. SNYDER. The rule states that it must be suspended for a specific purpose. I have asked in this motion that the rule be suspended for a specific purpose. I therefore appeal from the decision of the Chair.

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to inform the gentleman that if the rule is suspended that the suspension will begin from this moment. The gentleman has a perfect right to appeal from the decision of the Chair. Does the Chair understand that the gentleman has appealed from the decision of the Chair?

Mr. SNYDER. I do appeal, Mr. Speaker. There seems to be a misunderstanding, and I ask for a calling of the roll.

MR. RAMSEY IN THE CHAIR.

On the question,

Shall the ruling of the Chair stand as the decision of the House?

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, I should be exceedingly sorry to see the House refuse to sustain the Chair on this question. The ruling is a salutary one and its enforcement has made for the expedition of business. If we do it for the benefit of the ladies ——

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, the point of order is that we are not discussing the merits of the question now. The question is as to whether the Speaker was right in his ruling.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Walter, is entirely in order. He is discussing the question before the House.

Mr. SNYDER. The question before the House, if the Speaker please, is whether the ruling of the Speaker be correct and not as to the merits of the question, and I would suggest, rather than take up a lot of the time of the House now on the discussion of whether the ruling is correct or not ——

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to inform the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Snyder, that the gentleman, Mr. Walter, is entirely in order. To discuss the appeal he must discuss the merit of the appeal. The gentleman from Franklin will proceed.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Franklin was ——

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Snyder, is out of order.

Mr. WALTERS. I trust that the House will sustain the Chair. Each time there is a question of interest before the House there will be a motion on the part of those gentlemen favoring that question to admit persons to the floor who are excluded by the rule. If we do it at this time there will be no good reason for not doing it every time. If we do it with respect to this bill and adopt this resolution there will be no reason for not doing it with reference to the Capital Punishment Bill when that question comes up, if its friends so desire; and I trust, therefore, for the sake of the proper transaction of the business of the House, that the Chair's ruling will be sustained.

Mr. WHITAKER. Mr. Speaker, while I would have liked to seen this resolution adopted at this time and accord the visitors to-morrow this privilege, nevertheless I think in respect to the question before the House now that the Speaker is undoubtedly right that the motion which has been made partakes of the nature of a resolution and should lie over under the rules until to-morrow. I therefore hope the House will sustain the decision of the Chair.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, my object in rising some few moments ago was in order not to take up the time of the House with discussion on this resolution which I intended to withdraw but I was not given that permission.

My only object in introducing this resolution was that I thought it would be the proper thing. I felt that I should like to treat the ladies coming here just like I would have my mother or sister treated if they were to come here and that is my object in making this motion and I think it ought to prevail.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Westmoreland withdraw the appeal?

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir, I will withdraw it for the present.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman cannot withdraw the question on the appeal for the present.

The House understands the question on which it is called to vote; all those voting "aye" sustain the decision of the Chair that the resolution lies over one day; all those voting "no" vote not to sustain the decision of the Chair.

As the Chair understands the gentleman from Westmoreland, he insists upon a roll call?

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, I thought I had made myself clear when I said I withdrew the appeal.

On the question recurring.

Shall the ruling of the Chair stand as the decision of the House?

The question was unanimously decided in the affirmative and the ruling of the Chair sustained.

Section 8 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby expressly repealed

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, this is the Governor's Therapeutics Bill. It has been introduced into this legislative body for the fourth or fifth time. I recall that it was a special order of business in this House on a Monday night, two years ago, in the session of 1915. The principles embodied in the bill now before you for consideration are very much like the principles that were embodied in the bill in the last session, in 1915, with the exception that the course prescribed for the study of drugless therapeutics is more particularly detailed in this bill, requiring four years of nine months study, eight hours a day, for six days a week. That provision was eliminated in the 1915 bill, so that we have a much better bill before the session of 1917 than that of 1915. The subject of drugless therapeutics, I must confess, is one that I know very little about. The larger and greater subject and a more general one, that of medicine, is one in which every man who considers himself educated and who considers that he knows sufficient to legislate for the welfare of his constituents and for the welfare of the citizens of his State, and should know something about in general and in particular. We have at the present time in the State of Pennsylvania several different boards of medical licensure. I believe the main board of medical licensure, of which Dr. Baldy is at the head, has as its component parts members of various thoughts and cults in the medical profession. They have electics and they have allopaths and homeopaths represented on that board, each one of those men representing a different trend of thought, a different idea and a different cult which at various times met in opposition and antagonism to one another, and finally they were welded into this body now known as the Medical Board of the State of Pennsylvania. I believe that act passed some time immediately after the present constitution was put into effect. Later on the osteopaths came along and for years they clamored at the doors of the Legislature asking permission from this august body and from the Senate and the approval of the Governor that they have a separate body of their own, a separate board of their own to examine their own candidates so that their beliefs and their ideas, which they are entitled to might be considered the same as anybody else so long as they are sincere in their beliefs, and they asked that their ideas be embodied, after they passed a certain course of study and received a fair examination. When that bill was before the House it was voted down and met with the united opposition of the medical men, as I know this bill will tonight and as this bill did on many occasions before, but after repeated knocking at the doors of the Legislature it finally saw fit to pass the osteopathic bill and they have to-day a separate board of their own in the State of Pennsylvania. No harm has been done to anybody. The very great perils which were pictured by the medical men who opposed the osteopathic bill did not come to pass. No one has been hurt, no injury has been done to the citizens of the State of Pennsylvania or to the medical profession.

Then come the neuropathists, the men who teach drugless therapeutics. The difference between the man who believes in the profession of drugless therapeutics and the osteopath is, as I see it, that the osteopath believes that diseases come from the bones, and they treat the bone as the origin of the disease. The neuropath believes that the trouble originates in the nerves, and they believe in treating the nerves as the source of the disease. Now, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I want to say seriously to you that when physicians give medicine in some instances you know that it is a specific for the human system. You know that they have laxatives and you know that they have anesthetics, but nobody knows, no matter how mirthful you may or how seriously you intend to consider the matter, what injury, what damage, and what seriousness is left behind by the laxative or the anesthetic, that is taken into the human system. Here we have drugless therapeutics, physicians coming and asking for your consideration and favorable vote on this bill. I say, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, this can do no harm, they give you no medicine, they can do no harm. They have a sincere regard for their profession They intend to establish it on a high plain; they intend to incorporate a college and have anybody who takes that system educated and study in the college for a period of four years. Now, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen, I submit to you that it is no more than fair to allow these men to establish their own board of licensure because they have the prejudice of the medical board against them. They have the prejudice of other cults against them. It is no more than fair to allow these men who have an honest desire to do the right thing to establish a board of their own. Further than that they practice in Pennsylvania anyhow. They are like the osteopath whose rights you just set before the State of Pennsylvania in legal form. The Governor just aproved a bill within two or three weeks that gave the osteopath a board. Why not allow these men to do the same; why not put them on some staple basis; why not put them on a solid foundation, and let all men know in the State of Pennsylvania that drugless therapeutics is believed in here, that it is properly practiced, and that these men who are practicing have some certificate from the State? Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I have received hundreds of letters favoring treatment by drugless therapeutics. I have thousands of testimonials that I have received from men who state that they can get no benefit from medicine. They went to men who practice drugless therapeutics and low and behold! they found themselves well. A physician of the State Board of Medical Licensure under Dr. Baldi, whose name I just forget for the present, or I would give it to you, at a public hearing which was held in this hall, said he himself found many and many a case in his practice that he thought medicine would injure, and he sent them to these men who practice drugless therapeutics. That is the best illustration in the world that these men will benefit the human race. I ask, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, that you give this bill your favorable consideration.

MR. WOBENSMITH IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Stern.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Stern, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia where the college in which the four years' course is to be taken is located; and if there be such a college, how many graduates; how many members compose its faculty, and what the endowment fund is?

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, there are two colleges of that kind in Pennsylvania. One is located in Allegheny County, and the other in Philadelphia County, at 1600 Summer Street. I do not know anything about the faculty of the college in Allegheny, but I do know that the faculty of the Philadelphia college is a large faculty. I do not think they are endowed. They are poor peple, and I hope that you will give them a chance to get something.

Mr. WALTER. I should further like to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Speaker, if the Pennsylvania Dutch people who try for burns down in Lancaster County, and who say words over rheumatism, whether they would be included in this bill, and whether it would require them under the provisions of the bill to take a four years' course that they might practice upon people?

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, I do not like the levity of my friend from Franklin, but I would most respectfully refer him to my friend, Mr. Hess, from Lancaster.

Mr. URICH. Mr. Speaker, after hearing my friend and colleague, Mr. Stern, talk to you so finely on the question of drug therapeutics, and after he said to you when he started out, that he knew nothing about it, but still he was trying to tell you all about it, as though he knew everything, and was trying to foist drugless therapeutics upon every member of this House, and was trying to influence you to vote for a bill which is a vicious bill from the very beginning, I say to you, gentlemen of this House, that I want you to vote against this bill for the reasons that I will give you, which are reasons that will appeal to your sound judgment and wisdom. I shall be only too happy to present them to you. First, drugless therapy in all its branches is already regulated and licensed by the Bureau of Medical Education and Licensure.

The requirements for licensure of drugless therapy are on the basis of those established in the osteopathic act, these people being competitors of osteopathy. No complaints have ever been entered by any individual taking these examinations against their fairness or reasonableness.

Now, gentlemen, in establishing this particular branch of this department, I think we have already covered it extensively, it is not necessary to establish this bureau at all, because under its regulations, any man or woman who has been given to the act of pow-wow or witchcraft if they could establish the fact that they were in it for three or four years they could take advantage of this law and become drugless therapeutists, and at the same time, gentlemen, could issue certificates of death and certificates of birth of which they know nothing. They come into this House and ask you to pass this bill and put it upon our statute books. It would be a crime to permit anything like this to occur. It is astonishing that a man of the intelligence of my friend would permit himself to be sponsor of such a bill, when he knows better. And gentlemen, if you have drugless therapeutics how could you get at poison in your system by their methods. If you were suffering from ptomaine poisoning, bichloride poisoning, carbolic acid poisoning, or any other poisoning, either vegetable or metal, you could never get rid of it with drugless therapeutics, and I say to you, gentlemen, when you come to this bill, vote it down, because if you don't you will make Pennsylvania the dumping ground of all the fakirs in this United States.

Mr. EDGAR R. SMITH. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be stricken from the calendar.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, this is the second time an attempt of this kind has been made. I do not think it is fair. I think this bill has sufficient merit in it and sufficient people behind it to warrant free and open discussion on it, and an honest registration of every man's vote on this subject.

Mr. EDGAR R. SMITH. Mr. Speaker, I will withdraw my motion.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I will withdraw my seconding of the motion.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker, it was not my purpose at this time to rise and make any remarks on the merits or demerits of this bill, and I was in the hope, after some minor discussion, that this bill would be stricken from the calendar. There seems to be the thought in the minds of many men that this is a sort of a haphazard proposition, and it is not receiving the serious thought that it should receive from the men of this House. Mr. Stern tried to show the reasons for the passage of this bill on the ground of its merit. Let us stop for a moment and think of what are the practices of to-day from the standpoint of true medical research. We are living in an age not so solely confined to the practice of medicine as we are in what is termed preventive medicine. You men all know, you must know from your associations at home, the contagious diseases, diphtheria, typhoid fever, scarlet fever, malaria, yellow fever smallpox, and all down the category of infections, that those are the diseases that the medical fraternity itself has discovered a theory whereby to prevent the progress of this contagion. Now I ask you men in all fairness and in all seriousness if it is right that men who have sacrificed their lives to protect the people of this Commonwealth the people of this great nation, and yes, indeed, even on the foreign shores of the world, who have made recent discoveries for the treatment of infection on the battlefield—some of you men whose pleasure it has been on the Appropriation Committee to visit some of the hospitals and see the treatment of burns—is it right that these men should be placed in the same category as the man who has got to study for four years before entering a medical school, and after he has become a graduate of that school have to take one year at a hospital, and yet should this same man be permitted to go out and compete with a man who has sacrificed the best years of his life in an institution of learning? I ask in all fairness, is it right? Would there be an attorney who would not stand upon his feet and denounce a proposition whereby any justice of the peace of this Commonwealth would have granted to him the right to defend a case, say of a minor proposition, such as desertion, or the juvenile court questions? Every man who would be practicing law would be up on his feet asking every man to help to defeat such a proposition. I am only asking you men, and I trust that you will not consider my remarks as coming from a selfish standpoint—I hope that when you consider this proposition that you will give it serious thought, and will not place into our profession men who may go out of the workshop to-day and in a few months from now declare themselves as drugless therapeutists, and come before this board, and possibly for a few dollars get a certificate to practice and have decreed to them the decree of doctor of drugless therapeutics, who may go out in the field and compete with a neighbor who is a legalized practitioner of medicine. I asked the sponsor of this bill, where was the line of demarcation between neuropathy, chiropractic, between that and osteopathy, and of all the what not? There is no line, or it is so indistinct you cannot see it. There is already upon the statute books of this Commonwealth, the osteopathic act, and if these men were serious and honest in their convictions, they would not ask this House to pass a bill of this nature.

What is drugless therapeutics? Why, gentlemen, they come under the category of that department but they don't want them. They want to hoodwink everybody they possibly can.

I regret to say that I must object to the gentlemen from Philadelphia when he says that a reputable physician of Philadelphia told at a hearing before this committee that he, as a recognized physician had sent cases to drugless therapeutists. I didn't hear it and I doubt if anybody else heard it. It is possible that the gentleman told him in private but not before the hearing. There is no line of demarcation between these men and osteopaths. If there was we would not question it. The idea of men trying to say that you can touch the pneumogastric nerve of the neck without touching the flesh—what does it mean? It is nothing but massage; and I, as a physician, don't question that there are cases where persons apply to these osteopaths or chiropractics and possibly received some good. I don't question that; but if they are honest in their convictions, if they are truthful in their proposition, let them apply to the osteopathic board and they will get the honest and fair consideration of every true osteopath that they need.

I trust, therefore gentlemen, that you will defeat this bill.

Mr. MEARKLE. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, it is not my intention to take up your time in further discussion of this piece of legislation. The same legislation was before us two years ago and I was somewhat active in its defeat. The bill comes before us at this time, as previously stated, in an amended form and it is much a better piece of legislation than it was two years ago. I have no fight with the drugless therapeutists on their theory. I frankly admit I know little or nothing about it. But I do have a fight with them on the power or the authority they are asking in their bill. I hold in my hand an advertisement of the School of Drugless Therapeutics of the City of Pittsburgh. A part of its advertisement reads as follows: "In the lecture which will be given by Roy R. Reed, D. C., of the college faculty, a real spine will be used to show that the misplacement of bones in the spinal column is usually the cause of all disease." I am not altogether sure that that is true. To be frank about it, I don't think it is. I can hardly realize that that would be true of pneumonia, diphtheria, bronchitis and various diseases. I claim that the critical point in this piece of legislation is a diagnosis of the disease. They are asking in this bill, on page 6, lines 27 and 28, the right to certify to births and deaths; in other words, to practice obstetrics. Now, if they have not properly diagnosed the disease, if they have diagnosed bronchitis or diphtheria or pneumonia as a dislocated vertebra and the patient woud die, as no doubt it would, they have a beautiful opportunity to certify to the death; in other words, to their mistakes. Now, that is exactly what they want to do in this bill, certify to mistakes. They also ask to certify to births and to attend maternity cases and I am informed by physicians, in many cases to-day, an anesthetic is used in cases of that kind but there is nothing in this bill to show me that they have taken a sufficient course to justify them in practicing obstetrics. I think frankly this is a short cut to the practice of medicine, and I therefore ask you gentlemen to vote against the bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 846, as follows:

An Act providing for the creation and regulation of municipal liens and the proceedings for the collection thereof in the several boroughs of this Commonwealth

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That wherever heretofore the council of any incorporated borough of this Commonwealth has required by ordinance and caused to be graded paved curbed or macadamized with brick stone or other suitable material or otherwise improved any public street or thoroughfare or part thereof either cartway or footwalk or has caused sewers to be constructed therein or both pursuant to such ordinance but owing to some defect in the petition action of council notice publication or other proceeding necessary under existing law and ordinance to give jurisdiction to such council or owing to want of jurisdiction of such council because of non compliance with existing law as to publication of copies of ordinance and posting of handbills prior to final passage of such ordinance or owing to some defect in the ordinance or for any other reason the cost of such improvement or a portion thereof can not be legally assessed upon the property bounding or abutting upon the street or part thereof improved or owing to some defect in the statement of claim filed to secure the lien or of the failure of the borough solicitor to sign the same for the cost of such improvement payment thereof can not be enforced as was contemplated by the act or acts of the General Assembly under which the improvement was attempted to be made and statement of claim filed now by this act such improvements are made valid and binding and the council of such incorporated borough may cause the property bounding or abutting upon the street or part thereof upon which the improvement has been made or is now being made to be assessed in the manner now provided by law with such a portion of the cost of such improvement as is contemplated by the law under which the improvement was made or attempted to be made or is now being made Such assessment shall be a lien upon the property assessed The lien shall date from the completion of the improvement for which the assessment is made and shall remain a lien until fully paid and satisfied Provided That a writ of scire facias is issued to revive the same during every period of five years after a lien is filed as hereinafter provided

Section 2 The council of any incorporated borough of this Commonwealth entitled to a lien under this act shall file a lien therefore in the office of the prothonotary of the county within which the property lies within six months after the completion of the work where the improvement is now in progress or within six months after the approval of this act or where the improvement is now completed and the same shall be entered upon record as other municipal claims Such lien shall state the name of the party claimant which shall be the corporate name of the borough making the improvement the name of the owner or reputed owner of the property assessed a reasonable description of the property assessed the amount or sum claimed to be due which shall include interest on the assessment from the completion of the improvement for what improvement the claim is made the date of its completion the date of the assessment for which the lien is filed Such lien when so filed shall be prima facie evidence of all matters therein set forth and of the right of the borough to recover the amount therein claimed to be due together with interest from the date of the lien or completion of the improvement costs and an attorney's commission of five per centum for collecting

Section 3 The claim when so filed shall be proceeded upon for collection by writ of scire facias

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the sponser of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Dithrich, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DITHRICH. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask how this affects the present municipal lien law on the statute books—does it change it or add to it?

Mr. Dithrich. Mr. Speaker, This is a corrective act and only provides that where work has already been done—paving, grading, curbing and laying of sewers—and there has been some defects in the procedure, such as the failure of the borough solicitor to sign the ordinance or failure to make publication or notice, that they shall proceed to collect for that work. It does not change the existing law in any degree whatever.

On the question, recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Session 1917 — 122nd of the General Assembly

VOL. 4. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, APRIL 17, 1917. No. 39.

SENATE.

TUESDAY, April 17, 1917.

The Senate met at 11 o'clock A. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Frank B. McClain) in the Chair.

The Chaplain, Rev. Thomas W. Davis, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, we are profoundly grateful to Thee for all the blessings which we enjoy, among them the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Even this terrible war will yield to our nation benefits of unlimited value. Half-hearted Americans are already beginning to realize what is meant when we speak of a man without a country. Sifted before the great tribunal of the world's democracy, tested and tried by these terrible times, we shall come forth we believe with higher ideals and will be made better Americans. Grant these blessings, we pray, in our Saviour's name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. SPROUL, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this day of

Section 2 Thereupon it shall be the duty of the person who shall bargain for or purchase any stock of goods wares or merchandise of any kind or any goods wares or merchandise of any kind and fixtures in bulk at least ten (10) days before the completion of said purchase or the payment therefor to notify personally or by registered mail each of said creditors of the said vendor of said proposed sale the price to be paid therefor the terms and conditions thereof and a copy of the statement of creditors provided for in Section 1 of this Act

Section 3 Whenever any person shall bargain for or purchase any stock of goods wares or merchandise of any kind or any goods wares or merchandise of any kind and fixtures in bulk for cash or on credit and shall pay any part of the purchase price or execute or deliver to the vendor thereof or to his order or to any person for his use any promissory note or other evidence of indebtedness for said purchase price or any part thereof without first having demanded and received from said vendor or from his agent the statement provided for in Section 1 of this Act and verified as there provided and without paying or seeing to it that the purchase money of said property is applied to the payment of the bona fide claims of the creditors of the vendor pro rata as shown upon such verified statement and without first having sent the notices of said sale and said statement of creditors as provided for in Section 2 of this Act then such sale or transfer shall be fraudulent and void Provided however that no proceeding at law or equity shall be brought against the purchaser to invalidate any such sale after the expiration of ninety days from the consummation thereof

Section 4 Any vendor of any stock of goods wares or merchandise of any kind or of goods wares or merchandise of any kind and fixtures in bulk or any person who is acting for or on behalf of any vendor who shall knowingly or wilfully make or deliver or cause to be made or delivered a statement as provided for in Section 1 of this Act which shall not include the names of all of the creditors of such vendor with the correct amount due and to become due to each of them or which shall contain any false or untrue statement shall be deemed guilty of misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding Five Thousand ($5,000) Dollars or to undergo an imprisonment not exceeding six months or both or either at the discretion of the court

Section 5 A sale and transfer or attempted sale and transfer in bulk in contemplation of this act shall be deemed to be any sale or transfer in bulk of the whole or a large part of any stock of goods wares or merchandise of any kind or of goods wares or merchandise of any kind and fixtures otherwise than in the ordinary course of trade and in the regular and usual prosecution of the seller's business Provided however that if such vendor produces and delivers a written waiver of the provisions of this Act from his creditors as shown by such verified statements then in that case the provisions of this Act shall not apply

Section 6 Nothing contained in this act shall apply to sales made under any order of a Court or to any sales made by executors assignees for the benefit of creditors administrators receivers or any public officer in his official capacity or by any officer of a Court

Section 7 Provided that nothing herein contained shall prevent or hinder the vendor from demanding and receiving security from any purchaser or vendee to insure faithful performance of the contract prior to the furnishing the list of creditors as hereinabove set forth

Section 8 Any person or persons firm or corporation or any person or persons acting for or on behalf of any firm or corporation who shall procure from any seller or vendor a list of creditors as hereinabove set forth through fraud misrepresentation or deceit for the purpose of injuring said seller or vendor in his business and not for the purpose of securing the creditors of such seller or vendor as contemplated by this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars

Section 9 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—1.

Leiby,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the House is requested.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair desires to call the attention of the Senators to their not either anwsering to their names, or when answering making answer in so low a tone of voice that they cannot be heard. There are a number of important bills on this calendar to-day, and if later on it should be discovered that somebody was recorded improperly, there will be much objection on the part of the Senator so recorded, and possibly some scandal. Now, let us obviate objection and we will prevent the possibility of scandal by answering to your name when called in a tone that is sufficiently loud to be heard by the Clerk.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 612 (House Bill No. 847), as follows:

An Act to amend section two thousand six hundred twenty of an act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred eleven entitled "An Act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith"

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now resume the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 588, on third reading postponed for the present, entitled

An Act to amend section fourteen of an act approved the second day of June one thousand nine hundred fifteen entitled "An Act providing for the creation and administration of a State fund for the insurance of compensation for injuries to employes of subscribers thereto declaring false oaths by the subscribers to be misdemeanors and providing penalties for the violation thereof."

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 588, entitled

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. President, lest some of the members of the Senate may not understand the provisions of this bill, I desire to call the attention of the Senate to the importance of its passage. Two years ago I think perhaps the most bitter fight that ever took place on the floor of this Senate was waged upon the proposition to bring the miners of Pennsylvania within the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Law. The members of this Senate who happened to belong to the body at that time will recall that that was a contest and fight which ran over weeks during the session of 1915, and when the matter came to final consideration in the Senate, it was the unanimous will of the members of this body that the miners of Pennsylvania should come within the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Law, and yet when that compensation fund is created and put into working order, we are confronted with the fact that the insurance which is carried by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania upon what they call the hazard risks, meaning especially the miners of this Commonwealth, is placed with a company that is not licensed to do business not only in this Commonwealth, but is not licensed to do business in any Commonwealth in this country. The insurance which is carried by the State Insurance Fund is carried in what is known as the London-Lloyds and when a resolution was presented to this body some weeks ago calling upon the Insurance Commissioner to present a report to this Senate indicating what insurance was underwritten by it in its insurance fund, we found a very large amount of that insurance carried in what is known as the London-Lloyds. The only excuse and only reason which has been advanced why that should be so is that it costs the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania $38,000 in excess of what it would cost to carry the insurance with companies licensed to do business within this Commonwealth. For the information of the Senate, I simply desire to state what the London-Lloyds are. It is not a lawfully incorporated company. It is a partnership consisting of approximately twenty-five Englishmen living in the City of London, and if there were a loss which was contested by that insurance partnership, having its place of business on the other side of the waters, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, or any person carrying insurance, would be without right to recover upon that except he took his case to England. I respectfully submit, Mr. President, that it becomes the duty of the Commonwealth first and above everyone else to see that she carries her insurance, and the Legislature of this Commonwealth should write upon her statute books the necessity of a requirement to that effect. Before any person can take insurance with a company here, the State requires that the insurance companies shall be licensed to do business within the State, and that brings two things to the Commonwealth, first, a revenue derived from taxation for their right to be here, and secondly, an assurance to the person in whose favor the insurance is carried, that he will have the right to recover and get his money; because the insurance laws of the Commonwealth require that before an insurance company, licensed to do business within the State, shall be permitted to do or carry on its business, it shall deposit with the State a certain reserve. We find more than three hundred thousand workmen of Pennsylvania intended to be covered by the provisions of the workmen's compensation fund, and awaken to the fact that they are not protected by a reliable insurance collectible at home. The insurance company to which I refer is engaged in business of every kind. I could go to one of its agents now, and take out a policy that would guarantee my safe passage across the ocean. I wager I could make a bet, and I could procure insurance insuring the payment of the bet in case I should win it, and I respectfully submit, Mr. President, that Pennsylvania, when she underwrites insurance, should underwrite it in insurance companies which undoubtedly guarantee the payment of the money to the insured. When we passed the Workmen's Compensation Fund in 1915, we did not guarantee the credit of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to the payment of insurance policies. When you carry insurance in the Workmens' Compensation Fund, you do not have standing behind that insurance the funds and moneys of the Commowealth as a guarantee for payment, because we find the third section of that act reads as follows: "Certain sums to be paid by employes as hereinafter provided are hereby constituted a fund to be known as the State Workmen's insurance fund for the purpose of insuring such employes agaist liability under Article three of the Workmen's Compensation Act of 1915, and of assuring the payment of compensation therein provided. Such fund shall be administered by the board without liability on the part of the State except as hereinafter provided." And the statement as hereinafter provided is this: In section 28, "the sum of three hundred thousand dollars or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated for the expenses of the organization and administration of the said fund." The only purpose for which the Legislature ever appropriated this money, these three hundred thousand dollars, was to see that the fund should be created and administered, but there is not a single word in that act nor is there a single word in any Act of Assembly which guarantees the payment of insurance by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Mr. President, I respectfully submit, that hazard insurance can be obtained from the companies doing business within the State, and I contend if the officers will not take insurance from licensed companies the Legislature should write on its statute books an Act of Assembly requiring them to do it, and Mr. President, I respectfully ask the careful consideration of this bill upon the part of every member of this Senate in the interest of justice, not only to the companies doing business in the State, but in the interest of that greater justice in favor of the workmen of this Commonwealth, who are obliged to earn their living beneath the ground, and who when they go into what is regarded as the most hazardous employment known to the people of the Commonwealth, they may have insurance if anything befalls them while in that employment, as insurance on other people that the insurance which is carried in their behalf and for the benefit of their families will be met and paid.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, for the information of the Senate I would just like to explain this bill in a brief way as I understand it. It does not make any difference to me personally whether this bill passes or whether it does not. The facts of this case are that the workmen are not only getting the Insurance Fund of the State behind them but they are also re-insured in Lloyds, so that if Lloyds fail or refuse to pay a claim—in more than one hundred years their credit has never been questioned—but if they did fail or refuse to pay any of these claims, the State fund is still there. The reason for re-insuring the most hazardous claims of the State is for the purpose of not putting your State Insurance Fund in danger of being wiped out by some terrible explosion similar to that which took place last week down in Delaware County. Now the reason that the Insurance Board of the Workmen's Act went to Lloyds to get insurance was because of the stability of the Lloyds, for one reason, and the other reason was that none of the State Insurance people wanted to reinsure these hazardous risks, the same as the Lloyds do, and, of course, the report from the State Board of the Insurance Fund shows that they took Lloyds after every other insurance company in Philadelphia refused to take them. The Manager of the State Insurance Fund told me recently that if this bill passes it will cost at least thirty-eight thousand dollars more a year to do the same insurance that they insured in Lloyds last year, and it is not true that they will take these hazardous risks at any time. To repeat, I have no interest in the bill except the explanation that the manager of the insurance fund came to me and asked me to repeat it to the Senate. What position would our insurance fund be in to back up these workmen in the State if we had some awful calamity and it wiped out the entire fund? Then the workmen's act, or the insurance fund would become null and void, and those who are insured in it would lose their money. The safe way is to have the insurance fund behind these poor workmen and then have another company behind the Insurance Fund; then the Insurance Fund is safe and the workmen are safe.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. President, I simply desire to say in reply to the Senator from Philadelphia that when the Insurance Fund was created, they set up a very unique position with the insurance companies doing business within the Commonwealth, they arbitrarily fixed a rate at which they will sell insurance. They say to the insurance companies doing business within the State that they cannot do business unless they charge ten per cent. higher than State rates. They do not permit insurance companies to do business in this State upon rates which the insurance companies might fix, but they set up an arbitrary rate and then the State Insurance Fund, instead of standing behind its policy holders, instead of creating a reserve which would be good business, I submit, for the purpose of obtaining greater business and endeavoring to declare a dividend on the first year, and I respectfully submit in the application of business rules and business principles there cannot possibly have been earned by the Commonwealth or any individual or any corporation what was returned in the nature of dividends to those taking insurance in the State insurance fund. And when you come to look into the Insurance Fund you find the State not with sufficient reserve, and no obligation upon the part of the State to pay these insurance policies. But even with that condition, would the Senator from Philadelphia or any other person argue that it would be wise or provident to go into a foreign country and take insurance with a company not licensed to do business in any state in the Union and for the sum of thirty-eight thousand dollars. This is the statement which I understood the Senator to make, and I am advised that this company has contested claims. I understand in the County of Lancaster one was contested not very long ago, and I am also advised before you can collect any risk on policies insured by that company you are obliged to go down into your pocket and take therefrom one per cent. of the amount of the insurance and give it to the broker on the other side of the water as payment of his services rendered to the one who is in the State of Pennsylvania, endeavoring to collect his risk because he is suffering his loss or the family may have suffered the loss of his life in the hazardous work which he was called upon to undertake.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, in order that we might not be deceived in this matter, let us see if we cannot ascertain just what the story is. My recollection of the passage of that bill is that at the time the bill was framed, was about to be passed, that the insurance companies of Pennsylvania were dissatisfied with the rate and that at the time and before the passage of the bill they openly and notoriously stated that if this Senate and Legislature insisted on these rates, there would be no insurance in Pennsylvania. Now those of us who are familiar with the insurance business and those of us who are familiar with the placing of insurance, know this one thing, there is no closer corporation, no more compact trust combination in all this great United States than the combination of insurance companies. We have no say in our every-day life as to what the rates may be. We have no right to demand insurance if these underwriters get together and say this man cannot have insurance, or the rate in this particular locality is so much, or the rate in this particular locality is so much. There is nothing else left for the residents of this Commonwealth to do but bow their heads and do the inevitable and that is pay the rates. In other words, the insurance combination has the citizens of this and every other community by the throat and they must pay. Now then, there is no reason why the various insurance companies doing business in this Commonwealth cannot have the business if they want the business. Let them meet competition. It is the only experience I have ever known of where the insurance people doing business in the Commonwealth were met face to face with a proposition which said to them, you may grab the people of the Commonwealth by the throat and compel them to pay the rates you say, or you get no insurance. This Commonwealth, has said to Mr. Insurance Combination, we will pay you these rates or get business somewhere else. There is no driving Pennsylvania insurance companies, or those doing business in Pennsylvania away from this business, if the business is worth while having, it is here for them to get, but at the price that other insurance companies are willing to take it, and it does not befit us as members of this Assembly to stand here because of the fact that the insurance companies of Pennsylvania are dissatisfied and take $40,000 of our fund and hand it to the combination that has every citizen of this Commonwealth by the throat, and I think it ill befits us to place this great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in that same grip or vice. Now insofar as the Lloyds are concerned, it is true it is a combination of wealthy men in England who furnish insurance and they have been furnishing it for years, and I believe it is the strongest combination in the world. They place insurance of every kind, at every time, in every place that is within reason, they charge rates according to their hazard and they have never been known to fail to pay a just obligation. That is the history possibly for one hundred years back or more. This is the time for this Senate to say to that combination, which is the strongest combination of any business in this great United States, this is the time for the Senate to say, "You cannot take Pennsylvania by the throat, you have got its farmer, you have got its laboring man, you have got its business man, and every man buying insurance, kneeling at your footstools, kneeling at your dictation." You have to pay their price or you go without insurance. Nobody in this Senate would do otherwise than like Pennsylvania and home industries to have this business but let them have it at the price outsiders charge. They can have it and it is here for them—but they want this Senate to say to the State of Pennsylvania, "Well, this insurance combination licked you too, and you have to pay the freight same as we, this board of Underwriters dictate or you cannot have the insurance." This one time we have a chance to get back at this great combination and trust and I hope this Senate will not approve of this measure.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I would just like to explain very briefly to the Senate that outside insurance companies or insurance companies of the State send agents all around to get business which the State does not do, and of course, the State insures ten per cent. cheaper than the regular companies that have agents all over the State bringing in business. If the State employed a lot of agents and sent them around and paid them a percentage I suppose they could charge ten per cent. more too and compete with the companies, but as they do not do that they are entitled to give a lower rate because the people bring the business to the State and the State does not have to go after that. The fact that Lloyds back up this fund does not make the fund any less substantial, it makes it more substantial. It prevents any occurrence whereby an explosion would wipe out the whole fund and leave the State Insurance Fund, the workmen of the State, with no chance of paying and the workmen with no chance of receiving. Now for the benefit of those who were not members of the Senate when this bill was passed, this very Senate was lined up with all the high insurance men of the State who came here to show the committee that this bill should not pass, and when the Attorney General got through with them he just showed that they made a clear profit on their premiums, the year before, that the lowest company was sixty-five per cent. and the highest eighty-five per cent. So you know these insurance companies certainly did not buy coal by the bucket that particular winter. I want to say I have no interest in the bill one way or the other.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I think the arguments of the Senator from Philadelphia should convince the members of this Senate that this bill should pass. We are now upon the verge of extra taxation that is to be levied throughout the length and breadth of this United States for the purpose of accumulating funds to defend this Commonwealth and these United States with all the money at our command possible. I am engaged in business relations with these men, and have been almost every year all my life for the last twenty-five years, and I have never found a more substantial, more thoroughly reliable body of men in my association with men than I have found in the insurance companies of the United States and of the State of Pennsylvania. If we are going to sit here and permit the United States to levy a condition upon their receipts and profits, say it is sixty-five per cent., then they are to pay to the United States government for the next year or two years probably forty per cent. of the sixty-five per cent., leaving their funds available for their risks in a very precarious condition, and it ill behooves the members of this Senate to say that we will permit men to come from the other side of the water without any restrictions, not the payment of a dollar, and that we, the citizens of this Commonwealth, are to be saddled with this condition. I cannot believe this constitutes the attitude of the Senate, and I hope this bill will pass out of fairness and justice to these members.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. C. A. SNYDER read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 870, entitled

An Act to prohibit the appointment of non-residents to any office, position, or place, or as an employe under the Commonwealth.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary Special.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. EYRE. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until 10 o'clock to-morrow morning.
Mr. SASSAMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.
The motion was agreed to.
The Senate adjourned at 2.47 o'clock P. M. until Wednesday morning, April 18, 1917, at 10 o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

TUESDAY, April 17, 1917.

The House met at 10.30 o'clock A. M.
The SPEAKER (Richard J. Baldwin) in the Chair.

The Chaplain, Rev. S. G. Zerfass, offered the following prayer:

O Lord, this beautiful morning we would acknowledge Thy divine providence in everything that we do or say. May Heaven's richest benediction attend us in all our comingling with humanity. Give us clearer visions of life's duties; intensify our every endeavor for good; enlarge our spheres of actions and graces; beautify our Christian characters by causing us to continually go about doing kind acts so that we write our names in the hearts of men and inscribe our spiritual worth in the Lamb's Book of Life.

Give us strength, patience and endurance to overcome all evil, to resist temptations, to practice more tolerance, and to glorify Thy most Holy Name. Grant all these favors, and save us all. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings, when, on motion of Mr. Bovee, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

PETITION.

PROTESTING AGAINST REPEAL OF NON-PARTISAN BALLOT, FOR ELECTION OF OFFICERS IN CITIES OF THE SECOND CLASS.

Mr. GEARY presented the petition from the City Council of the City of Pittsburgh protesting against passage of bill repealing the law providing for the election of officers of cities of the second class on a non-partisan ballot.

Referred to the Committee on Elections.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED.

By Mr. WOODWARD. House Bill No. 1514.

An Act creating a Commission of Public Safety and Defense to prepare for the defense of the Commonwealth, the safety of its people and the protection of their property, and to aid the Government of the United States in protecting and defending said Government and the people thereof, and their property; and making an appropriation.

Referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

BILL ON THIRD READING (SPECIAL ORDER).

The SPEAKER. The hour of 10.30 A. M. having arrived, the Chair lays before the House House Bill No. 117, File Folio 2257, the special order set for this hour.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 117, entitled

An Act proposing an amendment to section one article eight of the Constitution of Pennsylvania.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WHITAKER. Mr. Speaker, this bill proposes an amendment to the Constitution, which if adopted by another legislature, will start the legislative process which will enable the people to pass on this subject three and a half years from now, or November, 1920. This subject has long since passed the stage of frivolous discussion. It is now a serious matter in the minds of most of the voters and nearly all of the people in this State. That fact is shown by the great interest shown and the numerous resolutions lately presented by the two hundred and fifty labor unions and other labor organizations to the members of this House. It shows it is a live issue, one that is calling earnestly and constantly upon our attention and which can only be settled by again referring it to the people for a final decision. When this question was submitted to a vote of the people a few years ago, a greater interest was then shown by the voters than in voting upon any other amendment submitted to the people since the adoption of the Constitution. The vote at that time, which was an off year, and when four other amendments were being considered at the same time, was three hundred and eighty-five thousand votes for it, with four hundred and forty-one thousand votes opposed to it, making a total of eight hundred and twenty-six thousand voters who expressed their opinion on this subject. Yet the majority opposed to the adoption of the amendment amounted to six and a half per cent. of the vote, a majority which many and many a time by which a political party has been defeated, and yet that party was returned triumphant perhaps six months or a year afterward. At that same time thirty-three of the sixty-seven counties actually gave a majority in favor of this amendment. This certainly shows that there is no lack of interest in the minds of the people or the voters in this State on this subject, and if you add to that fact the undoubed truth that constantly sentiment is growing in its favor, if you recall the fact that three of the large and important states, within the past year or so, have adopted suffrage, if you recall also that in Europe our greatest and largest ally on the other side, Great Britain, has come to the conclusion that it is time to accord women this privilege, when we remember that Canada has already put in complete suffrage, and even that the new democracy of Russia is preparing to include this as one of its blessings of its new-born liberty, we must realize certainly that it is a live question and one which is appropriate at this time to put before the voters. Within the past year or so the large states of Ohio, Indiana and North Dakota have adopted suffrage in one form or another, and there is no question but that the subject is growing keener and closer to the minds of the people every day, and the legislative machinery, which is necessary to bring about another referendum on the subject ought now to be started, because even at best another vote cannot be taken until November, 1920, over five years after the last decision. I think it is only fair at this time that we should determine this question, not by saying that it is a matter unworthy of the voters' consideration, but on the contrary we should say that that is the place for it to be decided, by the voters of the Commonwealth, and it ought to be submitted in full and fair confidence so that it may be decided finally and decided right.

MR. MILLIRON IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. MILNER. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House: I believe that we should favor this amendment and give the men of Pennsylvania the right to vote again at the polls upon this subject in 1920.

In 1915 with no educational campaign among the voters, a similar amendment was defeated by ony 55,000 votes. We should be fair to both the men and the women of this State and at least allow them to deliberate upon the great question of granting woman suffrage, and indicate their preference three years hence.

I have always been an apostle of mere man—the old fellow who brings home the rent, eats out of the kettle at noon—and fills it with kindling to carry home in the evening—the old fellow who pays for the clothes, food, heat and light and wrestles with the mortgage—the old codger who tunnels the mountains, bridges the rivers, builds the railroads, endures the privations of construction camps, breathes the compressed aid in the caissons—hews the wood and draws the water—passes laws for the protection of women and with infinite thought and back-breaking labor constructs the astonishing apparatus of civilization. Those old fellows who fight the bloody battles of the world and fill the war trenches with themselves. I stand for. No one now denies in this country that under certain proper conditions they should have the right to vote. But we seem to forget that women also are part and parcel of our body politic—that they bear, rear and educate the children, keep the home, care for and administer to the men; that their part in the life of the states is important and essential; that they have worthy ideas that it would be to the benefit of mankind to express in governmental action. For untold centuries women have been regarded as inferior to men—she has been kept in the background. In the Hindoo scriptures it is provided that man's will is his wife's will; and if he die first, her religion demands that she shall ascend the funeral pyre and herself burn over the remains of her husband. She is taught that in doing this, she gains some short leave of Heaven, not like her husband who enters into an everlasting kingdom, but a temporary rest and peace with him or near him in the heavenly abode. But when the wife dies first, what then? Does the husband robe himself in white and with uplifted face, trusting in heaven, quietly and serenley ascend the funeral pyre and burn with his departed wife? No, there is no record of a case of that kind. So we might take up each nation and each period of history, the Turkish harems with their virtual women prisoners, the slavish wives of the Romans, whom they lent to their friends, the woman drudges of present day continental Europe. In all times and all countries, women have been subdued and restrained in their social development. English and American men have put their women on a plane of equality with themselves in everything except political rights. In neither country have women lost any of their feminity, none of their charm. But they have come to a realization of their rights and so have the men. In the United States eleven States and one Territory have granted full suffrage to women, four more States have granted presidential suffrage and nineteen more have granted partial suffrage so that there are only fourteen States in the Union, including Pennsylvania, that have granted no suffrage to their women.

New York and Maine have recently referred woman suffrage amendments to the people. It is apparent that England will soon grant suffrage to women. Universal suffrage in all of the United States is inevitable—the granting of suffrage to women is simply an incident in the marvelous advance the world is making. The wonderful realities of modern life seem like vaporings of a dreamer when first we hear them, yet as Kaufman says, "A flash out in the night leaps leagues of snarling seas and cries to shore for help which but for one man's dream would never come. Wings of canvas beat the air and add the highways of the eagles to the human paths. A god-hewn voice is caught upon a disk of wax and wells out through a throat of wood to last beyond the maker of the song because a dreamer dreamt.

Lord Kelvin said that just as the inventions of the past 100 years surpassed all the inventions of the preceding centuries, so the inventions of the next 50 years will surpass those of the century which has just come to a close. Think of it, gentlemen, we are trembling on the verge of marvels, we are going to live out the day dreams and fairy tales of our youth.

In such an age it is fitting that universal suffrage should prevail—and it will—it is in keeping with the spirit of the age—it will help to purify politics and the law—I, therefore, intend to vote for this amendment and hope my fellow members of the House will be chivalrous enough to the ladies to do likewise.

SPEAKER BALDWIN IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. PALMER. Mr. Speaker, I present the following petitions from the Labor Unions of Pennsylvania in favor of the Womans Suffrage proposition.

The SPEAKER. Does the Chair understand that these are resolutions that the gentlemen from Schuylkill has presented?

Mr. PALMER. Mr. Speaker, they are resolutions which have been passed by the Labor Organizations of Pennsylvania, a great many in number, and they want this amendment passed. I offer them as petitions.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will recognize them as being filed with the Chief Clerk, as provided by the Rules of the House.

Mr. STOFFLET. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I have been here but a very short time but I have been here long enough to notice that nearly every measure that is brought before this House, has one side to it that receives more consideration than another, and that is the economic side of it.

Now, let us pause for an instant and consider the economic side of the measure that is before us this morning. There are twenty-seven million men of voting age and twenty-four million women of voting age in this country. Today we are printing and distributing for the use and accommodation of the twenty-seven million men who vote thirty million ballots. Now let use add, by legislative enactment, twenty-four million women to this voting list and we will be obliged to double the number of ballots so distributed yearly; we will be obliged to double the number of polling places; we will be obliged to double the number of election officers to man these polling places; we will be obliged to issue and to print double the number of return sheets; and it will take twice as long to compute the official count as it does now; in short, all of which means double the expense. Now, gentlemen, what are we going to get for this vast outlay of money? What is it that the suffragette is going to give us in return for this money? That is the question to be considered. Consider this for one moment from the economic standpoint. Does it pay? And what secrets of good legislation are hidden in the brains of the suffragettes, I would like to know. What law is there, beneficient to mankind, that they cannot secure under our present system? Ever since the suffrage question has become a public annoyance and indubitable menace to our free institutions I have asked several statesmen of international reputation and indisputable ability this question: "Has a Republican form of government been brought to the state of perfection in this country? Invariably I received the same answer: "Decidedly not." These are men who are learned in the law, men versed in every department and feature of State government, men who ought to know and who do know; and if what they say is true then this is no time to inject into the politics of this country a question with such a troublesome feature.

If what they say be not true that our government has not been brought to a state of perfection in this country, then looking at all other things in an imperfect condition it is still in an experimental stage. We must admit that our form of government is the grandest that the world has ever seen, but if it had arrived at a state of perfection it would again be not only unwise but truly foolish to inject into it any new and troublesome political features, for fear of disturbing the state of perfection which it has taken us centuries to arrive at. It has been stated on the floor of this House that a good many states have adopted woman suffrage. So they have, but let me say this, that the suffragists, since we have a number of states that have adopted suffrage, in those states there are thousands and thousands of square miles of unoccupied territory and if the electorate and all such of this grand old Commonwealth are not suited with this State without suffrage let them go there; that is the place for them. Suffragists have resorted to all kinds of misleading statements and untruths to carry their points. They have stolen the slogan from the colonists of 1776 that "Taxation without Representation is tyranny." There is no such thing as that in this country at the present time. They have attempted by all the powers they could invoke to their assistance to establish a parallel between the colonists of 1776 and prior to that time with the women that want the vote today and they have failed utterly, for the simple reason that between these two no parallel exists. The men in the British Parliament who voted the taxes in 1776 and prior, the colonists did no pay one single cent of that tax. On the contrary, the more money they could extract from the colonists the less they themselves had to pay in England. Well in this country seven-eighths of the taxes, by some singular coincidence are paid by seven-eights of the men; and by another singular coincidence the remaining one-eighth of the taxes are paid by one-eighth of the women, not on wealth or property which they have created or acquired but on wealth and property that has descended to them from some male member of the family; a grandfather, a father, an uncle or some other male representative of the family. Another mistatement that they make is when they say as to the benefits that would accrue to the laboring classes. Who ever heard that the laborer and mechanic increased his wages or bettered his working conditions by votes? They have had the ballot for more than one hundred years. The laboring man and mechanic looks to labor organiztions and labor unions for better wages and better working conditions, and not to votes. There is, as I have said before, twenty-four million women of voting age in this country. Out of these twenty-four million there are over three million who are engaged in wage earning occupations. What earthly use could this handfull of wage earning women have by a vote in any political conditions against the twenty-one millions who are not so engaged? It is absurd. The reason why women do not earn the wages that men earn is, first, because of their physical condition, and this you cannot change by votes. Secondly, because the average length of the wage earning life of a woman is seven years, hardly long enough for a woman to become proficient in any one branch of industry. After a period of seven years engaged in wage earning occupations they graduate into matrimony, which is the desire and expectation of every normal woman. The women in the states of Washington and Oregon in 1914 defeated an eight-hour law and they defeated a forty-eight hour week law; they defeated a room ventilation law. The have not been equal in New York, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Connecticut, Michigan and Pennsylvania, which are in the forefront for good laws for women and children—Judge Ben Lindsay in 1915 in a speech in Denver said that Colorado was twenty years behind Massachusetts and other eastern states in in laws relating to women and children in spite of suffrage. Look at the promises they make to local optionists and prohibitionists. They say "Give us the ballot and then you will get what you want." Have they proved it? In one of our western states when it was referred to the voters whether the number of saloons in a certain town be decreased from eighty to forty the women decided the liquor interest who publicly congratulated the suffragists for the work they did. In another city the suffragists had a parade and they excluded from that parade the women of the Women's Christian Temperance Union. There is no truth in it and public confidence has had several severe jolts and it cannot stand many more from the suffragists. I have said normal women. It is not the duty of women to go about on this subject. If women would only realize that men and women were not made for competition but for co-operation then they would come to us and say, "We don't want to usurp your places, neither in politics nor in public life, but help us to find our places so that we may do more for you and for our children and for your children," and if they want to come tha tway or if they would come that way the men in this House would be only too glad to say we are only too happy to assist you. I honestly believe that the men who vote against this measure today are the men that are going to try to save women from themselves. Thos are the men who stand here today to protect the honor the virtue and the sancitity of womanhood and the home.

Mr. LAUCKS. Mr. Speaker, it falls to my lot to answer the arguments advanced by the gentleman who has just proceeded me. The arguments which have been advanced by the gentlemen from Northumberland, who seems to place special emphasis upon the economic phase of this proposition is not difficult to do. He seems to be very much disturbed about the actual cost of printing ballots that would have to be printed if women are allowed to vote and that it will require twice as many ballots as it does at the present time. I would like to ask the gentleman what he would prefer to have? Whether he would have the number of ballots printed that we do print at the present time or to have a system of government where there are practically no ballots printed. If that agrument holds good, when women are allowed to vote, the same arguments would apply at the present time and the cost that is now imposed upon the people in general for printing ballots, if so large a number could be eliminated, if only ten or fifteen per cent. of the people of these United States were allowed to vote that might, according to the argument of the gentleman improve matters. Go one step further: We could improve, according to the argument of this gentlemen this condition by having a system of government like that of Turkey where there are no ballots to be printed; or a system of government like that which has previously existed in Russia where there are no ballots to be printed. It seem to me, gentlemen, that anyone whether he is prejudiced either for or against equal suffrage, can see that there is absolutely nothing in this argument. The gentleman referred to our system of government as the best system of government existing on the face of the earth but he said, "It is not perfect." We agree with him on that.

Our system of government is not perfect, but then he went one step further and said we must not, or we should not, inject anything new until this system is made perfect. I would like to ask the gentleman how we are going to perfect this system of government unless we inject something new. There are those among us who are always opposed to anything new. They are afraid of it. I do not know exactly why that is. Perhaps they have some particular interest that they fear is going to be injured. If we are not to inject anything new, we are going to stay exactly where we are, and this system of government if it is not perfect will never become perfect. We now elect Senators by the direct vote of the people. Was not that something new? Was not that injected into a system which was established a number of years ago by our forefathers? Do we not see that it is an improvement? Those men who are always afraid of injecting something new or taking hold of an experiment, place themselves in the same position as those people who opposed anything new centuries ago. If we were always opposed to something new, we would still be worshiping idols of wood and stone—gods of wood and stone—and we would still be in the same position politically, educationally and morally we were five thousand years ago.

This question it seems to me is one of great importance because it involves the principal of democracy; because the sentiment in favor of woman suffrage is growing. It is not only a State wide issue, but it is a Nation wide issue as well, yes, even a world wide issue. State after state, as well as nation after nation is considering this matter seriously and adopting it as rapidly as they possibly can. There is one agrument advanced by the opposition which it seems to me does not carry great weight, and that is giving the right to vote to women would be an imposition upon those who do not want it. It seems to me that it is a greater imposition upon those who do want it if we refuse to give those persons the right of suffrage. There is nothing to compel anyone to vote or to hold office even though they are given that right.

Now, if there is nothing to compel any women to vote or hold office, how is it that this can be an imposition upon the one who does not desire to do so, if they are merely given that privilege by law. Another argument advanced is that woman's place is in the home. I would like to ask what is meant by the home. Does that mean that woman's is within the confines of her own house? Is it the idea that woman is to be a slave in the kitchen? That she is not to come into contact with the world in general? It is said that woman's place is in the home for the purpose of properly bringing up children. How can woman properly bring up children if she is not allowed to come into contact with the affairs of everyday life? How can mothers teach their boys those things that boys ought to know if she is not allowed to get out into the world and come into contact with those things about which boys should be taught.

Another argument is that women would lose their influence. It seem to me that that needs no comment. Women have a certain influence but at the present time they can exert that influence only indirectly, and anyone knows, who makes a study of the subject, that indirect influence is very slow. It may exert itself in the course of time, but the fact is that it canot be produced until time has elapsed. The people of Russia no doubt desired a change many many years ago, but they were in exactly the same position as woman. They could not exert their influence directly and as a result of that a revolution was necessary. One other argument is that because woman cannot fight, that is woman cannot serve in the army, they should not be allowed to vote. May I ask you this: How many men who cast their ballots every year are physically, mentally, or morally able to be members of the United States Army? Thousands of them. If we wish to stop there and say that because woman cannot fight at the front, or in the trenches, they should not be allowed to vote, we are advancing an argument that has absolutely nothing in it. Besides do woman take any part in actual warfare? Take into consideration the catastrophe at Chester only a few days ago. The majority of those people, were women and girls. They were engaged in the manufacture of munitions, and that is exactly the thing that takes place when war demands it. The men are called to the front and the women are called upon to bear the burden at home. That is exactly what is happening in Europe to-day, and if it happened in Europe, it will happen here. If women are obliged to bear the burden at home, are they not taking part in actual warfare just as well as the men? I do not think it is necessary for me to take up any more time. It seems to me that any one after giving this subject due consideration, and after listening to the arguments in favor of this amendment that have proceded mine, must come to the conclusion that this amendment should be submitted to the people of Pennsylvania in 1920. If you are not actually in favor of woman suffrage, you should be chivalrous enough to let the people of Pennsylvania decide for themselves whether or not woman shall have the right to vote.

Mr. BENCHOFF. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I believe in the old saying, "that the government is of the people, for the people and by the people." Perhaps that is quoted wrong, nevertheless, it means what I mean. I do not believe that we have a right to discriminate between the classes of people.

We, the people, are the government, and therefore should have the right to say what the government shall be. I have been engaged in school work all my lifetime, and my judgment and knowledge up to this time have shown to me plainly that women cope with men equally in intelligence. In our common schools seventy-five per cent. of the girls are graduates of the high school, and twenty-five per cent. are boys. In nine cases out of ten a girl leads the class, showing that girls rule and lead in intelligence. Now, why can any sane man say that an intelligent woman, a creature of God's work, shall be deprived of the right of voting? Now take the history in the past and look over the nations and their government. Man has ruled not from the point of intelligence, but from the point of physical strength. Now I claim, or ask for justice for all. Why should a woman be deprived of the right to make a law, and yet at the same time be subjected to the law? Women to-day pay taxes; they are submitted to the courts, and they must be content according as the decisions are given by the judges. Therefore, I would ask you, gentlemen, in a matter of common sense, in a matter of justice to all, to vote to-day and give us the right to say whether women shall have the right to vote. I would ask you to do that.

Mr. WILLIAM DAVIS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this is a home question and one in which we should be familiar. The question of the right of woman suffrage is a grave question; it is a grave problem. It should not be met or looked upon as a matter of gossip, because we are dealing with one of the most serious subjects and propositions that can come before a legislative body of this State or nation. We have different classes among the masses. I only wish to say a word or two upon this subject for the reason that I did not expect to talk on it. In the first place, we have the motherhood of the nation and the State. In the second place, we have the high-heeled, low-necked, short-skirted society lady who manages to reach her limousine some time in the afternoon, to go downtown to take her lunch with some other subject, while her husband is busy at his desk. In the third place, we have another class, the scarlet woman, who is on the street with the lash snapped in the ring of some mastiff, moving down the street to meet some other cur to spend the balance of the day. I only wish to say a word, Mr. Speaker, about the motherhood of the State and nation, for there is where we began and there is where the prosperity of this State, nation and the world began, with the motherhood of the State, the motherhood of the family. Talk about molding sentiment and character! Where is the sentiment and character of manhood built, and who builds it? Is it man? No. We have to admit it is the mother. The mother has more to do than ever the man can or ever will be able to do. Why, she molds character and sentiment in her unborn baby before she gives birth to it. Her habits and customs and the life she walks mold the character and sentiment of her offspring. She then takes that child, and what does she do with it? She loves it up to her bosom, she administers to that child love and affection, she nourishes it on her bosom, the most sacred place on earth that ever you and I have rested, and while that child is nursing and receiving its nourishment, it listens to the pulsations of the mother's heart, and it listens to that sound, and when it ceases from its nursing it turns its face to that mother and smiles, because in listening to the pulsations of her heart it is learning. The point I wish to make is that she is imparting knowledge to that child before and after birth and every day of its life. I want to say, Mr. Speaker, that I belong to that class of the motherhood of the State, for I had a good, grand, old mother, and she never believed in woman suffrage, although she died at the age of eighty-nine years. I have been fortunate enough to have had three mothers at my home. My mother-in-law is there to-day, at the age of seventy-seven, and she opposes woman suffrage. My wife is there to-day, and I am glad to say that she is a mother, and opposed to woman suffrage, and if I came here and favored this proposition there would be a division in the house, and you know what the result would be when I would meet my mother-in-law. The great question of this day and this age and the future generations is where and what is to become of man,—just exactly what the mother teaches the child. She teaches it from day to day and from week to week and year to year, and you know the old saying, that as you train the child so will he go.

Look back to the days of Thomas Jefferson and look at the prohpecy he made. That prophecy extended over the last one hundred years of the history of the United States, and considering the population of the United States at that time he said that if the motherhood of this nation would continue to guide the Ship of State that we would reach a population in the next hundred of years of twelve million. This we are not going to reach on the prohpecy of Thomas Jefferson as shown in our statistics. Why? There is a race suicide, unfortunately, has come into our midst and the second and third classes I have named are practicing race suicide. We have only one class of women and I want to say that so far as I have consulted with them and conferred with them they are the motherhood of the nation and are opposed to Womans Suffrage. But the question as you consider it is that they are not as intelligent as the Italians, the Hungarians and the Polanders. That is not the question. They are so far superior that we do not want them down on the common level with that class of people. You say they can do what the men can. Who wants to see his wife or his daughter down in the rolling mill and puddling mill with horned hands and bronzed brow? Woman was created as a helpmate for man. She is the flower of mankind as she ought to be, at any and all times the sweet woman and other of the home to receive the husband and the children and thereby mould their sentiment so that they cast their ballots in the way they should cast them and that is the place she has been holding and that is the place for her to-day.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I want to be understood and all to know that I am opposed to Woman Suffrage because I would rather see any measure come before this House tending to elevate woman rather than a measure that would require her to go out on the highways and byways and street corners and curbstones and be holding hands with other men than myself. If that will tend to elevate women I will be for the ballot, but I know in my own heart, from the history of the States that are enjoying Womans Suffrage—if they really call it enjoyment, and I dare say that the motherhood of those Sttes do not enjoy it—I venture this assertion, that there are more ill feelings, there are more bad social gatherings between husband and wife by reason of women going out after votes and button-holing men upon the street corners trying to persuade men to her views and ideas. What do you expect from that? More breaks of the human family, with loss of love and affection for the home circle, absence from the children, away where she ought not to be and not where should should be, moulding the mind and character of her boy, and following that you will find disruption and divorce in the family at home. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen, I want to say to you that if you want your women to grow coarser, less affectionate, go away from home, neglect your children, neglect you, neglect the entire family circle, vote for this measure; but if you want her to become more refined it is your duty and you took the obligation when you married her to take care of her, to protect her and stand by her. I would not want to stand by her unless she looked like the good God intended she should, unless she looked like the flower of the human family.

MR. MILLIRON IN THE CHAIR.

MR. STITES. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I was asked to discuss the constitutional features of this question. Now, I do not intend to do it because all of us, I think, would be thoroughly tired. I see the House appears to be in good humor this morning and therefore I just propose to add a little word by way of a story.

When I consider the rather anomalous condition of women in this country, the fact that we are very glad to receive their taxes and require them to shoulder many of the larger burdens of society and that we give them very few privileges insofar as the management of affairs is concerned, it reminds me of the two Irishmen who were standing on the corner of Trafalgar Square, London, watching a Scotch regiment pass by. The Scotch regiment was dressel in the traditional kilts. Denny said to Pat, "Pat, I didn't know they allowed women to fight in the war;" and Pat looked at him and said, "Why, Denny, they are not women, they have mustaches;" and Pat said, "I wonder what regiment that can be." "Ah," Denny said, "I know; it is the famous Middlesex Regiment." And, gentlemen, of the House, it seems to me that in our treatment of the ladies we put them in the class of the Middlesex regiment; they are neither one thing or the other.

When I consider that the wayward steps of childhood are guided by our mothers, that they smooth the wrinkles in the case of sickness and pain, that in the last ministrations of death they shoulder many of the larger burdens of society, it seems to me entirely unjust that we would fail to accord them the privileges and the responsibilities that we give to the ignorant colored man and the untutored laboring man or even to some of the higher classed society who have not anything like as much intelligence, it seems to me every one of us here should sincerely support this bill this morning.

Mr. HORNE. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, in the early history of the human race, one man as leader of his tribe or nation was supposed to be endowed by heaven to make laws, judge the people and rule. Soon it became the custom for rules to allow their advisers to assist in making laws, and after centuries of despotic sway, lands were divided among these advisers, who in turn became barons, and usurped the franchise, gave plots of land to their soldiers or friends, who later demanded the ballot—and so on down through the ages, more and more the people have demanded some part in formulating the laws that governed them, until the American Republic formulated and adopted what seemed to be a universal law,—that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator by certain unalienable rights, and among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Those early governments that usurped the rights of the people, ruling them against their will, came to ruin and decay. The Jewish nation was scattered to the ends of the earth, Grecian power fell a victim of her own spoils, Rome in her splendor brought on her own weakness, and fell prey to the towers of her own building. England, too, lost a grip on those who left her shores to seek fortunes, worship under a kinder sky, and a great new empire sprang into existence, whose message to the world was: equal opportunity, free speech, free press, religious liberty, the right to assemble peaceably, and the right to a redress of grievances.

In our struggle to maintain these principles, the right to hold property has been extended, suffrage was obtained so that instead of 5 per cent. (rich or large landholders, or those of religious tendencies) nearly all whites were granted suffrage by 1870—then the negro was added, and to-day, only the idiots, aliens, criminals and women are barred.

1. Why have we treated women so unfairly?

2. Shall a few govern the many in a democracy without the consent of the many?

3. Shall we compel our free-born women to accept a condition which our forefathers overthrew—taxation without representation? Why was this tyranny for men but not for women?

Shall foreign borns, who are coming in at the rate of ten million, many of whom cannot read or write our language, be given the power to govern our wives, sisters, daughters and mothers?

Should any men presume the arrogance and pretense that their wisdom is sufficient to represent their mothers, wives and sisters?

They were born under the same sky, having equal parentage, the women equal to men in intelligence, health, energy and far their superior in ideals and morals. No man present dare say the mother who bore him, caressed, cared for and raised him, is unfit to vote as well as he. Could she be trusted to the ballot? Will you do so? She fought the great battle which brought you into existence. She levied a tax on her own soul when she took on the duties of motherhood; her ceaseless care and sleepless nights consumed far more time than is required to cast a thousand ballots. How dare any man have the affrontery to say to that mother or wife that she is not fit to vote—not his equal, or entitled to equal rights?

Sure enough she is fit to bear the sons and daughters of the nation, even fit to offer her sons as a sacrifice on the altar of war, fit to die a dozen deaths for those she gives—but not fit to vote.

You who are opposing equal suffrage know you are not upholding democratic rule, know you are not willing to give to thers—your equals—what you demand for yourselves; you are attempting to believe that you are a special ruling class; who gave you this "divine right" to govern human souls?

Many men are not able to govern themselves, but are allowed to help control the property and lives of the women in their community. Why cling to the false "divine right" of sex any longer?

Whether it costs more or assists one cause or another, makes better or worse the conditions for society—it is right; and all fair men should vote to liberate a greater, better and nobler class of people than has ever been set free in any state.

If three million voters were appealing to you there would be a stempede to cast your aye. Remember! they are going to be votes. They now have one-third of the territories. It has never been recalled where adopted.

Shall this really be a government of the people, for the people and by the people?

Here is a petition of the people, for the people—our own American best blood—and we as men cannot ignore this petition for redress—this petition for equal rights—asking that they be given their God-given rights, not as slaves, not as aliens, but as the highest type of American citizens.

Mr. Speaker, I present petitions from the women of this Commonwealth, from all over this State, favoring this measure.

(Whereupon petitions containing signatures of thousands of women were strung through the aisles of the House of Representatives.)

Mr. DAWSON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to present another huge petition from citizens of Pennsylvania in favor of woman suffrage, including the names of Richard Beamish, esq., Honorable William S. Vare, Judge Archibald, Gifford Pinchot, Mitchell Palmer and others.

Mr. PALMER. Mr. Speaker, much has been said on the subject of suffrage. I don't think I can add anything to what has already been said, but I wish to say just a few words in favor of the passage of this measure. We are not voting this morning on the question directly but we are simply voting on the question of whether or not in the year 1920 the voters of this State will again have an opportunity of voting on the question of whether or not the women of this State shall vote.

It is nothing more than right to my mind that we pass this amendment. This question was voted on in 1915. The sentiment for suffrage has greatly increased and by 1920 there is no doubt in my mind that the voters of this State will want the opportunity to pass on this question again. A great many arguments have been made here this morning for and against this amendment, but there is one thing that comes to me, that is an argument in favor of the right of women to vote. To begin with, if the right to vote is inherent in somebody, and we have assumed as the men of this nation that it is inherent in the men, if it is inherent for a government to be by the people, for the people and of the people, as the only form of a democracy, then I would like to ask the gentlemen of this House if this is a democracy or not to-day. The whole theory of our government is that of a democracy. Our forefathers fought for our independence. They wrote the Declaration of Independence, the Bill of Rights, and the Constitution of this government, and in every one of those great documents they put this thought, that all men are created equal, and that they are endowed with certain inalienable rights among which are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. They have carried this thought out in every great document, that all of our people shall be given equal rights, and yet from that day to this, we have denied the right of franchises to more than one-half of our population. I want to say to this House this morning that we will never have a pure democracy in this nation until we give the women the right to vote. I wish to say further that it will be absolutely impossible for this great nation to arrive at that point in its perfection where it can call itself a true democracy without the motherhood of this nation having something to say about the government. It is true, as has been said, and argued by those opposed to this amendment, that the womanhood of this nation should have the right to vote, or the motherhood of this nation, I should say, should have the right to vote. I agree with them, and while we have the motherhood of this nation and we have the high heeled and low neck dressed women, and we have the scarlet woman, we have the fatherhood of this nation and we have the thug, the gambler, and the man who does not know how to vote, and votes wrongly, just as well as we have women. Gentlemen of the House, while we have granted the right to the fatherhood of this nation we should give it to the motherhood of this nation and we should not hesitate this morning to vote for this amendment simply because you have some women in this nation who would not know how to use the ballot if they had it, because we have just as many men in this nation who do not know how to use the ballot as we have women, and I dare say that we have more. Why we talk about denying women the right to vote; we say that they should stay in the home; that was true one hundred years ago, and possibly fifty years ago, but circumstances have changed. The women no longer can control their families in the home. The environment of our children and everything else has changed until the motherhood of this nation must have their right to vote if she shall control her family properly. They no longer make the clothes for the children, but they are made in the factories. The children are to-day employed when one hundred years ago they were employed only on the farms and scarcely anywhere else. If the women of this nation are to control their families, they must have the right to vote. We need the humanity of the mother in the vote to bring about the changes that are necessary to give this nation what it needs. I ask the members of this House to look at this question fairly and not be influenced by any prejudice, but to think about what it will mean to the State of Pennsylvania when the women vote. I ask you to consider this question not from the standpoint of whether the women will revolutionize voting. It is possible that they will vote very much like the men vote in some instances and in some communities, but I feel that they will elevate the voting of this State and nation and that they should be given the right to vote. It is nothing more than fair that we again this morning pass this amendment, and say to the women of this State who want the right to vote that we are willing at least that in 1920 the voters of this State shall again pass on this question, and that is all we are doing here this morning.

This amendment will have to be passed in two years again. I am very frank to say to you that when the time comes to vote on this question, directly, I will vote for it, but you have a right to vote against it if you wish to. I think we ought to pass this amendment this morning.

Mr. DITHRICH. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, it was not my intention to enter into the discussion of this measure, and it is only because one very important feature has not been mentioned that I arise to address myself to the subject. When I came to this session I stated to the advocates of woman suffrage that I was opposed to it, but I had not made up my mind whether or not I would vote against submitting it to the voters of the State. The measure had carried in our district and I was influenced in the beginning by that vote, but when I analyzed the figures, I found that while suffrage had carried by a majority of about 2,000 the vote on the subject of the amendment was about 3,000 below the normal Republican majority. I think that I have heard members say that they were opposed to it, that they were going to vote for it this time because it had carried in their district, but if you will sit down and analyze the figures throughout the State you will find that the vote for suffrage was far below the normal vote and that the only thing that carried it at that time were the orders that had gone out to vote for all amendments in order to have Workmen's Compensation. Now, I do not want to be placed in the position of being opposed to giving the people of this State the right to pass upon any question, but I do not think that the majority of the voters of the State are in favor of it, and for that reason I will vote no on the bill before us.

Mr. GOODWIN. Mr. Speaker and gentlement of the House, this question is not confined to any one state or group of states, but extending wider and wider it has become a National issue.

Full suffrage both to male and female is granted in eleven of the states in the Union; partial suffrage in 23 more states, and that leaves only 14 in our whole galaxy of states but what has some form of equal suffrage.

This issue is not confined to the United States alone, if we look across the sea to England, and to far away Australia and New Zealand, we find that it is a question that is knocking at the door of civilization.

Etymologically, the word woman means wife and this explains a long history of subserviency from which the women of this age are extracting themselves. Although marriage is a predominating element in her life it is not the whole of it, and the present movement is a struggle for equal rights and an equal opportunity with men regardless of sex. The difficulty of attaining this recognition is due to historical causes which had their origin in almost all the ancient systems of government.

Under the Mosaic law divorce was a privilege of the husband and not of the wife. Her vow could be waived by either her father or husband. And daughters could inherit property only when there were no sons in the family.

In Roman law, women were completely dependent. When married, she and her possessions became the property of her husband.

The governments of the ancient world were based on the idea that women could take no part in administrative affairs. Except as monarchs who inherited the throne in the absence of males in the royal house. Among such exceptions were Cleopatra. Asparia was recognized as the able adviser of a political solon; but with few exceptions women had no political status among the governmental systems of the old world. The average law-maker of those times looked upon her not as an equal, but mainly as possessing the temptress functions of Eve.

The framers of this Republic declared "that all men are created equal" that they are tntitled to the inalienable rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. And they further declared that to secure these rights governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed. But when it came to the interpretation of our governmental structure the word men was qualified when it came to women.

Our forefathers took up arms against the mother country rather than be taxed without representation, but for more than a hundred years, we have been taxing women, who in some States own about one third of the property, without their consent, and without representation.

What right have we as men to make all the laws governing ourselves, and also our wives, sisters and mothers, and that without their consent. It is as great an assumption of authority for us to dictate who shall be permitted the right of the ballot as it is to assume any other power. Can we assume such power on the ground of superior partriotism or intelligence? Not at all. The present National crisis demonstrates that they are just as patriotic as the men are. And the tests of scholarships ineducational institutions demonstrate that the girls on an average are equal in intellectual attainments to the boys.

The law in regard to woman's property rights have been slow and gradual. Her disabilities have one after another been removed until now her legal position as to the control of her property, both real and personal, is little different from that of men. But they are not allowed to express themselves on maters of legislation that affects their property. Their property is annually taxed for the support of the schools, and all municipal improvements yet they have no voice as to their taxation. Our forefather said "that taxation without representation is tyranny." But why is it tyranny to tax men without representation and not women. Does the mere fact of sex give any vested rights in the taxation and control of property.

One of the most strenuous objections made to adopting and amendment to the National Constitution was on the reason that the right of franchise is a subject which belongs to the province of the separate States. It was there argued that the adoption of such an amendment to our Federal Constitution would force upon some States a franchise which they might deem detrimental to its citizens.

It is maintained that woman's proper sphere is in the home. granting this to be true it reveals one of the strongest arguments in favor of suffrage. If her proper sphere of usefulness be with the children, with their preliminary education and the welfare of the home is not all this affected by politics in the passage of the necessary laws affecting the public school; the sanitation of the homes in the neighborhood. Are not the necessitics of life with which she must support her home affected by politics—by nidustrial combination, by tariffs; by railroad rates, and by well drawn food-laws.

While her rational sphere is in the home his is in the business world; and he is often so eagerly engaged in the pursuit of business, that he overlooks the surrounding of the home. Are the affairs with which she is directly concerned of less social importance than his business enterprises? Should not the governess of the home have the political power to protect her sanctum from ill-advised legislation.

Man is naturally interested in his home, and his business is often carried on for the sake of his home, but while he is interested in his home, his more alert activities are engaged with business and industry. While woman's activity is naturally associated with home surroundings, and therefore, she is especially well qualified to assert her influence on all legislation pertaining to the home.

It is contended that the right of suffrage should belong only to those who can bear arms. But I do not believe the right should be based on such grounds. Such distinction is not made among the voters of the State. The old and the young, the active and decrepit, the strong and the weak, all have the right of the ballot. But if she can not bear arms, she does bear patriotic sons who to-day are enlisting by the thousand in the defense of our National honor. Who sacrifices more than the mother when she dedicates he son to the battlefield.

It is one of the anomalies of our present civilization that women shall have no voice in the determination as to whether her country shall engage in the European conflict when the sacrifice of her sons may be required, and when he property may be taxed for the prosecution of the struggle. She suffers for her loved ones more than does the soldier on the field of strife. She has a deeper realization than man of the horrors and agonies of war. And how retarding to the progress of the human race is its mad course.

The intelligence and civilization of the present and the future demand that disputes among the nations of the earth shall not be settled by great armies, or arial or submarine engines of death, but by arbitration, and woman's influence backed by her intelligence, her patriotism, and her vote is needed in the great work of establishing a tribunal to settle international disputes.

Let use write this law upon our statute books and thereby make this more truly a representative government—a better land in which to live.

Let us pass this resolution; let us give the women an equal chance with the men, and thereby make this in a truer sense a representative government; a better land in which to live.

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I am only going to consume a few moments in the discussion of this subject, and I ask for attention. My friend, the "Mark Twain" of the House, the gentleman from Montgomery, spoke of the Middlesex Regiment. I want to say, Mr. Speaker, and I say it without any apology and without fear or equivocation of any kind, that the only "middlesex" regiment that I know of, as applied to the question of woman suffrage, is a regiment composed of the men who favor woman suffrage, and I never yet in my life knew a one hundred per cent. man who favored woman suffrage. Mr. Speaker, I ask the House at this time to give its attention for one moment to the foremost suffragettes of this country, the first woman in the history of the United States who has ever had the honor and privilege of sitting in our national House, in Congress, Miss Jeannette Rankin. Some weeks ago the question of the declaration of war came before that august body. None of us—and far be it from me individually—will criticise the act or personal vote of any member of that body. We recognize and realize the inherent constitutional right of a man who sits in a legislative body, or of a woman, that he or she may vote in the manner in which he or she sees fit. It is not so much the question, as the manner of action of this young woman, this Congresswoman at Washington, that I want to bring to your attention. When the question as to whether or not there should be a declaration of war came up, they called her name eight or nine times, but she responded not once.

She sat in her seat, her hair disheveled, running her fingers through her hair. She was hysterical. She did not know how to vote, and Uncle Joe Cannon, whom many of you have heard or read about, called her out to the lobby of Congress and said to her: "Young woman, it does not matter how you vote but for the sake of the women that you represent in this country you should vote one way or the other." Then she went back and almost inaudibly said, "No." Now I have not criticism to make of the vote, I have nothing to say derogatory of this young woman for voting against the declaration of war when the majority voted for war. I only have to say, Mr. Speaker, that if the crisis arises, if this country is up in the most critical condition would you leave it to the women to decide as to our future action?

My friend from Jefferson spoke of the Declaration of Independence. Let me say, too, gentlemen of the House, that no woman ever wrote the Declaration of Independence. If at the time this country was in war, in trouble with England, that question came up before a body of women you probably would have had no Declaration of Independence and if all the men would have voted as Miss Rankin voted to do we to-day would have been under the yoke of a foreign government.

Furtherwore, Mr. Speaker, this question was up before this House heretofore. The amendment was submitted to the voters of this Commonwealth in 1915. It cost six hundred thousand dollars to submit this proposition to the voters of this Commonwealth. Are we going to be perennially and perpetually voting to expend that amount of money just to gratify the whim and desire of a few of the women? And I say a few of the women because you will find that the majority of the women themselves are opposed to Woman Suffrage.

My attention has been called to these long petitions that were drawn across the floor. A member of the Legislature who sat alongside of me picked up a list and in six signatures he found the names of women from New York, New Jersey, Rhode Island, England, Illinois and Maryland. What kind of bunk is that to bring into a Legislature of this kind?

Furthermore, Mr. Speaker, it has been said, and it is sophistical argument, it is pure sophistry, that this is a government of the people, for the people and by the people. Nobody subscribes to that more loyally and more heartily and more cordially than I do. That is true. This government is like every other government. It is formed for the mutual protection and welfare of its citizens. The manner in which to obtain that welfare is the business of the citizens, the people of this government. It, therefore, requires force behind the government to see that there is a good government because only by force can we obtain protection as you know by the present world-wide conflagration. Therefore, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, every woman, every child, every female is represented in that government. If there is any trouble the men go forward and see that the government is protected. The right to vote, therefore, is a constitutional right. It is not a natural right. It is a right that is given under and by the constitution. The fathers, the uncles and the brothers of all these women framed and formed that constitution. They are all represented in that constitution and they have the constitutional rights that are given every other citizen. They are all represented.

Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, just a few words more. In Colorado, where they have Womans Suffrage, the question of the adoption of the Susan B. Anthony amendment came up before the legislature and, if I am not mistaken, I believe there are female members of that legislature, and that amendment is a national one giving the right of franchise to women. The legislature of Colorado voted against endorsing the Susan B. Anthony Amendment. The women themselves of the government where they have a right of franchise voted against it. What does that argue? That argues that they themselves know the inefficiency and bad points of Womans Suffrage. In Illinois, where the women have the right to vote, a majority of them do not exercise the right of franchise. They do as my friend from Jefferson said—they are slackers; they don't vote.

One more point, Mr. Speaker. In the right of women to vote you simply duplicate the vote of the men. If you don't, you have a house that is divided against itself and it is said that a house divided against itself cannot stand. You give the women a right to vote and you will have more arguments and more troubles than we have ever had in this country. This, too, Mr. Speaker, is a critical time for this country. It is no time for these women with whims and fancies to come here and foist upon us their individual desires. This the time for no agitation. This is the time when we all, with sober minds, must confront the difficulty that presents itself before the entire world at this time.

Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I sincerely hope that this bill will be voted down overwhelmingly.

Mr. WHITAKER. Mr. Speaker, I want to take just a moment to correct a statement which was made by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Stern. He is mistaken in his figures which leads to a misapprehension in the minds of the members which I am sure he would not want to create. We have taken the trouble to consult the Clerk in the State Treasurer's office to ascertain the actual cost of the advertisements.

The last time that it was submitted to a vote the actual cost of advertising this amendment in two hundred papers which was acually more than the law requires, it was thirty-four thousand seven hundred and eighty-nine dollars. That is a decided difference from the figures that have been mentioned by Mr. Stern, the figures which Mr. Stern has stated and it is so marked that I think the gentleman would be glad to have that mistake corrected.

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, just one word in reply to my friend from Chester. That is only the cost of publishing this state amendment and that does not include the cost to every county for printing and distribution of the ballots.

Mr. STITES. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

The SPEAKER. The Chair wishes to state that all those whose names were on the list to speak, having been given an opportunity to speak on the question, we will now proceed to the roll call. The Chair wishes to request that during the roll call there be silence and every member be in his place and vote in an audible tone.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The SPEAKER. This roll will be verified.

Whereupon, the roll was verified as follows:

BILL ON THIRD READING (SPECIAL ORDER).

The SPEAKER. The Chair lays before the House as a special order House Bill No. 1211 (Senate Bill No. 19), on third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1211 (Senate Bill No. 19), entitled

An Act fixing the penalty for murder of the first degree and repealing inconsistent legislation.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

MR. GEORGE W. WILLIAMS IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I sincerely regret that owing to the fact that I am just recovering from an attack of tonsilitis I am not in voice to do justice to a piece of legislation that is as important as the one now before this legislative body for its consideration. The question is whether the death penalty shall continue to be the penalty for a murder in the first degree. Ten States in this Union have already abolished the death penalty. The State of Kansas abolished it in 1907; as a matter of fact the death penalty was not inflicted in the State of Kansas since 1872. The State of Main abolished it in 1877; Michigan in 1847; Minnesota in 1911; North Dakota and South Dakota in 1915; Rhode Island in 1852; Washington in 1913; Wisconsin in 1853. It was abolished in the State of Oregon in 1914 by a constitutional amendment in which the people of the State expressed their will. This gives us ample precedent to judge from. Statistics clearly prove that in all of these States the ratio of crime did not increase but in every instance, without exception, it diminished. In other words, capital punishment is no deterrent to crime. Society has made remarkable progress along the line of the punishment it inflicts upon its criminal classes. Run back through history and you will find that in the year 1810, just a little more than a century ago, England punished more than two hundred crimes by exacting the death of the offender. Even the stealing of a shilling's worth of wheat at one time was punished by death. A father was privileged to take the life of a disobedient son; a husband was privileged to take the life of a disobedient wife, if you please, in various times in the history of various countries. Under the Mosaic law, there were twenty-nine crimes punishable by death. All of these have been stricken from the statute books of all civilized countries today and at this time none of the States of the Union punish in excess of six crimes and few of them in excess of three crimes; in fact, the majority not is excess of one crime, by inflicting capital punishment. In other words, as civilization advanced laws that were out of accord with the public mind became impotent. When England punished the theft of a pound of barley or anything amounting in value to a pound, by inflicting capital punishment, the juries refused to find the amount of the theft worth a pound or equal to a pound because public sentiment said, "No, we will not inflict the death penalty for a trivial offense." That is why capital punishment, to-day, as it is inflicted by our civilization, is a misnomer and a farce. It does not deter crime and consequently it is not a protection to society.

I say it is a misnomer for the reason that public sentiment is so strong against the infliction of capital punishment, that it is with difficulty that you can secure a jury of citizens of average standing in a community to serve on a case where a man's life is involved, as a result of which only three murderers out of one hundred homicides reach the electric chair. Only three out of one hundred reach the electric chair. What happens to the other ninety-seven? They are convicted of murder in the second degree, or they are convicted of manslaughter, and in many cases they make a clean get-away. If capital punishment were abolished crime would be more certain to be punished and the thing that deters crime is not the severity of the punishment, but the certainty of punishment. I want you to get that thought, man. The thing that deters crime is not the severity of punishment, but the certainty of punishment. Now while the sentiment of the public is so pronounced against capital punishment, that they will not take th ebenefit of any doubt doubt whatever, but will give the benefit of every doubt to the accused we have the result that I have just stated, only three out of the one hundred who commit homicide reach the electric chair and ninety-seven escape with a sentence altogether out of proportion to the enormity of their crime. If the death penalty were removed, and I wish it understood that I am not pleading for lighter sentences, I support this bill because I believe it will be the means of heavier sentences, juries will then not be conscientious upon the point of sitting in the trial of a murder case, and they will recognize the fact that if they make any mistake, if they give the benefit of the doubt to the Commonwealth, the penalty is not an irrevocable one, but if as time passes by it is proved that the accused was innocent the verdict can be recalled, but in the case of the infliction of the death penalty the verdict is irrevocable. For this reason I say, men, the death penalty as it is being supported by our civilization and society to-day is a misnomer, it is the means of permitting men to escape rather than the means of inflicting sure punishment. Think of it from the standpoint of the men who commit wilful, deliberate, premeditated murder. If he were confronted with the fact that very few escape, that almost invariably they are found guilty and sentence imposed and that sentence was imprisonment for the rest of their natural lives, would he not be deterred to a greater extent than when he to-day looks down the line and says, "why they only get three out of one hundred of them, the rest get away with a second degree or a manslaughter verdict or make a clean getaway, I will take the chance." I say to you, men, capital punishment as it is backed by public sentiment to-day is not a deterrent to crime.

Another argument, and I have a letter here that supports it and puts it in language possibly stronger than I could frame it, on the sixth day of February I received this letter. It makes a point that I want to emphasize and I ask your indulgence to use this letter to accomplish it. "Am writing you relative to electrocution of Patrick Callery, of Easton, Pennsylvania. Since you have introduced a bill aganist capital punishment I know you will give me a patient hearing. This unfortunate wretch, the wreck that rum left, a mental and physical wreck, will die in the death chair March 12, if the Board of Pardons turns us down for the second time, and if good men like you and your aiders do not push this bill through. I am his oldest sister, a gray-haired woman, whom he shot down without any warning simply because he was crazy. He never gave me a disrespectful word or act prior to this awful deed. He always treated me with respect. He never in Gods world would have shot me if he was in his right mind. My health is not and may never be what it was. The expense incurred was heavy on poor people, the suffering was long, four weary months, and yet I say the man was and is crazy and should not be electrocuted. For the love of God will you do all you can to pass this capital punishment bill? If you do, you will save the great State of Pennsylvania from the lasting shame of putting a crazy man in the chair. You will avert so much that is wrong if you cause this bill to pass. When men are put to prison for life or the asylum they are the ones that suffer, which is as it should be. When they are electrocuted the innocent suffer, their families, for a lifetime, which is as it should not be."

I want you to get that point, men. Speaking of her own brother condemned to death, feeling the shame, feeling the disgrace, feeling the scanting looks of the social circle in which she moves, feeling the manner in which society has withdrawn from her, she exclaims in agony when men are put to prison for life they are the ones who suffer, which is as it ought to be.

"Will you never cease drumming this into those on whom you depend to vote for this bill. There have been infamous lies that even have passed the of the law, said about this wretch. Lies that will come home to those who started and are spreading them. Rum was his only crime. Rum was what put him in the murderer's class. And now the very rum ring in this town are with marble hearts pushing him to the chair. Why don't they stand by what they have made? They should be his best friends. But it is sober men and women who are his best friends. Such is the worry of fate. I ask you again, will you in the name of God and humanity hurry this bill through and save this poor man whose brain has weakened from alcohol until on that fatal morning he started out to kill his own flesh and blood without any reason only the insane delusion that they were his enemies?"

When they are electrocuted, the innocent, the friends, the relatives, the children, the wife, the father and mother, suffer, which is as it should not be. Gentlemen, I ask you this question: If society to-day regards the infliction of capital punishment as a deterrent to crime, why do we hide them away to seclusion, between the four walls of the death building up in Centre County, at which place to accomplish the awful deed? Gentlemen, we know that public execution incites to crime. The last public execution in my own home city of Lancaster occurred back in 1842. A man by the name of Leshner was to be hanged on a certain day, and the announcement went out all over the county and into the surrounding counties that at 9 o'clock in the morning his execution would be accomplished, and that it was open to everyone to come. Crowds gathered from far and near. That very afternoon a man by the name of Wilson, who stood near the scaffold when that drop fell, met on his way home from Lancaster a man against whom he had a grievance for years, and he stabbed him to death on the spot; and before the sun went down on that very day that man sat in the Lancaster County prison with the same irons shackeling him that shackeled that murderer who was hanged in the early morning. Does capital punishment deter crime? It does not, and for that reason society has insisted that electrocutions and hangings must be accomplished behind closed doors. Did capital punishment deter the spread of religion? Is it in line with the forces that move the human being to say so? Think of old Nero in the days of ancient Rome, when he sowed his wild oats by having Christians nailed to the cross, their bodies saturated with oil, and arranged upon his race course, at a given word the match was applied, and as their bodies blazed and burned, he seized the reins of his steed, jumped into his chariot, and raced around that course, over and over again. Did it deter the spread of Christianity? No. Nero sowed his wild oats, and old Rome fell, but Christianity went steadily on her way.

The records of the legislature of the State of Kansas prove that if capital punishment had not been abolished in 1872, that seven innocent men would have been hanged. Seven men who were condemned to a sentence of life imprisonment in the State of Kansas, and who would have been hanged instead had capital punishment not been abolished, were after their trial and conviction proven innocent. Men, can you picture what that means? Our penal code is written upon the proposition that it is better for ninety-nine guilty men to escape than for one innocent man to suffer. But the records of the legislature and the courts of the State of Kansas prove that seven men in that state who were innocent would have been hanged had not capital punishment been abolished. I do not believe that there is a man in this House who doubts that innocent men have been put to death within the confines of the State of Pennsylvania. I ask you men to picture what that offense of society against the individual means. Can you picture a man who down deep in his own heart is fully convinced of the fact that he is innocent, yet circumstances point forcibly toward his guilt, and in spite of the fact that he pleads with the judge and insists, "I am innocent," the judge turns a deaf ear to him; in spite of the fact that he pleads to the jury and his attorney pleads that he is innocent, the jury turns a deaf ear on him; in spite of the fact that he goes forth to the public that he is innocent, and the public turns a deaf ear to him; and finally he is convicted and day by day he waits the hour when the mandate of the law will require his life for a crime he did not commit, and his friends, his children, perchance his relatives, lives blighted, blighted, blighted, opportunities destroyed, and finally after they have either lived it down or moved from the scene, some damnable wretch who committed the crime and was not man enough to come forward and admit it to save the innocent man, when he faces the time of departure of life to step into the grave, upon seeing the accusing eyes of his victim staring out from the regions beyond, he calls for those about him and says, "I am the man who committed that offense," and the law has taken the life of a man who was innocent. Now men, I ask you to search your hearts. Do you get enough sweetness of revenge out of the fact that you are carrying to the electric chair three out of a hundred to justify that kind of an outrage on the part of society toward the individual? I ask you, gentlemen, to vote in favor of this bill, and society will not suffer and punishment instead of possibly not being quite so severe, will be certain, and it is the certainty of punishment that deters crime.

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, from the time one begins the study of law we are taught as lawyers, and our citizenship is also taught, that the principal object of the administration of law is to protect human life. I presume that every man in this House and every good law abiding citizen is of that opinion and the only question here to be discussed is, what method best secures the protection of human life.

In the first place, let us consider for a moment what sort of murder or homicide involves the infliction of the death penalty under existing law. It is only wilful, premeditated and deliberate murder or murder committed in the commission of certain felonies that involves the infliction of the death penalty. I submit, sir, that statistics are to a great extent misleading because when you say here are so many murders it usually means the same thing and is taken to mean the same thing as so many homicides; and when you say that but three out of a hundred are hanged or electrocuted because of having committed a homicide why you mean that three who have been guilty of murder in the first degree are convicted. Every district attorney, and I speak with knowledge because I had the honor to serve in that office myself many years ago, also draws a bill charging murder in the first degree because he does not know what circumstances may develop upon the trial of the case that makes the crime murder rather than manslaughter as it so often is.

Now the object of punishment is to prevent crime. I take it, sir, that whenever a man has committed wilful and deliberate murder his life is forfeited to the State. The question of reformation in his case does not enter into it because what you want to do with him is to see that he does not repeat his crime.

Now, let us see whence this bill came from. It was here in slightly different form two years ago; that is, permitting the jury to determine whether or not the death penalty should be inflicted. It has been here time and again but this is the first proposition in a long time to absolutely abolish it. Now, what have we here? We have this skilfully staged newspaper campaign based on the Mottorn-Haines case that arose in Jefferson County. I have taken the trouble, sir, to read the record in that case. I am judging that case by what the lawyer for young Mottern said to the Board of Pardons. It is very brief. I do not propose to read it but I want the members of this House to know that I am speaking from the most favorable viewpoint and I have in my hand the brief of his counsel. That shows these facts; That on the evening of March 21, 1916, Haines and Mottern—now this is Mottern's own story—met by accident or arrangement at a blacksmith shop in the village of Sprankles Mills, near their respective homes. At this meeting, young Haines inquired of Mottern whether the latter would do him a favor. He, Mottorn, desired to know what favor he could do, and Haines informed him that he wanted to go West on the following Monday and that he did not have sufficient money for that purpose: He stated, further, that his father, William Haines, had considerable money "on him," and suggested that about dark that evening, he, Mottorn, should go to certain cut along the line of the Pittsburgh and Shawmut Railroad, where, he, Haines, would meet him and furnish him with a shotgun and shells or cartridges, with which to shoot and kill the elder Haines on the following day. Haines further stated that his father would pass through this cut the next day, on his way to Sprankles Mills, between twelve and one o'clock. Mottern inquired of Haines about his mother's feelings if this arrangement was carried into execution, and he replied that she would not care.

About dark, the same evening, the two boys met at the appointed place. Haines brought with him a single barreled shotgun, and, after loading it, hid it and an additional shell or cartridge in a pine tree or shrub near the edge of the railroad cut. He, Haines, then instructed Mottorn to come to that place the following day, at about twelve o'clock, wait for his father, William Haines, shoot him when he came through the cut, and then, immediately, go to Sprankles Mills, where he, Haines, would meet him at a certain "pump station."

Acting upon these instructions, Mottorn went to the appointed place on the following day, Wednesday, March 22, 1916, waited for the elder Haines, and, when he came along the railroad, shot and killed him. In the meantime, the younger Haines had secreted himself behind a pile of boards, near the railroad cut in question, and, after the shooting, went to his father's body, took some two hundred and fifty dollars from his pocket, and joined Mottorn at the "pump station," as previously arranged.

Now, sir, have any of you in all your experience ever heard of a case of more deliberate and premeditated murder than those boys committed? And the only thing urged in their behalf was that Mottorn grew up in comparative ignorance and that he was less than seventeen years of age. Now, I do not say that this bill should be passed upon in view of that case alone but I do say that except for that case being exploited by the Public Ledger, of Philadelphia, that this bill would not be here in its present form; and that is the foundation of the whole thing and that is what Mottorn's counsel was able to say to the Board of Pardons in support of his appeal for clemency. These facts are stated by Mottorn's counsel and surely are as favorable to him as they can possibly be. Now, sir, the case of Haines has been appealed to the Supreme Court and reversed because the jury were not sufficiently cautioned against the danger of convicting Haines on the testimony of Mottorn. Now justice, I believe, sir, is being done in that case and I believe our courts are competent to administer the law.

Now another thing; Kansas has been adverted to. I trust that every member of this House has read the excellent pamphlet prepared by Mr. Duane, of Philadelphia bar, and mailed to each member of the House, and he gives you some statistics relative to Kansas that are both interesting, instructive and illuminating and these are to this effect: I understand that the rate of homicide in the United States is one to every ten thousand inhabitants, enormously high, but that in the State of Kansas alone the ratio is higher than it is throughout the United States, or one murder to every six thousand two hundred and thirty-five inhabitants, and Kansas has had capital punishment abolished since 1872, as the gentleman from Lancaster has told you. Now, in 1915,—and this is all in this pamphlet and because the gentleman from Lancaster has chosen to refer to it I feel some of you did not give the pamphlet the attention it deserves. In 1915 Sherman L. Axford investigated the administration of the law relative to capital punishment for the New York Outlook and you know the New York Outlook does not do anything by halves. Now he found out that during thirty-one years—now mark this, I am not going to deal with any more statistics—he found out that during thirty-one years out of one hundred and forty-three life prisoners who by death or otherwise departed from the Kansas State Penitentiary, during that period, ninety-four (two-thirds) left as the result of a pardon. Now, you cannot absolve or abdicate this pardoning power. The sovereign in all states must have the power to pardon, otherwise how would you correct injustice. That is something you must leave somewhere and it shows it was exercised without discretion and out of sympathy in Kansas. Then he goes on and gives instances. These ninety-four life prisoners served an average term of twelve years and in eleven cases which we investigated in detail one of the worst escaped through political influence eight months after the crime was committed.

Another who had missed killing his mother by poor marksmanship had later killed his wife while pregnant and secured a pardon in eight years through the efforts of a prominent Methodist minister. Another who had killed his rival for the hand of a woman was pardoned in eight years but subsequently shot dead for resisting an officer. Another conspired with the wife of his benefactor to kill the latter and burn his body. Another who killed the benefactor who had brought him up was released in eight years and six months." Are we any better than the people in Kansas? I trust we are, but would we be? I was up in college when Gentry killed Madge York. He was sent up for life and he has been pardoned. The poor fellow is dead now, but that is what would happen and all of you or most of you have heard Governor McClain tell about the case in Lancaster where he was active in securing the pardon of the man who murdered his father, and a year after he was out of the penitentiary he killed a woman and then killed himself. I tell you, sir, that this homicidal instinct is something that ought to be extinguished and civilization has determined that the best way to extinguish it is to take the life of him who takes life wilfully and with premeditation. I might go on and cite other instances. Italy abolished capital punishment and in the year 1880 murder became a business there and the Camorro Society was formed for the purpose of putting people out of the way and then furnishing evidence to acquit those who were accused. I submit to you that France and England are the best governed nations of the world with respect to the administration of the criminal law. The great City of London with its teeming population has the lowest homicide rate of any great city. It is because the law is certain; because the juries and judges and district attorneys are not sentimental; and because the lawyers are not scrupulous in the acquittal of guilty persons. They administer the law, the criminal law, better than we do but the law is right, and what we should do would be to bring ourselves up to that standard of administration of the law. This thing of saying that juries do not convict and would not convict, and that judges would not punish and men would not serve on juries because of conscientious scruples—that is an indictment of our democracy and shows that our way of doing things in this country in the administration of justice is not correct and we ought to do and insist on doing as they do in England, on the proper administration of justice and juries ought to do their duties. They say "we are improving that if we pass this bill." Have we not forty men or more convicted to the electric chair, now under conviction, and is that any indication that juries do not convict in Pennsylvania? This bill was considered in the Senate and after forty men are on the way to the death chair at this time who were guilty of murder in the first degree, do you think that is an indication that it is a cinch that a man gets off after he commits murder in Pennsylvania? A word more and I am done. Last week there died in Philadelphia the greatest lawyer of that city and one of the greatest lawyers who has ever graced the bar of the United States. It is true his principal business was that of a corporation lawyer, but no case was too small for Mr. John G. Johnson's attention and it was the best attention that any case could have when he had it in his hands. He was a man of surpassing intellect and great and wide information. He was the law's most faithful and willing servant until he was seventy-six years of age. That man expressed his opinion on this subject and that was an opinion that in business matters and real estate and property was worth hundreds of thousands of dollars. He received fees for his opinions that were anything that he might name. Do you want to know what he said to Mr. Duane? You have had an opportunity to read it, but I will repeat what he said. It was this: "March 2nd. Dear Mr. Duane: I think the proposition to abolish capital punishment is ridiculous. Very truly yours, John G. Johnson." That is the letter of one of the most prominent members of the bar of this country. That should make you think that you should not give way and we should have none of that sentimentaliay which is spreading all over this country akin to the song, "I did not raise my boy to be a soldier." That sentiment that is for peace at any price. That sentiment that hesitated when the issue of war was at stake.

Don't you think you should think twice before you say it is safer to murder in Pennsylvania than in New York, New Jersey or Massachusetts. It is said in the Public Ledger, and I don't suppose it is properly understood, that fifty judges and district attorneys have written letters to the effect that capital punishment ought to be abolished and life imprisonment substituted—I suppose it is not understood that there are about one hundred common pleas judges in the State and more than that many district attorneys because some of the judges have as many as there district attorneys in their courts, and then there are the judges of the supreme and superior courts and out of all that number, those who could be secured in this campaign of unexampled energy conducted by this great newspaper, was fifty. The others are evidently satisfied with the law as it stands. Now, I hope that the members of this House will stand by the law as it stood before and that this agitation will result in better administration and that is what we need; we need to safeguard human life and not say to a man, "For all that you can do, or all that can be done, you will be imprisoned for life." Because many men would take imprisonment for life in order to gratify their passions and their revenge upon one another. There is nothing pleasant about taking human life; there is nothing pleasant in standing up and arguing that the safeguards there are around it should not be removed. I have prosecuted for murder and I must admit that when a verdict of second degree murder came in that I personally felt relieved. It is repulsive to a district attorney or a juror or to any right minded man to take human life, but it is a solemn duty, and unless we perform our duty here the safety of the lives of the citizens of Pennsylvania will be in peril

Mr. WELLS. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen, the gentleman who has just preceded me has referred to a number of murderers and the horrible crimes that they have committed. He told you of one man who had strangled his wife, another man who had stabbed his wife to death while she was in a pregnant condition, and a number of other cases all horrible in their details, but like a great many other people my friend from Franklin did not go into the investigation as deeply as he might have gone. I would like to know whether he knows any of those men who committed those crimes, how and when and where they were born; how they lived; where they were raised and under what circumstances all their lives; were they educated; did they have a father and mother whom they knew, and did they have loving and kind friends around them. I will tell you my friends that that makes a big difference. He stands up there and refers you to cases of murder that have been committed, but he does not tell you about those men who committed those murders, nor what was the course of their life up until that time. Now a man, it is an old saying, that a man is often judged by the company he keeps, and so I say to you that it is a very significant fact in connection with this issue that is here before you that the men primarily responsible as advocates of this measure, as the man who appeared before you at the public hearing here. Philadelphia and in Pittsburgh were men who came in close contact with the criminal classes, and men who have known murderers. Now those men were men speaking from close contact, from real experience. You heard Dean Kershwin and you could not help but be impressed by the sincerity of his purpose and the honesty of his argument. You heard the District Attorney of Philadelphia, a man who has held office for nine or ten years or more, and I say without fear of contradiction by himself that he through his office has prosecuted more murderers than any man in the State of Pennsylvania, and you heard him come here as an advocate for the passage of this bill.

You also heard another man, one who was born, lived his young days in the coal region, a young man who worked his way up, studied law and became a lawyer, a district attorney, and prosecuted murderers himself for about nine years, and after became a judge upon the bench, and who is one to-day, and you heard him come here as an advocate of this mesaure. You also heard men in other walks of life, religious, professional and ordinary business men. You have had letters here from wardens of the prisons, Warden McKenna of the Eastern Penitentiary, Warden Francis of the Western Penitentiary, all advocating the passage of this bill, men who have come into contact with the criminals and the so-called murderers every day of their lives. Now I say to you that those men have pressed you with the sincerity of their purpose and the honestry of their convictions. The advocates for the death penalty and those who want to maintain it always say that it is the only absolute safeguard to socieety. That it is the only deterrent that will prevent people from committing murder. I have heard it said by some one sitting in this hall a few weeks ago, one member said, why if we pass that bill, any married man's life will be unsafe because his wife if she has a grudge against him will poison him. I do not know whether it occurred to that member or not, but it is a fact, that I think you men here will agree with me, that so far as women are concerned, capital punishment has been abolished for some time in the State of Pennsylvania. I cannot recollect in my time of one woman who has been executed for murder. I know it has not been for a great many years. Has there been any cry throughout the State that the crime of murder perpetrated by women has increased to an alarming extent? Have you heard men express the fear that women are committing murder more frequently than they used to, but to the contrary it is a most rare occurrence now-a-days when you hear of a woman committing such an offense. So I say if you take that home with you, the very fact that so far as women are concerned it has been abolished, why not abolish it so far as men are concerned? Psychologically speaking, we think the same way, our brains work practically in the same way, and if the women do not take advantage of the situation why should men take advantage of it. As my friend from Lancaster said a few minutes ago, about a century ago England punished over 150 offenses by inflicting the death penalty. They contended that in order to stop a man from stealing they must hang him, and the servitude and promptitude of the punishment would so instill fear in the breast of every man that the offense of larceny would no longer exist in England. And yet right under the noose of the hangmen, on the gallows, thievery was committed, and the pick-pockets worked there while the execution was taking place. It did not stop them, they were stealing just the same. They found that it did not have any effect upon it, and the result was that England abolished capial punishment for all offenses except murder. I cannot understand if the punishment is to act as a deterrent and it did not deter a man from stealing, why should it prevent him from committing murder, when surely a man's passions are much stronger and his reason is more more taken from him than it is in the ordinary case of stealing.

A good many countries both in this continent and abroad have existed for many years without capital punishment. Many of the great countries of Europe have lived for many years without capital punishment and it is not regarded as far as I know by the population there that the citizens over there have felt that their lives have been in danger to such an extent that they had to demand that capital punishment be inflicted again. Here in this country eleven states are now doing without capital punishment. Ever since the war started, the other day, the Governor of Missouri signed a bill exactly similar to this bill; and since Russia, the great new democracy, was established, the first thing they did was to abolish capital punishment, although it had been abolished in Russia previous to that time by the monarchs. Now my friends, I have a fair conviction, and it is not a matter of sentiment with me, it is an opinion gained from my experience in the trial of cases in the criminal courts, and I believe that if we pass this bill we can go away with the first conviction that we have done what is right, that we have done nothing to harm the citizens in every particular, and I sincerely hope that the men of this House will vote in the affirmative on this bill.

Mr. HAIGHT. Mr. Speaker, I have been called upon to make some remarks in regard to this bill. I am taken somewhat by surprise, as I do not claim to be a public speaker. It is out of my line entirely, but I have strong convictions in regard to this act. I believe that capital punishment is the only safeguard, the only punishment for a man who has committed murder. You all understand the definition of murder,—premeditated, deliberate and wilful. If a man commits the crime of murder he should be punished for the crime. It is the only thing in my judgment that will properly deal with the evildoer. We have a large amount of criminals in this country, and capital punishment is the only thing that keeps them anywhere in line. We have punishment for all sorts of crime, for misdemeanors of all description, with the proper punishment for them. They have a regard for the law in those cases, and that is the same idea that should prevail in regard to capital punishment. It is the certainty of punishment that has a restraining influence on men. If we can arrange this thing in some manner to make punishment more certain, that man will receive justice, they will have more respect for the law. I recall an article comparing this country with Germany. It was a wonderful comparison. They, of course, have police regulations far exceeding ours. They have just reversed the matter, and very few men after having committed the crime of murder have escaped. They were punished accordingly. It is the certainty of punishment that restrains a man. That is the idea that restrains a man from committing a crime, the certainty of conviction and punishment. We are unfortunate in this country that we have so many criminals, and the greatest crimes are the crimes committed by those who takes the lives of other men. Yet the restraining influence is the fear of detection and punishment. One thing I would suggest that would in some way mitigate this, and that would be better police regulations. In Germany they have police regulation far exceeding anything in this country. They are divided into districts, and it is almost impossible for a man to prove an alibi. That is the greatest thing they try to prove, that they were not there when the murder was commited. We all know that every man was absent when he committed murder. If we have better police regulation such a man could be kept from offiering that defense, and it would be almost impossible for him to escape. As far as murder is concerned we all agree that it is a heinous crime. A man who commits cold-blooded murder ought to have no sympathy. We have no sympathy with him, and he ought not to have it. We are getting too sentimental on this question. We are governed by public sentiment, it is a powerful thing, and public sentiment is in favor of capital punishment. I fully believe that capital punishment restrains the criminal.

Mr. PALMER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House some years ago a man followed another man from one state into a state that had abolished capital punishment, and shot him in the breast. You remember that; you remember the time when the man shot Theodore Roosevelt, in the state of Wisconsin—a good American, a man valuable to his country—and this man knew if he could get him into a state where there was no capital punishment that he would be brave enough to make himself notorious.

"Know thyself, presume not God to scan,
The proper study of mankind is man."

Now they come on both sides with many and numerous statistics until we are lost in the maze of figures. Ask yourself this question. Is the fact that they take your life where you deliberately, wilfully and with malice aforethought lie in wait and there kill your fellow-man, does that deter you more than if they were going to give you life imprisonment? If you were going to kill a man, which would deter you, the life imprisonment or the fact that they were going to take you out of the death cell and there take your life? There is only one answer to that question, and you would say that that would deter you more than the life imprisonment. I know a man who told me that if it was not for the fact that they would take his life that he would kill a certain fellow. Now then, it is true the death penalty does not abolish murder, but it deters. Retributive justice we admit belongs alone to God Almighty, but in the walls of society and the imperfection of human nature it is necessary for the protection of good men, good women, good children, law-abiding and peaceful, that you deter some man who has no regard for law, no regard for life, and no regard for those things which have been handed down by divine and holy writ. They can give you all the statistics and talk all the criminology that they want. When we have reached the stage of human perfection, when we have reached the time when all men shall reason properly, when passion no longer dethrones reason, it will not be necessary to have penalties for the crime of murder because men will not desire to commit murder. A man when he is convicted of the crime of murder is given a long term of imprisonment, almost life, or as many years as a man can endure within the prison cell. It practically takes his life. When a man who is burglarizing a house is alarmed, he flees, because he does not want to be put in a position where it is necessary to kill, but if you do away with capital punishment you do away with that deterring fact that puts a premium on every man,

You do away with that deterring factor and it puts a premium upon every man who does burglary and you hereby notify him, if you pass this bill that when he goes into a house where there is no other defense than the fact that the woman and children are there to cry and you are prompting him to notify them that he will proceed with this burglary and if they intercept, that he is going to kill them, and it would be better to do so as far as a criminal is concerned if he did kill, because why? He silences the mouth of the only witnesses that can appear against him either for the burglary or anything else. You put a premium up to every burglar, you put a premium up to every man who stops you on the highway that he kills you because he gets away with his proposition and he silences the mouth of the witness. I have no fault to find with the men who have gotten up to the point perhaps when they believe that "Thou shalt not kill," either the State or anybody else, but holy writ says that "He who sheds a man's blood by man shall his blood he shed." There are certain things which work themselves out in society and there are certain plans which we must make for ourselves. God Almighty left us free agents. If he did not in his general scheme desire that we work out certain things for ourselves, then murder would be done away with. I know the time is becoming very tiresome with this continual speaking on the proposition and I take it for granted that a lot of thought has been given this matter and that you will conscientiously decide and register your vote, but without regard I speak from another standpoint. The men who desire to abolish capital punishment desire to do it for the purpose of humanity and for the purpose of leading out a man who deliberately kills and save that life. All this talk about circumstantial evidence and about the juries not coming up to the mark comes from the famous case of Durant who was hanged on circumstantial evidence in the State of California. There was a great big point on this circumstantial proposition and afterwards it developed that another man had killed those two girls in the belfry of the church and that the jury had convicted Durant on circumstantial evidence because Durant committed perjury all during the trial. He said he had been at school that afternoon and when they went to the school they found by examination of the scholars and the teacher that he had not been at school and they went over the school roll call and found he had not been there, and they found that he had lied and he wilfully mislead that jury into a conviction. Why? He became a perjurer and, of course, when you perjure yourself and the jury knows that you lie they are apt to believe, and so are you and so am I, that the man is guilty of the crime charged; otherwise why didn't he tell the truth. So they talk to you and argue to you and appeal to you on the ground that a few men should be kept at the pay of the State and I ask you for my own mother. I ask you for my wife and children and for all the people near and dear to me, and for every decent man, woman and child in the great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, that you give them this protection and tell the man who does kill anyone of them that you are going to take him out and make him answer for that life; and that is my argument and that is why I ask you to vote against this bill.

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I am in favor of the passage of this bill. On principal I am opposed to capital punishment and always have been. If capital punishment for the death penalty deterred crime, if it lessened the number of murders in one scintilla or had done so during the years we have had it in force in Pennsylvania and in other states and in other nations, then I would be agaist this bill. The history of capital punishment has been the very opposite. It has not deterred crime. The object of punishment is to reform the criminal and to deter crime, and if the death penalty does not reform the criminal and does not deter crime then in the face of the fact that there is a great question as to whether or not it is right to commit legal murder, as we say, and that ought to be a question of serious import to every member of this House. I wish to tell of an instance of personal experience that I had as an attorney relative to the death penalty. While I had always been opposed to the death penalty I have been convinced by my own experience that it ought not to be inflicted and that life imprisonment should be inflicted instead of the death penalty. A few years ago I prosecuted a prisoner accused of murder. At the same term of court I defended a prisoner accused of murder. I succeeded in convicting both of them and they both were hanged in Jefferson County. I became familiar with all the details of the crimes that they were accused of having committed. I knew absolutely what had taken place, the motives of these men. Both of them were Italians. They were foreigners. One of them had been in this country for six weeks only; the other had been here for a number of years. The one was guilty of murder; the other was not guilty of murder; and yet both were convicted and both were hanged, as I said before. If the death penalty had not been inflicted in those cases long since a man who was innocent would have been a free man because he was convicted upon the perjured testimony of some of his fellow-countrymen who were prejudiced against him, and these same men who went on the witness stand and swore away his life would have come out later, if he had been sentenced to life imprisonment, and admitted the facts and he would have been a free man to-day. For that reason alone, in view of the fact that capital punishment does not deter crime and that the man behind the bars is just as safe as he is in his grave, for that reason, gentlemen of the House, we should abolish capital punishment in Pennsylvania.

There are hundreds of cases of that kind on record in this State and every other state in the Union where men have been convicted of murder when they were innocent and they have been hanged. We have on the records of this State and in other states and other nations many instances where afterwards, after men were convicted of murder and sentenced to life imprisonment, afterwards others came forward and admitted that they had committed the crime and they were set free. The doubt is always there, but in these instances to which I refer I know positively that the one man was innocent and the other man was guilty and they were both hanged. I say then that while I always, on principle, opposed capital punishment I am opposed to it positively for that reason if for no other. I ask the members of this House to consider, first, does capital punishment reform the criminal? Second, does it defeat crime? If it does not then vote for this law and abolish capital punishment in Pennsylvania.

Mr. LOHR. Mr. Speaker, as a member of the Assembly in 1913 it was my privilege to sit in this House and listen to the very able address of my friend from Lancaster, Mr. Hess, when he spoke in favor of substituting electrocution for hanging. Four years later it is my privilege again to sit in the halls of this House and listen to the able address of the same member advocating the abolition of the death penalty in Pennsylvania. I was beginning to think until a few years ago that probably the time for crime would soon pass away and when we as Americans could have gotten along so far that capital punishment was unnecessary, and that even life imprisonment would be unnecessary. At the present time, when hundreds of thousands of men are being called to the front to sacrifice their lives for the sake of their country I do not believe that this is the time and that we have not yet arrived at that time. I believe that this is the most inopportune time to abolish the death penalty in Pennsylvania. I believe that after the war now in progress in this country, that the people in general will have a lighter regard for the value of a life than they have at the present time. Those who go to the front become inured to seeing life sacrificed in every possible manner and when they come home any grievances they may have, and with less gravity than at the present time will cause them to take a life when occasion presents itself. I believe that the death penalty is a deterrent of crime; also that Pennsylvania is one of the states that should not be the first to abolish the death penalty, because we have in this State a conglommerate people. Pennsylvania with its diversified interests with people from other sections of the world, from the offscourings of Southern Europe and from all sections of the world, come to our shores. If we abolish the death penalty in Pennsylvania at this time I believe that we can only look for an increase in the number of murders. The gentlemen who spoke on the opposite side of this question say that the death penalty is not a deterrent of crime. They cannot prove it. There are no statistics to show it.

It may not have been a deterrent in other states, but other states exist under different conditions from Pennsylvania; they have a different class of people to deal with. They have to deal with agricultural and industrial peoples while we have the mining sections and we have as low a class of people among the miners as you find anywhere in the United States. You take from those fellows the fear of being required to give their life for the life they take and I believe that the rate of murders will increase and increase perceptibly. I believe also that something else will increase: I believe that the number of lynchings will increase in Pennsylvania if this bill is passed. Take for instance the case of the man who outrages or assaults your daughter to whom you have given your best care and attention, and through that assault and outrage the daughter dies. Would you as an American citizen with any red blood in your veins feel that you have done your duty if you allowed that scoundrel to escape, or would you attempt to get your neighbors to your assistance and see that the person who committed the outrage should not be allowed to perpetrate the same crime again. They tell us this man shall be imprisoned for life and thereby there will be reform. The history of imprisonment for life is entirely a different matter. We find that many who are confined to imprisonment for life are pardoned or some of them escape. We have an instance in our own county where men have been imprisoned for murder who have escaped and while escaping have assaulted those under whose charge they were, their keepers, and tried to murder them. There is no certainty at all that that man whom you have imprisoned for life is going to serve out that sentence. There may be a pardon or some means of escape. I take it for granted that the man who is about to commit a heinous crime either such as a robbery or if he has a spite or a grudge against some one if there is no death penalty back of it, he will not hesitate, as has been said by my friend from Lackawanna, in the least to seal the mouth of the only witness that will possibly be against him, in the event of his having been caught in the act of a robbery and therefore will commit murder also, because the penalty for the murder will not be much greater than the penalty for robbery. Therefore, I claim that if we pass this bill that we are taking away a safeguard in this Commonwealth. I believe that this is a most inopportune time to take up a measure of this gind and pass it. I believe that Pennsylvania, at the present time, is not the proper place in which to pass a bill of this kind. Therefore, I hope my friends will vote against it.

Mr. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, in rising to speak on this question I realize that we are throwing ourselves open to the accusation that we may be inhuman, but I want to say that I am in favor of capital punishment on the high and broad ground of humanity, because I believe that it is absolutely essential and necessary in order to preserve the lives of our members of society. I am an advocate of capital punishment because I am convinced that it is right and that it is founded on the same ancient authority, if you please, that all our laws are founded upon and that is so universally recognized by the people of this country. We have just as good authority for our position in this matter as the advocates of the bill have for theirs, and I believe considerably better.

I believe that capital punishment deters crime notwithstanding all the statistics that you may quote in favor of abolishing it. I can quote just as good, and just as many statistics to the contrary. Statistics and figures in a matter of this kind will fall down absolutely in the face of our own human nature, and in the face of our inherent instincts that tells us that capital punishment is a deterrent for this crime. Some people appear to believe that we who oppose the passage of this bill believe that the inflicting of capital punishment is a joyful occasion. I want to say to you, my friends, the saddest thing that the law of this country has to perform is the infliction of capital punishment, but I want to say it is a duty which surmounts all sentimentality and fanaticism that may creep into this great proposition. The advocates of this bill have made one grave blunder in their consideration of it, in that they have failed, if you please, to make any distinction between homicide and murder. Of all the killings which are properly termed homicides, murder is a very small proportion. We have murder which is premeditated, carefully planned killing; we have murder on the spur of the moment which is termed second degree murder, we have both voluutary and involuntary manslaughter, the penalty for which is not nearly so great, and then, gentlemen, we have justifiable killing. Would any man in this House say that any citizen in Pennsylvania does not have the right to take life in the proteciton of himself or his family? Will you say that killing in every circumstance is a crime under the laws of this country? Oh no, you cannot go that far. There has been a great compaign put on in this State by a great newspaper in the city of Philadelphia, and they have advocated that you place the passage of this bill on the grounds of sentiment, and not on the grounds of substantial facts. Only a day or two ago they came out and said that the perpetrators of the great explosion that happened a few days ago, if they were apprehended and brought to trial and convicted, they, of course, would be stood up against the wall and shot as they deserve. Yet they will say the man who carefully premeditates and plans the killing of a fellow human being should only be sentenced to life imprisonment. Murder in the true sense of the word is the result of premeditation. I want to say to you, my friends, the man who takes the time to premeditate, and calculate his crime, has the time to meditate on what the result may be of his taking human life, and while he is predominating he meditates on what may be the result, and in many instances I am entirely satisfied it deters him from the commission of that crime.

The real question at issue and which we are considering, or ought to be considering, is whether or not the passage of this bill will hinder and deter the commission of crime. I am not so "sot" in my ways, in my belief, on this particular question that if anything definite and tangible could be produced, that was convincing, and that would show that the passage of this bill would lessen the crime of murder, then I would gladly support it, but everything points to the contrary. There are more of us that believe that capital punishment deters and that murder would increase if this bill were passed. There may come a time in this world, but I hardly think there will, when we would be justified in abolishing capital punishment, but just so long as man commits premeditated murder, for the protection and safeguard of society the law must step in and say if you commit murder, you forfeit your life. I have very little sympathy with the men who are so narrow in their views and that allow their sentimentality to get away with their better judgment, to the extent that they will boldly assert in the midst of intelligent thinking men that legalize killing as a punishment for crime is murder. Of all the ridiculous propositions that have been argued upon and down throughout this Commonwealth that is the most ridiculous. I say that the man whose duty it is to carry out the mandate of our law is justified, not only justified, but it is a high public duty that he owes to the Commonwealth, and when the man whose duty it is to inflice capital punishment, inflicts it, he is carrying out a great duty that is imposed upon him by the people of this Commonwealth.

Gentlemen, if you will pardon me, I will make reference to our own county, the county of Lawrence, because I think we have there the best example of the salient influence of capital punishment in our whole country. Only a few years ago we had a notorious band of black-handers that was the terror of that community. They were almost daily committing grave offenses against the law and against the peace. They were committing murders so frequently that they terrorized the whole community. Our legal authorities in the Commonwealth went after that proposition and put on a campaign. They detected those men in their crime, went into the courts, and convicted them on lawful proof and we hung a number of men in our county. Gentlemen of this House, from that day to this we have been almost absolutely free from the heinous crime of murder in that county.

Now would any man say that that foreign element would be deterred from the commission of that crime simply because they were taken out of their homes and transplanted in penitentiary for life? Don't you know my friends that under the present conditions you would take men from environments about their homes and transplant them into the penitentiary, and you would give them a much better, and much more wholesame and much pleasanter place to spend the rest of their lives than they had in the place where they were living. Gentlemen of this House you cannot deter a man from committing murder by transplanting him in a more pleasant place to live than he had before. You cannot deter the commission of this crime by making it so easy for the man to escape. Don't you know that under present conditions, average number years that a man who committed murder serves is twelve years. Now are you going to pas this law and incarcerate those men who have committed first degree murder in prison, and let them out on an average of twelve years. You cannot deter men from committing crime that way. After all is said and done the one thing that man loves most is his life. The thing that man will hesitate most for is for the protection and safety of his own life. The thing that deters a man most is the protection of his life and the protection of his family and loved ones from disgrace. I believe that every man within my hearing, if he were for a moment contemplating in his own mind the commission of the crime of murder, the thing that would deter him most would be the little family he has at home, the disgrace that it would bring to that family, the disgrace that it would bring to the wife, and when he premeditates the commission of that crime, he unquestionably considers those things. If he commits murder on the spur of the moment he does not have time to premeditate on these things, but that is not first degree murder, and the penalty now is but life imprisonment. They use the argument on the other side that we cannot now get convictions, but you know who have been in court that the overwhelming proportion of men who are charged ought not to be convicted of first degree murder. All the presumption of law are in favor of the accused, and the proof submitted, and must pass twelve men who must be convinced beyond a reasonable doubt not only the majority of them, if you please, but must convince every man beyond a reasonable doubt of the guilt of that man of premeditated murder. We have thrown safeguards around the man who is accused, and any of you men who have had experience in the court room during the trial of a man charged with murder know that there is in the overwhelming proportion of cases something in those cases that convinces you that he is not guilty of first degree murder beyond a reasonable doubt. Do not let your sentiment get away with you in this matter and do not let this question get conflicted in your mind so that you are unable to make the distincion beween homicide and murder in the first degree. There is the real issue in this matter. Almost all the statistics you have heard, almost all the arguments you have heard, have been based on the number of homicides and not the number of first degree murders, as distinguished from homicide. Yes, and they will agrue that we cannot get enough convictions under the present law. Of course, if you lessen the penalty you will get more convictions. If you would lessen the penalty now, for example, and make it thirty days in jail for any man who had commited murder you would find that every man perhaps charged with murder would step up and plead guilty and take his sentence. The fallacy of that argument ought not to be convincing, because we do not want to be convicted of premeditated murder until it has passed the acid test of the twelve men who have to be convinced beyond a reasonable doubt. All we attorneys have tried cases in criminal court and almost invariably we are convinced that our client is innocent, and we believe it, and feel in our own minds that we know he is innocent, yet we have all had the sad awakening of developments thereafter, and we find out that our client, instead of being innocent, was guilty and most guilty. The real question, as I said before, is not to get more convictions, but is to give man such a punishment that will deter him from committing the crime. What, my friends, would you do in this case, where in a neighboring county only a few days ago there was an awful catastrophy where many lives were sacrificed? Supposing now that the law shall apprehend some person or persons and prove beyond a reasonable doubt that they were the perpetrators of that awful crime. You would take those men, after this law has been passed, and incarcerate them in a penitentiary for life. Then in a short time some person from outside of the walls of that penitentiary would smuggle in a explosive and they would explode a part of that penitentiary and murder a great number of other people. How in the name of Heaven, my friends, would you punish the men for the second crime committed? Men have been murdered in prison. Under the provisions of this bill you could give them no punishment for their second crime. Gentlemen, what we need in this country is not the abolishment of capital punishment, but what we need is to model the administration of our affairs of this state a little more after the administration of criminal law in England, where men who are proven to have committed murder are brought speedily to justice, with the result that murder in England is almost nothing in comparison with every other place. What we need is a speedy and sure administration of justice, the conviction and punishment of the man who commits the crime, and we never can accomplish that by the elimination of capital punishment. I trust that the men of this House will vote down this bill; vote it down because as long as we have crime such as murder we must have punishment equal to that, in order that we may cure the man and deter him from committing the offense.

Mr. MILNER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, the gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. Palmer, use the old text from Genesis that he who sheds man's blood by man shall his be shed. Men have been resorting to the Bible for many years to justify their acts or deeds. I heard a faith cure lecturer argue that a man should not go to a physician, and he quoted a verse in Chronicles which says that Asa in his thirty-ninth year was taken sick with a disease in his feet and that in his illness he sought not the Lord but went unto his physician, and Asa slept with his fathers. The apologists the Negro slavery in the days of the Civil War tried to justify their position by quoting the Bible. And it strikes me as an argument in favor of this bill that capital punishment does not deter a man from crime. The fallacy that underlies the plausible argument that it does is that it assumes that it acts upon a man at a particular moment, at the moment that he actually commits the crime, whereas the fact is, and human experience shows it, that the man who commits murder does not think of the thing at the time he commits the crime.

It may be that in the solemn court of justice when he is confronted with all the paraphernalia of the law and he is brought to bay and the passion, the hatred or lust of greed has long since been extinguished, that then there looms up before the unhappy wretch the penalty of death, but certainly not when he actually is committing the crime because it is often committed by an insane man who has no contemplation of crime, by the drunken man who has no reason or a man who is laboring under intense excitement or a mental defective; and the trouble of society as to the latter class is that they put the gallows at the end of the lane instead of the guide posts at the beginning.

Now, heavy punishments have never deterred men from crime. The ancients exercised horrible ingenuity in finding a way to punish the prisoner. They even nailed them to the cross and put them in hot oil and burned them at the stake and broke them over wheels or tortured them on the rack, yet none of those things deterred men from crime. It was once the law in this land that we brand a man with red-hot irons for certain crimes and that did not deter them and we would not want to do that now. It was also once the law to cut off a man's hands for crime and yet that did not stop them; then why maintain this barbaric relic, the electric chair. I tell you that every time I read of the description of an electrocution in the electric chair, such as I did the other day when they stated that a man was brought into the room and there was intense stillness in the room, everybody's face was blanched and the attendants could hardly bring the poor wretch in, and then they tried to buckle him to the chair and their fingers trembled so that they could hardly buckle the straps and then finally the current was sent through the poor wretch and the State took the human life, and I thought of the words of one of the victims of old of capital punishment when he was nailed to the cross, "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do." Now this teaching comes down to us all through the ages. Even from Mount Sinai we get the injunction "Thou shalt not kill;" and we all recall the Sermon on the Mount and the injunction given "Be merciful even as thy Father is merciful." And so, as capital punishment does not reform and does not deter, I think the enlightened conscience of this Commonwealth should veto this old decree of the law and write a new decree of law, "Thou shalt not kill."

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Less than the majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative and the bill falls.

REASONS FOR VOTE.

Mr. McCURDY. Mr. Speaker, I having voted on the affirmative of this bill did so for the following reasons:

First, the courts of Blair County which I represent have not been able to return a verdict of murder in the first degree for a period of thirty years, the jury always returning a compromise verdict after laboring until tired out. The last murder trial held in Blair County, it was necessary for the sheriff and his deputies to go to several towns outside of the county capitol for sufficient talismen to fill juries owing to so many, when called, declared themselves as being against capital punishment.

Second, I do not believe man has a right to take the life of another when we can place these criminals securely in prisons where they should work to help support the dependents of those they murdered.

Third, Many innocent men have been hanged or electrocuted, the real murderer having made the confession of committing the crime instead of the one that suffered the penalty for the same.

Mr. CHARLES A. SHAFFER. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following reasons for voting "no" on this bill:

Because the present conditions of our country in war with Germany does not warrant any change at this time.

Second, the majority of the members of the Bar of Columbia County are against it; the Medical Society in session week of April 9th, per resolution, unanimously oppose abolishing capital punishment; the ministers spoke publicly in pulpit on Sunday, April 15th, against abolishing capital punishment and my constituent, my belief, are opposed to it.

Mr. STRAUSS. Mr. Speaker, I vote "no" on this bill as I am in favor of House Bill No. 60 now on the calendar and will vote "aye" in favor of the proposition therein to let the jury trying the case say whether the penalty in murder of the first degree shall be death or life imprisonment.

SPEAKER BALDWIN IN THE CHAIR.

MOTION TO RECONSIDER VOTE.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, I move you that the vote by which House Bill No. 117, File Folio No. 2257, entitled on page one of to-day's calendar, was defeated on final passage be reconsidered.

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, the point of order is that the vote on this bill cannot be reconsidered, as I understand it, until it lies over for one day.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will rule that the point of order is not well taken.

Mr. WHITAKER. Mr. Speaker, I don't believe that at this time, when many of the members are absent, that it is the intention of the gentleman from Elk or members of this House to vote on this proposition, at least until it has had a fair chance to be thought over and if any members are desirous of changing their mind on the subject that they have an opportunity to do so. It appears to me that to vote the motion down at this time would be unfair to the supporters of the bill. If any members of the House desire to change their vote on the subject and desire to vote for a reconsideration those members who will do so, will do so at a time when the full membership of the House is present and when it has a genuine reconsideration. I doubt if the gentleman wishes to be unfair to the measure and kill it at this time and I ask him for that reason to withdraw his motion for the present. I know of no members of the House who as yet have changed their attitude on the subject. If they do they will make a motion to reconsider the bill and it will have a fair opportunity. If the gentleman insists on the motion I would like an opportunity at least to make a motion to lay his motion on the table.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, my purpose in making the motion at this time is to dispose of this bill now, once and for all for the present session. We have had this matter before us at various sessions in the past and it has been one of the measures on which we members have button-holed and dragged here and there, and there is not a member in this House that is not perfectly familiar with the provisions of this act, and we had a fair and sincere vote on it this morning and practically the entire membership of the House was present. We have perhaps as many members present now as we will have at any time during this week and therefore I insist upon my motion being considered at this time.

Mr. WHITAKER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman who makes that motion makes the definite statement that his object is to kill the bill, finally. That to our minds is a definite statement and that his attitude is unfair because of it. With the passage of that motion it is not possible to secure a reconsideration of the bill. He knows, as we all know, that it failed of passage by a very slight majority and he also knows that a very few, two or three members, were not present for various reasons, and did not have an opportunity to vote for it. If there were any genuine bona fide attempt to reconsider it, this motion would not be made at this time. That is the only reason for which this rule has been provided, it will be done by those who have changed their minds on the subject at another time. The rules have provided wisely that a bill defeated may be reconsidered at any time within five days. If this is a fair rule, and there is no doubt that it is, five days ought to be accorded to those who favor the bill and a majority of the members that have already expressed themselves in favor of it would be given another opportunity, and it seems to me that it would be only a matter of fairness to the members of the House to stand by it and postpone it at the present time. I, therefore, move that the motion of the gentleman from Elk, Mr. Flynn, be laid on the table.

Mr. LEWIS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Walter and Mr. Lohr and were as follows:

So the question was determined in the negative, and the motion was not agreed to.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, I now desire to renew my motion.

The SPEAKER. The motion is before the House.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion to reconsider the vote?

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, I move the House do now adjourn.

Mr. VICKERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion.

The motion was not agreed to.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, I ask you what question is now before the House.

The SPEAKER. The question before the House is on the motion to reconsider by Mr. Flynn, of Elk.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion to reconsider the vote?

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, I bowed before the decision of the Chair. I take it now that the question is on the motion of the gentleman from Elk, Mr. Flynn. I have never been an enthusiastic advocate of suffrage. I have announced myself as against suffrage in principle each time that the question has been voted on here when it was submitted two years ago and I voted against the granting of suffrage to the other six. That, in my judgment, was inconclusive and therefore I am in favor of resubmission, but I cannot let this occasion pass without expressing my opinion upon the tactics that are being used by the gentlemen who are opposed to this resolution and wish to sandbag it. It is the first resolution before the House at this session that a deliberate and premeditated attempt has been made to kill. It may succeed but I don't know why so many of these chivalrous gentlemen who wanted to protect the other sex from the roughhouse of politics would use this sort of method to sandbag the bill.

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order. The gentleman is making charges.

The SPEAKER. The Chair sustains the point of the gentleman from Elk, and the gentleman from Franklin will confine himself to the subject under discussion.

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, I will apologize to the gentleman from Elk, but I cannot help but observe that it is extraordinary that this particular measure should be singled out and that this is the only time that the House exercises this method. And it is in some respect, to my mind, bad politics on the part of the majority of the House. I trust that the motion to reconsider will be agreed to and that the resolution will again be placed on the calendar.

The SPEAKER. The question is whether the vote shall be reconsidered by which this bill was lost.

Mr. VICKERMAN. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I want to call your attention to the fact that the proceedings of the gentleman on the opposite side, the minority party, is going to put the Republican Party in a hole. I want to say to you here who are of the majority party that we put a plank in our platform during the last election in favor of this amendment. This is a deliberate attempt to put the Republican Party in wrong, It is not fair, it is not right to vote it down in this way, and we will hear from the people next November.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I am mighty sorry that this quetsion has arisen. I believe you will agree with me when I say that both sides have had a fair decision and as fair a consideration as any measure that has been before this House. Now accusations have been going back and forth across the House of gang rule, one man moves to re-consider another man moves to adjourn, and they are both trying to work the gag rule. Now let me given you a little bit of inside information. If woman suffrage is defeated by this House, it is defeated by the advocates of woman suffrage. The members had no more than gotten out into that lobby there until Mrs. Funk stated that liquor interests were back of the defeat of this bill, and has lobbyied here for a defeat, and that is what stirred the people up. If a man cannot come here and vote for a measure as a matter of decency without having that slur cast in his face it is a mighty unfortunate thing for any woman from the State of Illinois to make the accusation that the liquor interests control any votes in this House on this question.

Mr. RICH. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Armstrong.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Milliron, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MILLIRON. With pleasure.

Mr. RICH. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman believe that the accusations supposed to have been made by that woman are true?

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, absolutely not as far as it applies to me.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Clinton, Mr. Rich.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Clinton, Mr. Rich, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. RICH. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, has Mrs. Funk had any influence on the gentleman from Clinton?

Mr. RICH. Mr. Speaker, I would say for the information of the gentleman that the lady did not try to have an influence on me.

Mr. VICKERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Armstrong.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Armstrong permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, with pleasure.

Mr. VICKERMAN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Armstrong, made a statement a few minutes ago with reference to the statements made by Mrs. Funk, with regard to the liquor dealers' lobby, I want to ask the gentleman from Armstrong if he does not know for a fact that in this House last night and to-day and for several days there have been paid lobbists working against this bill, one Bonner has been here and all the paid lobbists from Allegheny and Philadelphia have been here.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, in answer to that with uplifted hand I will say that I do not know that to be true, and no one has spoken to me with reference to the matter.

Further than that, I do not need to ask the gentleman from Allegheny the same question I asked the gentleman from Clinton, Mr. Rich, because everybody knows that it is true with regard to him.

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, it seems to me that the House has taken a humorous turn in regard to this motion which is entirely in order and which should be acted upon on its merit. What difference does it make whether all the paid lobbyists of all the liquor dealers in the State, or all the manufactures in the State, or all the paid lobbyists in the National Capital, lobby against this bill, the question before this House now to be considered by us is the question as to whether this motion of Mr. Flynns' to reconsider will be voted upon favorably or unfavorably. Let us stop all this nonsense that we are in now. Might I just simply say this in passing, suppose we wait until to-morrow, suppose we wait until the next day, suppose we wait until the next, or within five days, and what do we wait for. We wait for an opportunity for the advocates of woman suffrage to turn the votes of men in this House. Is that fair, is it fair that they might be able to use some method to change votes. This is a full House here now. It is almost as full a House as it was this morning. There is no better time to act upon it than now, and I hope that in sound judgment the gentlemen will vote on the question now without further debate.

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to state that he has permitted the House to proceed along in parlimentary lines on the question of sustaining the decision of the Chair, and it was only because the Chair did not want to appear to railroad anything that he permitted this to proceed as it has. The members all know that it is only a question on the decision of the Chair. Now the Chair decides the noes have it, and

The question recurs,

Will the House reconsider the vote by which this bill was lost?

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the motion made by the gentleman from Elk, he has distinctly stated that he was tired of the proposition and we should finish it to-day, and I get on my feet only for a common purpose, and that is to appeal to this House for common courtesy to the member from Chester who introduced this joint resolution. I believe that we should reconsider the bill, put it on the postponed calendar, and treat this measure just the same as we have treated many other measures that have been defeated. We should at least extend to the gentleman from Chester the courtesy of that proceeding, and I hope that the spirit of fairness will permeate everyone here to-day and show that courtesy to the gentleman from Chester.

The yeas and nays pere required by Mr. Ehrhardt and Mr. Glass and were as follows:

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That section three of the act approved the fifth day of March one thousand nine hundred and six (Pamphlet Laws sixty-three) entitled "An Act to provide for the personal registration of electors in cities of the third class of this Commonwealth to make such registration a condition of the right to vote in such cities and to provide penalties for violation of its provisions" as amended by section two of the act approved the sixteenth day of June one thousand nine hundred and eleven (Pamphlet Laws one thousand fourteen) which reads as follows

"Section 3 The registrars of each precinct or ward shall meet at the polling-place thereof in even-numbered years on the ninth Thursday seventh Tuesday and fifth Saturday preceding the November election which shall be known as the Fall registration and on the third Wednesday preceding the Spring primary which shall be known as the Spring registration and in odd-numbered years on the tenth Thursday ninth Tuesday and eighth Saturday preceding the November election which shall be known as the Fall registration and shall remain in open session from eight ante meridian to one post meridian two to six post meridian and from seven post meridian to ten post meridian of each registration day They shall on said days receive personal applications from persons who claim that they are entitled to be registered as voters They shall have power to administer oaths shall examine said applicants under oath and shall record on the registers the names of such persons as are qualified to vote as herein provided Two weeks' notice of the registration days shall be given by the registrars posting notices at the polling-places Electors who did not register at Fall registration may register at Spring registration and the list shall become of no validity at the beginning of the period of Fall registration next succeeding that at which the registers were opened The old registers shall be preserved by the county commissioners for at least two years after the year in which they shall have been in use" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 3 The registrars of each precinct or ward shall meet at the polling-places thereof in even-numbered years on the ninth Thursday seventh Tuesday and fifth Saturday preceding the November election which shall be known as the Fall registration and on the third Wednesday preceding the Spring primary which shall be known as the Spring registration and in odd-numbered years on the tenth Thursday ninth Tuesday and eighth Saturday preceding the November Election which shall be known as the Fall registration and in any year when any special election for any purpose is held on the third Wednesday preceding such special election which shall be known as a special registration and shall remain in open session from eight ante meridian to one post meridian two to six post meridian and from seven post meridian to ten post meridian of each registration day They shall on said days receive personal applications from persons who claim that they are entitled to be registered as voters They shall have power to administer oaths shall examine said applicants under oath and shall record on the registers the names of such persons as are qualified to vote as herein provided Two weeks' notice of the registration days shall be given by the registrars posting notices at the polling-places Electors who did not register at Fall registration may register at Spring registration or at any special registration and the list shall become of no validity at the beginning of the period of Fall registrations next succeeding that at which the registers were opened The old registers shall be preserved by the county commissioners for at least two years after the year in which they shall have been in use

Section 2 So much of section four of said act as amended by section three of said act approved the sixteenth day of June one thousand nine hundred and eleven (Pamphlet Laws one thousand fourteen) which reads as follows

"Section 4 Every person claiming the right to vote must appear in person before the registrars in the precinct or ward in which he lives on one of the days prescribed by law prior to every November election and if he has subsequently to the said November election moved into another precinct or ward he must appear in person before the registrars in the district to which he has thus removed in order to enable him to vote at the ensuing Spring primary unless in either case he is prevented by sickness or necessary absence from the city from appearing before the said registrars to be registered in person In either of these cases it shall be his right at any time to present his petition to the county commissioners and in case they shall refuse to order his name placed on the registration list the said petitioner may appeal to the court of common pleas of the district in which he resides if the said court is in session or if not in session to any judge thereof whereupon the said court shall grant a rule upon the said county commissioners to show cause why the name of the said person should not be placed upon the register and the said court or judge thereof shall fix a day certain for the return of the said rule at which time parties can be heard and upon the return of the said rule upon a hearing duly had if the said court or judge shall be satisfied that the facts set forth in the petition are true and that the applicant was prevented by sickness or necessary absence from the city from appearing in person before the registrars and being registered and is qualified to vote the rule may be made absolute and the registrars shall be directed to place the name of such person or persons upon the registers" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 4 Every person claiming the right to vote must appear in person before the registrars in the precinct or ward in which he lives on one of the days prescribed by law prior to every November election and if he has subsequently to the said November election moved into another precinct or ward he must appear in person before the registrars in the district to which he has thus removed in order to enable him to vote at the ensuing Spring primary or any ensuing special election unless in either case he is prevented by sickness or necessary absence from the city from appearing before the said registrars to be registered in person In either of these cases it shall be his right at any time to present his petition to the county commissioners and in case they shall refuse to order his name placed on the registration list the said petitioner may appeal to the court of common pleas of the district in which he resides if the said court is in session or if not in session to any judge thereof whereupon the said court shall grant a rule upon the said county commissioners to show cause why the name of the said person should not be placed upon the register and the said court or judge thereof shall fix a day certain for the return of the said rule at which time the parties can be heard and upon the return of the said rule upon a hearing duly had if the said court or judge shall be satisfied that the facts set forth in the petition are true and that the applicant was prevented by sickness or necessary absence from the city from appearing in person before the registrars and being registered and is qualified to vote the rule may be made absolute and the registrars shall be directed to place the name of such person or persons upon the registers

Section 3 Section seven of said act as amended by section five of the act approved the sixteenth day of June one thousand nine hundred and eleven (Pamphlet Laws one thousand fourteen) which reads as follows

"Section 7 On the registration day preceding the Spring primary the registrars shall in addition to the registration of electors strike from the list the names of such persons as shall be proven to their satisfaction by the affidavits of at least two qualified electors of the precinct or ward to have died or removed from the district since the last registration The registrars shall record on blank forms provided for that purpose the names and previous places of registration giving wards and precincts of all persons registered by them on said day who give as such place of previous registration a place in the same city and shall forward the same to the commissioners for their information Thereafter upon the return of the registers to the office of the commissioners it shall be their duty to examine the same and wherever registered persons have given as their last place of registration another election district in the same city to strike said name from the register of said district of prior residence and to note thereon the reason for so removing the name Any registered elector who has removed between the November election and the Spring primary from one election district to another in the same city two calendar months prior to the Spring primary and who failed to apply to have his name transferred on the register on the registration day prior to the spring primary in the district to which he has removed may apply on the eleventh or tenth day prior to the Spring primary at the office of the county commissioners and have the registry of his name transferred from the district from which he has removed to the one in which he has taken up his new residence It shall be the duty of the commissioners upon satisfactory proof of the electors' identity to strike his name from the register in the district from which he has removed to examine him in the regular way as to his qualifications and if his answers are satisfactory to register him in the district to which he has removed is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 7 On the registration day preceding the Spring primary and on the registration day preceding each special election the registrars shall in addition to the registration of electors strike from the list the names of such persons as shall be proven to their satisfaction by the affidavits of at least two qualified electors of the precinct or ward to have died or removed from the district since the last registration The registrars shall record on blank forms provided for that purpose the names and previous places of registration giving wards and precincts of all persons registered by them on said day who give as such place of previous registration a place in the same city and shall forward the same to the commissioners for their information Thereafter upon the return of the registers to the office of the commissioners it shall be their duty to examine the same and wherever registered persons have given as their last place of registration another election district in the same city to strike said name from the register of said district of prior residence and to note thereon the reason for so removing the name Any registered elector who has removed between the November election and the Spring primary or any special election from one election district to another in the same city two calendar months prior to the spring primary or special election and who failed to apply to have his name transferred on the register on the registration day prior to the Spring primary or special election in the district to which he has removed may apply on the eleventh or tenth day prior to the spring primary or special election at the office of the county commissioners and have the registry of his name transferred from the district from which he has removed to the one in which he has taken up his new residence It shall be the duty of the commissioners upon satisfactory proof of the electors identity to strike his name from the register in the district from which he has removed to examine him in the regular way as to his qualifications and if his answers are satisfactory to register him in the district to which he has removed

Section 4 Section ten of said act as amended by section six of said act approved the sixteenth day of June one thousand nine hundred and eleven (Pamphlet Laws one thousand and fourteen) which reads as follows

"Section 10 At the end of each day's registration the registrars shall compare the two registers so kept and cause any errors in either of them to be corrected by aid of the entries in the other so as to make the same agree where there is any difference between them The registrars shall then sign their initials on the line immediately under the last name registered under each letter in both books together with the date At the close of both fall and spring registrations the registrars shall sign a certificate the form of which shall be printed on the last page of the register setting forth the number of persons registered on each day and the number of names which have been stricken out if any" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 10 At the end of each day's registration the registrars shall compare the two registers so kept and cause any errors in either of them to be corrected by aid of the entries in the other so as to make the same agree where there is any difference between them The registrars shall then sign their initials on the line immediately under the last name registered under each letter in both books together with the date

At the close of both Fall and Spring registrations and of any special registration the registrars shall sign a certificate the form of which shall be printed on the last page of the register setting forth the number of persons registered on each day and the number of names which have been stricken out if any

BILLS OVER IN ORDER.

Mr. C. A. SNYDER. Mr. President, I ask that Senate Bill No. 716, on third reading, entitled

An Act prohibiting holders of brewers' licenses from having officers or agents soliciting business in counties unless by authority of an agency license and providing for the revocation of certain licenses go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. C. A. SNYDER. Mr. President, I have been requested by several members to ask that this bill go over for the present. I want to say that I have consented to that, while I am very much in favor of this bill, because it regulates certain brewers in the State of Pennsylvania, who do not seem to respect the business of other brewers, and who go into other counties and sell their beer cheaper than they do in their own county, and in that way destroy the business of the man who has a brewery in the county for which a license is granted. I submit to the Senate that any of these gentlemen who have brewer clients who are interested in this bill, that they should get together between now and next Monday night and agree to conduct their brewery business properly, and I do not hesitate to say that the gentlemen whom I have in mind are the gentlemen from Berks, Mr. Lauer, and Mr. Horlacher, in Lehigh, and several other brewers who send their product throughout the State and sell it cheaper in one district than they do in their own. It is an unfair competition with brewers who establish large refrigerators and pay large sums of money in order to conduct their business. These men sell their product in other counties without license, send it on telephone orders, and so on, and we desire either to get revenue from that kind of business or stop it, and I wish that Senators who are interested in pirates of that sort, would see them and insist that they stop it, or see that the bill goes through.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair hears no objection.

Mr. W. W. SMITH. Mr. President, for the reasons that the Senator from Schuylkill, Mr. Snyder, has just stated, I ask that Senate Bill No. 725, on third reading, entitled

An Act requiring cities of the second class to give an increase of at least one hundred and fifty dollars per year to all employes now drawing a salary of fifteen hundred dollars per annum or less and providing a method to enforce the provisions of this act.

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO RECRUITMENT.

He also presented extract from the Journal of the House of Representatives which was read as follows:

Whereas The Government of the United States by virtue of the state of war existing with the German government faces a condition unequalled in its entire history and

Whereas The use of calm judgment and the adoption of practical systems in the present crisis will aid greatly in bringing victory to the arms of the United States and accomplish the great purposes for which this Government stands in this present crisis and

Whereas The great assets in the waging of successful warfare are the soldier in the trench the efficient worker in the factory and industrial establishment and the agriculturist and

Whereas The granaries of the world due to the drain thereupon by the European war of the last few years are practically empty and

Whereas The producer at home who furnishes to the army in the field the means of waging successful warfare should be considered as much a patriot as the man who serves in the field therefore

Resolved (if the Senate concur) That the President and the Congress of the United States be respectfully petitioned to avoid so far as possible the mistakes of European countries in recruiting into their armies soldiers unprepared for the proper conduct of modern warfare in recruiting skilled workmen from her factories and industries whose work in such factories and industries was of more importance to the success of their cause than was their enlistment into actual service and in recruiting men engaged in agricultural pursuits whose continuation in their present occupations is absolutely a necessity to produce the food which eventually goes to feed an army and to keep it up to its highest standard

Resolved That the Secretary of the Commonwealth be directed to send a copy of this resolution to the President of the United States the Senate of the United States and the House of Representatives of the United States

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, I move that the resolution just read be referred to the committee on Military Affairs.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. S. G. Zerfass, offered the following prayer:

Gracious Father, we come to Thee at the opening of the day to crave Thy blessing and thank Thee for the rest of the past night. Thou hast sustained us and art our refuge and strength.

Incline our hearts to keep Thy commandments; cleanse us from secret faults and keep us back also from presumptuous sins; make us strong for duty which requires wisdom and patience; fit us for doing good at home, yea, everywhere the one to the other.

Let nothing embitter our affection or mar our fellowship, and may our love for each other be more sincere, more patient, more thoughtful, and more devoted.

May the light shine out from the windows of our souls to show others how to live more sweetly.

We pray that the grace of God be upon us in proportion to our need, filling our hearts and lives and upbuilding of the Kingdom of God. We ask all in the name of the Redeemer. Amen.

RESOLUTION NO. 13.

Mr. COOK. Mr. Speaker, I call up Resolution No. 13, File Folio No. 1349.

The SPEAKER. The resolution will be read by the Clerk.

Whereas The Government of the United States by virtue of the state of war existing with the German government faces a condition unequaled in its entire history and

Whereas The use of calm judgment and the adoption of practical systems in the present crisis will aid greatly in bringing victory to the arms of the United States and accomplish the great purposes for which this government stands in this present crisis and

Whereas The great assets in the waging of successful warfare are the soldier in the trench the efficient worker in the factory and industrial establishment and the agriculturist and

Whereas The granaries of the world due to the drain thereupon by the European war of the last few years are practically empty and

Whereas The producer at home who furnishes to the army in the field the means of waging successful warfare should be considered as much a patriot as the man who serves in the field therefore

Resolved (if the Senate concur) That the President and the Congress of the United States be respectfully petitioned to avoid so far as possible the mistakes of European countries in recruiting into their armies soldiers unprepared for the proper conduct of modern warfare in recruiting skilled workmen from her factories and industries whose work in such factories and industries was of more importance to the success of their cause than was their enlistment into actual service and in recruiting men engaged in agricultural pursuits whose continuation in their present occupations is absolutely a necessity to produce the food which eventualy goes to feed an army and to keep it up to its highest standard

Resolved That the Secretary of the Commonwealth be directed to send a copy of this resolution to the President of the United States the Senate of the United States and the House of Representatives of the United States

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution?

It was concurred in.

BILL SIGNED BY SPEAKER.

The Speaker announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bill had passed both houses of the General Assembly and the same being correct, the title was publicly read as follows, viz:

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Private Secretary to the Governor, being introduced, presented the following communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows, viz:

VETO OF HOUSE BILL NO. 570.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 5, 1917.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: I return herewith without my approval House Bill No. 57, entitled "An Act providing for the publication and distribution of a revised edition of the railroad map of Pennsylvania heretofore issued by the Department of Internal Affairs making an appropriation for the work of revising and compiling and proof-reading and an appropriation for printing binding and mounting the same and for paper."

This bill directs the publication of 16,500 copies of a Railroad Map of Pennsylvania. It makes an appropriation of $400 to revise, compile and proof-read the maps. It also makes an appropriation of $7,500 for paper, binding, &c. It is not clear that this is the total cost of these maps. That these maps are much sought after may well be admitted. A relatively few citizens would get copies at the expense of all the people. In the interests of economy and in view of the extraordinary demands that may properly be made upon our people in the present national crisis it is neecssary to husband our resources and avoid any expenditures not manifestly necessary.

For these reasons this bill is not approved.

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

On the question,

Shall the bill become a law, the veto of the Governor to the contrary not withstanding?

Mr. HORTON. Mr. Speaker, I move that the communication, together with the bill, be laid upon the table.

Mr. LEE SMITH. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

COMMUNICATION INVITING THE MEMBERS OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES TO PARTICIPATE IN A PATRIOTIC PARADE.

The SPEAKER. The Speaker has received a communication which will be read by the Clerk.

The communication was read by the Clerk, as follows:

HEADQUARTERS HARRISBURG CAMP, NO. 8, UNITED SPANISH WAR VETERANS, 304 North Second Street.

Edward Dapp, Commander. Paul Harm, Adjutant.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 12, 1917.

To the Officers and Members, House of Representatives of Penn'a.

Gentlemen: Harrisburg Camp, No. 8, United Spanish War Veterans, extend an invitation to each one of you to participate in a patriotic parade and demonstration on Saturday afternoon, April 21, 1917.

It is the intention of the Camp to have prominent speakers address the paraders and public at a great open air meeting in Market Square.

All marchers are expected to carry American flags in line of parade, military organizations to carry guns and swords, if any.

Kindly advise our secretary, William I. Laubenstein, 2510 N. Sixth Street, Harrisburg, if you will join in making this affair a success, so that arrangements for the parade, etc., can be made, giving the approximate number of men you expect in line, also name band, if any.

Hoping for a favorable and early reply, we remain,

Very truly yours,

(Signed) H. M. STINE, Chairman.

(Signed) WM. I. LAUBENSTEIN, Secretary.

EDWARD DAPP (Signed) Commander.

The SPEAKER. The communication will be spread upon the Journal of the House.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Private Secretary of the Governor, being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

APPROVAL OF RESOLUTION.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 17, 1917.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed a resolution of the Senate and House of Representatives providing for the recall of House Bill No. 384.

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I move that the communication be laid upon the table.

Mr. MILNER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1028, entitled

MR. WALTER IN THE CHAIR.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 962, entitled

An Act to prohibit the letting of prison labor by contract to regulate the employment of prisoners in all county prisons and reformatories regulating the disposition of the products of prison labor and providing penalty for its violations.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. LEWIS. Mr. Speaker, I would like the sponsor of this bill to explain it.

Mr. STADTLANDER. Mr. Speaker, this is the bill pertaining to the letting of prison labor by contract and to regulate the employment of prisoners in all prisons and reformatories and includes the manufacture of brooms. As the law now stands they cannot make a contract with a foreign corporation or individual in the State of Pennsylvania and in the manufacture of brooms they evade the law in this way. They make a contract with firms, corporations and individuals outside of the State of Pennsylvania and ship the brooms outside of the State. That broom contains a prison number. These firms and persons having contracts place their number over the prison number and ship them back into Pennsylvania for sale. It is an act to prevent them doing something indirectly which they cannot do directly.

Mr. LEWIS. Mr. Speaker, this is a very vicious bill. It simply ties the hands of our officials at the prisons when they do manufacture brooms, as they cannot sell them. We have that labor and when they manufacture brooms they must find a sale for the product of that labor; they have to get a market for their products and this act simply prohibits that; it ties the hands of the officials and interferes with the labor of our State prisons and it is a detriment to the State. We simply want this bill knocked out. It is a bad one to the State in general. I shall vote against it and I hope the rest of the members will do the same.

Mr. STADTLANDER. Mr. Speaker, this bill does not prohibit any contracts made with corporations within the State of Pennsylvania. You can still manufacture your brooms in prisons the same as in the past.

Mr. DEAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if this law, if the bill is passed, will permit prison labor on farms? Last fall a number of persons went to the sheriffs to get prisoners to help out and sheriffs could parole prisoners to work on farms. They would go to our State prisons and reformatories and take prisoners away from the lockup on parole to gather apples, all last fall, which otherwise would have gone to waste.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the proviisons of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—1.

Walter,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

SENATE MESSAGE.

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented the following extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, April 18, 1917.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That Senate Bill No. 219, entitled, "An Act to authorize counties cities boroughs towns townships school districts and poor districts to require a bond to protect labor and material men and providing for suits thereon by laborers and material men furnishing labor and material in and about the erection alteration addition and repair of public buildings."

be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE.

The Clerk of the Senate, being introduced, presented the following extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, April 18, 1917.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That Senate Bill No. 205, entitled "An Act authorizing Louis Gumbiner a resident of Phliadelphia County State of Pennsylvania to sue the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in the court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County for the amount of such part if any of a certain wholesale liquor license fee as required by and paid by him to the treasurer of the city and county of Philadelphia in excess of the amount of such fee as was justly and legally due and payable.

be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 937 (Senate Bill No. 217), entitled

An Act preventing the manufacture sale or transportation within the Commonwealth of adulterated or misbranded paris greens lead arsenates lime-sulphur compounds and other insecticides and fungicides and regulating traffic therein providing for inspection of such materials and imposing penalties.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, the intent of this bill is all right, but I fear it is far reaching. The bill provides that any person who sells paris-green that does not meet the requirements of this act will be fined and guilty of a misdemeanor. A great many storekeepers throughout the State handle paris-green. These men when they receive these shipments of paris-green do not know what they contain. This bill will hold them responsible for the ingredients of all such paris-green. Now if the bill provided that the manufacturer who knows what is in this paris-green would be responsible for the sale of it, I would perfectly agree to it, or if the bill provided that any storekeeper who knowingly sold paris-green that did not meet the requirements of this bill, I would feel that it is all right. As the bill is written a great many of the storekeepers will no doubt have paris-green on their shelves when the inspector comes around, and he will find that it does not meet the requirements of this bill, and the next thing they will arrest the storekeeper and he will be subject to a fine. I know of one case where the Food Department went into a store and examined some vinegar which the storekeeper bought thinking it met the requirements of the Vinegar Act, they arrested him and made him pay a fine. He was innocent, yet he was subject to a fine. Now if the Department had gone out to the manufacturer of that product, and the provisions of such bill would be all right, I would be in favor of it, but when it is likely to take in a great many innocent men I think it is too far reaching. If the Senator who introduced this bill would consent to have it amended that it would take in storekeepers who intentionally handle this product that is not up to the standard, I will agree to it; otherwise I cannot.

BILL RECOMITTED.

Mr. LOHR. Mr. Speaker, I think it would be quite out of place to defeat this bill at the present time. The intention of it is all right. The provisions of this bill may be a little too stringent, but at this time when we are trying to increase the production of our foodstuffs in this State especially, it is very discouraging to have a farmer spray his plants and after the spray has been put on find that the paris-green is bogus, did not have any strength, and the result is that the blight is not cured, that the labor and the time have been wasted. I think we need a bill of this nature.

For the purpose of amendment, I move, Mr. Speaker, that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Agriculture for the purpose of amendment.

Mr. ALLAN D. MILLER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 959 (Senate Bill No. 201), entitled:

An Act authorizing cities boroughs and towns to lease water supply works and system providing for the operation thereof and the establishment of rates.

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the council of any city borough or town of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania may on behalf of such city borough or town enter into a contract with any private individual co-partnership association or corporation for the leasing of any water supply works system and property or both of such private individual co-partnership association or corporation.

Section 2 The said leasing may be for such term of years and at such rental as shall be agreed upon by the city borough or town and the private individual co-partnership association or corporation

Section 3 The property so acquired shall be operated in the same manner as if the same had been acquired by such city borough or town by purchase or condemnation proceedings

Section 4 The council of the city borough or town with the consent of the Public Service Commission shall fix the rates to be charged for the water furnished within the limits of such city borough or town to individuals copartnerships associations or corporations.

Section 5 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Curry,	Hess,	Ramsey,	Reitzel,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 243, entitled

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to article nine of the Constitution of Pennsylvania.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,
The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1071, entitled

An Act granting to the borough of Norristown a right of way over the lands of the State Hospital for the Insane of the Southeastern District of Pennsylvania at Norristown and providing for the payment of damages.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?
Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have the sponsor of the bill explain it.
Mr. BOYD. Mr. Speaker, this bill simply provides for the continuation of a road and joining it with a street in the Borough of Norristown. The bill provides that the trustees shall favor this and shall be paid any damages by the town that might come from this continuation. It runs along the line of the property of the asylum, and would be a benefit to that institution as well as to the town, and I think there is nothing in the bill that would keep any member from voting for it.
On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?
Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken, and were as follows, viz:

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,
The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1117, as follows:

An Act providing that appointive officers and employes employed by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania or by any county or municipality thereof in its civil service who have a wife children or parents dependents upon them for support, shall not be deemed or held to have resigned or abandoned their offices or employments by reason of enlistment in the army or navy of the United States in time of war or contemplated war prohibiting the removal from their offices of employments of such officers and employed during the period of their service in the army or navy directing that one-half of the salaries or wages of such officers or employes not exceeding two thousand dollars per annum be paid during the term of their service in the army or navy to such dependents thereof authorizing the employment during said term of substitutes to perform the duties theretofore performed by such officers or employes respectively and providing for the compensation of such substitutes

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That whenever any appointive officer or employe regularly employed by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in its civil service or by any department bureau commission or office thereof or by any county or municipality within the Commonwealth shall in time of war or contemplated war enlist in the army or navy of the United States having a wife children or parents dependent upon him for support he shall not be deemed or held to have thereby resigned from or abandoned his said office or employment nor shall he be removable therefrom during the period of his service in the army or navy but the duties of his said office or employment shall during said period be performed by a substitute who shall be appointed by the same authority who appointed such officer or employe if such authority shall deem the employment of such substitute necessary and such substitute shall receive so much of the salary or wages attached to said office or employment as shall not be paid to the dependent or dependents of said officer or employe as hereinafter provided and such substitute may receive such further compensation from appropriations made for that purpose or otherwise as may be required when added to the amount received under the provisions of this act to constitute a reasonable compensation for his services in the opinion of the authority appointing him

Section 2 Any said officer or employe so enlisting and having a dependent or dependents as aforesaid may at the time of his enlistment or immediately thereafter file with the head or chief of the department bureau commission or office in which he is employed a statement in writing executed under oath setting forth the fact and date of his enlistment his intention to retain his said office or employment and to resume the duties thereof after the expiration of his service in the army or navy and the names and addresses of his wife children and dependent parent or parents if any such he have and requesting and directing that one-half of the salary or wages of his said office or employment not exceeding two thousand ($2,000.00) dollars per annum shall be paid during his service in the army or navy as follows If he have a wife to his wife for her use and that of his children if he have children and no wife then to such person as he may designate for the use and benefit of his children If he have a dependent parent or parents then he shall direct such sum as he has theretofore been accustomed to contribute to their support to be paid to them and the amount payable to his wife or children if any he have shall be proportionately decreased If he have no wife or children he may direct the entire one-half of his said salary or wages not exceeding two thousand ($2,000.00) dollars per annum to be paid to his dependent parent or parents if any such he have all sums so directed to be paid shall be paid to the person designated in the same porportional installments as nearly as may be as the salary or wages of the soldier were theretofore paid to him With such statement he shall also file powers of attorney authorizing the proper dependents to receive their proportion of said salary or wages as aforesaid

Section 3 The statement required to be filed by section two of this act shall be prima facie evidence of the dependency of any person named as a dependent in said statement but the head of any department bureau commission or office may in case of doubt satisfy himself as to the fact of such dependency and if the person so nominated as a dependent was not in fact dependent upon the officer or employe enlisting in the army or navy at the time of his enlistment shall refuse to make any payment to such person on account of the salary or wages of such officer or employe Such head of a department bureau commission or office shall also satisfy himself before making payments to dependents under the provisions of this act that the officer or employe was alive during the period for which any payment is made No payment shall be made under the provisions of this act to any officer or employe enlisting as aforesaid and so much of the salary or wages of such officer or employe as is not paid under the provisions of this act to his dependents and his substitute shall be recovered back into the fund from which said salary or wages is paid

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I have been asked by several members to explain this bill. This bill is a military measure and provides that all employes, either county or city employes, who are enlisted in the army of the United States, shall not, by reason of their enlistment, be held to have surrendered the positions they held at the time of the enlistment. It further provides that so much of their salary as may be necessary for the support of a wife or family or parent dependent upon them for support shall be paid out of the salary, and only the balance given to those who take the positions.

It adds nothing to the expense of the office, but simply parcels out the salary between the man who has enlisted and the man who takes his place, and it was because of the present condition of affairs that this bill has been introduced.

Mr. BENCHOFF. Mr. Speaker, I think this bill discriminates against a certain class. It protects one class, those who have a position, a well paying one, and discards one class that will likely undergo just the same hardship and be just as valuable to the country as the ones protected under this bill. Therefore, I am going to vote against the bill.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Benchoff,	Cook,	Dean,	Rudisill,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,
The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1056, entitled

An Act authorizing the Commissioner of Health to accept private and philanthropic donations to assist in the care and treatment of indigent tuberculous persons.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker, I would like the sponsor of this bill, the gentleman from Armstrong, to explain its provisions and advise us why it is a necessary proposition. I do not see the necessity for this bill.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I do not know anything about the bill. I never read it. I dont' know what its provisions are. It was handed to me by the Department of Health, of which my friend from Allegheny is a partner, and I am doing it for you people. I say it is a good bill or it would not be sponsored by the medical profession.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker, I will have to enlighten my friend from Armstrong that I am not a part of the Department of Health. I only act in my capacity as a professional man, Doctor of Medicine, at times for my people. I feel that if it is not asking too much from the gentleman from Armstrong I should like him to postpone further consideration of this bill until we have an opportunity to read and understand its provisions. I want to act fairly on the proposition and hope he will do this for us.

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I move that further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 950, entitled

An Act providing for vacating part or parts of any abandoned or condemned turnpike forming part of a State highway route where the course of said route has been diverted leaving such part or parts of said turnpike outside the limits thereof and providing upon such vacation the same shall become township road.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. LANIUS. Mr. Speaker, I would like the sponsor of this bill to kindly explain its provisions.

Mr. SIGGINS. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen, this bill was prepared for the County Commissioners' Association of the State and introduced by me at its request and perhaps it can be best explained if I read a letter from the person who drafted the bill for the association. The letter is as follows:

Replying to your favor of the 7th: "Abandoned and condemned turnpikes since the Act of 1911 are county roads to be maintained at the expense of the county in which the road lies. These roads were built at a very early date and not much regard was paid to grades or curves. Under Section 8 of the Sproul Act of 1911 P. L. 514 the Highway Commissioner is authorized to divert the route of any State Highway created by the Act. Under this Act many abandoned and condemned turnpikes are made State Highways. We have several such in this county. The Highway Commissioner in making permanent improvements of the State Highways, in many instances diverts the route from the original location in order to get a better grade or to avoid curves. In doing this the old road is abandoned by the Highway Department and in many cases is absolutely useless for any purpose whatever. Some of these stretches or road are as short as 150 feet in length, others of them may be a quarter of a mile or a mile in length, the length of them being according to the circumstances. Some of them have a house at the side of the road. In our county we have one short stretch of road in shape of a horse shoe on which there is a school house. The Attorney General in an opinion to the Highway Commissioner, holds that the diverting of a route created under the Act of 1911 does not automatically vacate that part of the route abandoned, that the law applying to vacation of roads still applies to these abandoned parts or State Highways. Under the law applying to vacating portions of the Highways the petition for vacation must be signed by the residents of the township in which the road lies. Consequently under the law as it now obtains all these parts of turnpikes that were made State Highways under the Act of 1911, and will be made State Highways under future acts, that have been abandoned by the Highway Commissioner in diverting routes of State Highways, remain county roads and can only be vacated by the County Commissioners through proceedings under the general law applying to vacating public roads or portions thereof. The County Commissioners unless these short stretches of road are vacated must keep them up for fear somebody will undertake to travel over them and meet with an injury. In a large majority of cases these pieces of road are absolutely useless to anybody, and in other cases they are of use to the person or persons living alongside them and are no use to the general public. Under the County Road Act of 1911 P. L. 244, Section 20, the County Commissioners with the approval of the Court of Quarter Sessions and the Grand Jury, are authorized to vacate any portion of a road made a county road under said Act, and thereafter the portions so vacated shall be township roads.

In order to avoid the expense and inconvenience under the present law of vacating these parts of turnpikes which have been abandoned by the Highway Commissioner I believe it to be entirely proper and just to give the County Commissioners, with the consent of the Court of Quarter Sessions and the Grand Jury, the power to vacate such roads as county roads, leaving them thereafter as township roads as is done under the Road Law of 1911, so that if the people of the particular township desire to use them they may do so, and if they do not desire they can have them vacated."

Is the explanation satisfactory to the gentleman from York?

Mr. LANIUS. Mr. Speaker, it is.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 40, as follows:

An Act amending an act approved the twelfth day of July Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and thirteen entitled "An Act establishing a court for the county of Philadelphia prescribing its jurisdiction and powers providing for the service of its writs process or warrants by the proper officers of the county or city of Philadelphia regulating the procedure therein and appeals therefrom and providing for the expenses thereof" by increasing the amount of salary to be paid to the judges of the municipal court of Philadelphia

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That section two of an act approved the twelfth day of July Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and thirteen entitled "An Act establishing a court for the County of Philadelphia prescribing its jurisdiction and power providing for the service of its writs process or warrants by the proper officers of the County or City of Philadelphia regulating the procedure therein and appeals therefrom and providing for the expenses thereof" which reads as follows

Section 2 The judges of said court shall be learned in the law and shall be elected by the duly qualified electors of said county for terms of ten years if they so long behave themselves well

The president judge shall receive a salary of six thousand five hundred ($6,500.00) dollars per annum and the associate judges shall receive salaries of six thousand dollars payable by the State in the same manner that the salaries of the judges of the courts of common pleas are paid The term of office of the judges of the court shall begin on the first Monday of January following their election

The first judges of the said court shall be elected at the general election held in November one thousand nine hundred and thirteen

In the event of a vacancy in the office of judge or when by reason of a new United States census more judges are to be chosen the Governor shall appoint judges to hold office until such time as their successors shall be elected as provided by the Constitution of the State in such case and their successors shall be elected to the full term of ten years

The Governor upon the first election of judges as aforesaid shall designate one of their number to be president judge and shall after the election aforesaid and from time to time when a vacancy occurs in the office of president judge either by expiration of his term or for other reason designate one of the judges to be president judge

It shall be unlawful for any judge of the said court to practice law during his continuance in office" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 2 The judges of said court shall be learned in the law and shall be elected by the duly qualified electors of said county for terms of ten years if they so long behave themselves well

The president judge shall receive a salary of nine thousand ($9,000.00) dollars per annum and the associate judges shall receive salaries of eight thousand ($8,000.00) dollars per annum payable by the State in the same manner that the salaries of the judges of the courts of common pleas are paid The term of office of the judges of the court shall begin on the first Monday of January following their election

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. COOK. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Allegheny to explain the intent of this bill.

Mr. MEARKLE. Mr. Speaker, there must have been a little misconception on this bill. That is, it was first intended that we should amend the Act of 1913. There were a few amendments that we wanted to insert into the automobile Act of 1913 and the bill was so prepared, putting in the amendments and it was introduced in the House. It made such a long, cumbersome piece of legislation and it was finally decided to repeal the Act of 1913 and draw a new piece of legislation, incorporating the amendments. This Act to-day on which we are about to vote is the same act as the law stands today with some few amendments. There has been no change in the registration fees or license fees and the principal change in the bill are these amendments—and I will be glad to go over it section by section and show to the House just what the amendments are. It is principally to clarify the statute, to clarify the reading of the bill so that it may be understood. I will be glad to go over any particular section and explain what the amendments are. I might also add, for the information of the House, that it has been gone over carefully in the Highway Department, by Mr. Black, and he has approved the bill. The bill was drawn at the suggestion of the Highway Department.

Mr. RUDISILL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Mearkle, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MEARKLE. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. RUDISILL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman what change was made in the age limit of the drivers licensed

Mr. MEARKLE. Mr. Speaker, that is the same as the law of 1913. The age limit was eighteen years, then it was reduced to sixteen years, in 1915, but eighteen years has been restored and now this bill makes it eighteen years.

Mr. RUDISILL. What was the object?

Mr. MEARKLE. It has been a question whether a young boy or girl should handle a high motor power car weighing from eight to nine thousand pounds, and has sufficient judgment and strength to drive it in a congested district, and whether it is not in the interest of the public and the people to make the age limit eighteen years for a person to handle a high power car in a congested district in a city. It has been raised to eighteen years.

Mr. MILNER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Mearkle, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MEARKLE. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. MILNER. This bill provides on the 18th page, Section 14, line 14, that "On no motor vehicle shall there be displayed more than two lights equipped with reflectors in which electric bulbs of more than four (4) candle power are used and such lights shall be so arranged designed or deflected that no portion of the beam of reflected light when measured seventy-five (75) feet or more ahead of the lamps shall rise more than forty-two (42) inches above the level surface on which the vehicle stands" and then in the next paragraph, "The focused rays of light from any movable search light or spot light used on any motor vehicle shall not extend to the left of the center of the highway." Every automobile now has three lights with more than 4 candle power. Do you make it illegal or is it illegal for you to carry spotlights of over or more than referred to on the fourteen line? That should be "less" instead of "more" on the fourteenth line. Is not that so?

Mr. MEARKLE. That is right.

Mr. MILNER. Would you agree to make this read "less" instead of "more?"

Mr. MEARKLE. Yes sir. The intention was to have not less but more lights.

Mr. McNICHOL. That can be amended in the Senate.

Mr. STITES. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Mearkle, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MEARKLE. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. STITES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if under this act a one-handed driver would be prevented from operating a machine?

Mr. MEARKLE. Mr. Speaker, no sir. That was taken up and thoroughly discussed, as a number in the House have friends in their districts who operate cars with one hand and it was finally agreed to issue a license to them.

Mr. HORNE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Mearkle, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MEARKLE. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. HORNE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know whether this bill provides that a machine lighted by kerosene lamps would be compelled to change to the electric system?

Mr. MEARKLE. Positively not. If you will specify the kind of light we don't care what kind of light you carry.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MEARKLE. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. Speaker, on page 17, Section 15, line 16 the bill provides, "Every motor vehicle whether standing or in motion upon any public highway shall from one hour after sunset until one hour before sunrise and whenever it is impossible to see clear for a distance of two hundred feet show at least two white or blue or amber colored lights on the front of such vehicle." Then turning over to page 18 on line 5 provides that "whenever there is not sufficient light within the limits of the highway to clearly see objects within the limit of one hundred and fifty feet then you must display two lights." How do you reconcile these two sections.

Mr. MEARKLE. That is the same as the Act of 1913.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. Speaker, is there any discrepency?

Mr. MEARKLE. Mr. Speaker, it was not intended that there should be.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. Speaker, in one place the bill provides that you must display your lights when you cannot see for two hundred feet, and over on the next page it provides that you must display your lights when you cannot see clearly for a distance of one hundred and fifty feet.

Mr. MEARKLE. Mr. Speaker, that wos not the intention. The intention was to leave this section as it was in the Act of 1913. That section was copied the same as it was.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman interpret the section on page 18 beginning at line 5 to read that when a motor vehicle is standing upon a public highway at night, and that the public highway is clearly illuminated so that you can see clearly for a distance of one hundred and fifty feet, that the motor vehicle would have to display its lights or not; that is, if the highway is clearly illuminated, and your ca ris standing still, does that mean that you have to display your lights?

Mr. MEARKLE. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

NAYS—4.

Heyburn,	Lewis,	McKay,	Rininger,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 621, as follows:

An Act to amend section four of an act approved the seventeenth day of April one thousand nine hundred thirteen entitled "An Act for the better protection of wild birds and game within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania requiring citizens of the United States residing within this State to procure a license before using guns for the purpose of hunting for any wild birds or animals protected by the laws of this Commonwealth and providing penalties for violation of its several provisions and the manner of proceeding to enforce compliance therewith and providing for the disposition of the license fees fines and penalties received"

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That section four of an act approved the seventeenth day of April one thousand nine hundred thirteen (Pamphlet Laws eighty-five) entitled "An Act for the better protection of wild birds and game within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania requiring citizens of the United States residing within this State to procure a license before using guns for the purpose of hunting for any wild birds or animals protected by the laws of this Commonwealth and providing penalties for violation of its several provisions and the manner of proceeding to enforce compliance therewith and providing for the disposition of the license fees fines and penalties received" which reads as follows

"Section 4 Each and every resident of this Commonwealth such resident being a citizen of the United States upon application made verbally or in writing to any county treasurer within the Commonwealth and the presentation of proof that he is a citizen of the United States and a bona fide resident of this Commonwealth under the requirements of this act and the payment to said county treasurer of one dollar shall beentitled to what is herein designated as a 'Resident Hunter's License' and a tag with the number of the license therein Provided That no person under the age of sixteen years shall be entitled to or receive such license without presenting a written request therefor bearing the signature of his father or mother or his legally constituted guardian Provided further That no person under fourteen years of age shall be granted a license said license shall be issued on a form prepared and supplied by the Board of Game Commissioners at the cost of the Commonwealth Such license shall bear a description of the person applying for the same with the date of its issue and shall authorize the person named therein to use legal firearms for the purpose of hunting and killing any of the wild animals of game-birds protected by the laws of this Commonwealth under the restrictions and requirements of existing laws during that year the date of which is inscribed thereon Said certificate shall become void on the thirty-first day of December next following the date of issue The Game Commission shall also furnish free of charge and the county treasurer shall issue with each license a tag bearing the license number in figures at least one inch in height which tag said licensee is required to display on the back of the sleeve between the elbow and the shoulder in such manner that the figures be visible at all times while hunting Provided That it shall be lawful under the provisions of this act for any justice of the peace within this Commonwealth who has qualified therefor by having applied to the county treasurer of the county in which he is located and having received and receipted for necessary blanks and tags to issue a resident hunter's license and tag on like conditions and in like manner as prescribed for the issuance of licenses by any county treasurer upon payment of fifteen cents to said justice by the said licensee in addition to the other dollar prescribed as the cost of said license said fifteen cents to be retained by said justice of the peace as his fee for the issuance of said license and reporting the same and remitting payment therefor to the county treasurer of the county in which said justice of the peace is located Such report and remittance to be made and done by said justice of the peace within twenty-four hours after the issuance of said license by him Whereupon said county treasurer shall make a record of and otherwise treat said license as though it had been issued from his office except that he shall also note upon his record the name of the justice issuing the license Every justice of the peace shall deliver the book or books from which he has issued licenses together with the stubs therein properly filled out and showing the names of each licensee and the number of the license issued to him to the treasurer of his county during the month of January of each year" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 4 Each and every resident of this Commonwealth —such resident being a citizen of the United States— upon application made verbally or in writing to any county treasurer within the Commonwealth and the presentation of proof that he is a citizen of the United States and a bona fide resident of this Commonwealth under the requirements of this act and the payment to said county treasurer of one dollar shall be entitled to what is herein designated as a "Resident Hunter's License" and a tag with the number of the license therein Provided That no person under the age of sixteen years shall be entitled to or receive such license without presenting a written request therefor bearing the signature of his father or mother or his legally constituted guardian Provided further That no person under fourteen years of age shall be granted a license said license shall be issued on a form prepared and supplied by the Board of Game Commissioners in books or pads containing fifty forms each at the cost of the Commonwealth Such license shall bear a description of the person applying for the same with the date of its issue and shall authorize the person named therein to use legal firearms for the purpose of hunting and killing any of the wild animals or game-birds protected by the laws of this Commonwealth under the restrictions and requirements of existing laws during that year the date of which is inscribed thereon Said certificate shall become void upon the thirty-first day of December next following the date of issue The Game Commission shall also furnish free of charge and the county treasurer shall issue with each license a tag bearing the license number in figures at least one inch in height which tag said licensee is required to display on the back of the sleeve between the elbow and the shoulder in such manner that the figures be visible at all times while hunting Provided That it shall be lawful under the provisions of this act for any justice of the peace within this Commonwealth who has qualified therefor by having applied to the county treasurer of the county in which he is located and having received and receipted for necessary blanks and tags to issue a resident hunter's license and tag on like conditions and in like manner as prescribed for the issuance of licenses by any county treasurer upon payment of fifteen cents to said justice by the said licensee in addition to the other dollar prescribed as the cost of said license Said fifteen cents to be retained by said justice of the peace as his fee for the issuance of said license and reporting the same and remitting payment therefor to the county treasurer of the county in which said justice of the peace is located Such report and remittance to be made and done by said justice of the peace within twenty-four hours after the issuance of said license by him Whereupon said county treasurer shall make a record of and otherwise treat said license as though it had been issued from his office except that he shall also note upon his record the name of the justice issuing the license Every justice of the peace shall deliver the book or books or pad or pads from which he has issued license together with the stubs therein properly filled out and showing the names of each licensee and the number of the license issued to him to the treasurer of his county during the month of January of each year

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker, there is only one provision in this bill, and that is the changing of the method of issuing resident hunters' licenses. Up to this time they have been issuing them in pads of two hundred and fifty each to the county treasurer and requiring from the county treasurer a report as to who had secured that license, who he was, and a desciption of the man, and this was sent to the game warden so that he could detect whether the man had secured a license in a particular county and was authorized and entitled to hunt in that county. This provides that pads of fifty each be sent to the justices of the peace instead of to the county treasurer. You will understand that it is hard to get them out to all the justices of the peace of the State and have them make this report to the Game Commission, to make a proper report and to have a proper enforcement of the law. I think we should leave it with the county treasurer who is compelled to make a report to the Game Department.

Mr. McCURDY. Mr. Speaker, the only change in this bill is a change in issuing the licenses in pads of fifty instead of two hundred and fifty, thereby enabling the man living in the rural district to obtain his license without going to his county treasurer for the same. A justice of the peace may be able or may not be able to put up two hundred and fifty dollars for a pad of two hundred and fifty licenses, but he may be able to put up fifty dollars for a pad of fifty, thereby enabling the man living in a country district to secure his license on short notice.

Mr. WILLIAM DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call the attention of the House to one clause, on page four, line twenty-six, the proviso, "provided that no person under the age of sixteen years shall be entitled to or receive such license without presenting a written request therefor bearing the signature of his father or mother or his legally constituted guardian." I have a natural inclination against boys carrying guns, and I do not think it is the proper thing. I have a boy of my own of that age, and a boy for whom I am guardian, and I do not want to put any one in a position to grant either one of them a license. I think the sponsor ought to agree to strike that out.

Mr. McCURDY. In answer to the gentleman from Cambria relative to the provision that he has just read, I would say that that provision is now contained in the existing law, and that there is no change excepting the change in the issuing of these pads.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

An Act to amend part of section six of an act approved the thirty-first day of May, one thousand nine hundred and eleven (Pamphlet Laws four hundred sixty-eight), entitled "An Act providing for the establishment of a State Highway Department, by the appointment of a State Highway Commissioner, two Deputy State Highway Commissioners, chief engineer, chief draughtsman, superintendents of highways, and a staff of assistants and employes, defining their duties and the jurisdiction of the State Highway Department, and fixing salaries of Commissioner and deputies and other appointees, providing for taking over from the counties or townships of the Commonwealth certain existing public roads connecting county-seats, principal cities, and towns and extending to the State line; describing and defining same by route numbers as the State highways of the Commonwealth, providing for the improvement, maintenance and repair of said State highways solely at the expense of the Commonwealth, and relieving the several townships or counties from any further obligation and expense to improve or maintain the same, and relieving said townships or counties of authority over same; requiring boroughs and incorporated towns to maintain certain State highways wholly and in part; requiring the State Highway Commissioner to make maps to be complete records thereof; conferring authority on the State Highway Commissioner; providing for the payment of damages in taking of property, or otherwise, in the improvement thereof; providing for purchase or acquiring of turnpikes or toll-roads forming all or part of any State highways, and procedure therein; providing for work of improvement of State highways to be done by contract, except where the State Highway Commissioner decides the work be done by the State; providing aid by the State to counties and townships desiring the same in the improvement of township or county roads; defining highways and State-aid highways; providing method of application for State aid in the improvement, maintenance and repair of township or county roads and prescribing the contents of township, county, borough, or incorporated town petitions; providing for percentage of cost of improvement or repairs to be paid by State, county, township, borough or incorporated town, and requiring contracts by counties, townships, boroughs, and incorporated towns with Commonwealth governing same; providing for the minimum width of State highways and State-aid highways; and kind of materials to be used in the improvement; providing for payment of cost of improvement and repairs; providing penalty for injuring or destroying State highways; making appropriations to carry out the provisions of the act; and providing for the repeal of certain acts relating to Highway Department and improvement of roads, and of all acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith and providing that existing contracts are not affected by provisions of this act."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. PALMER. Mr. Speaker, I would desire the sponsor of this bill to explain its purposes.

Mr. DRAKE. Mr. Speaker, this bill is presented for the purpose of changing Route 268, extending from Greensburg to Waynesburg by way of Charleroi. The purpose of presenting the bill was that the Highway Commissioner, when we took the matter up, advised that the route be changed and that it would require an Act of Assembly to do it. The purpose of the bill is to shorten the original route by one mile and a half. Our county is an inland county, and by shortening this route and changing it, it will give us a direct route to the Monongahela River. It is presented under the approval of the Highway Department.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1253, entitled:

A Joint Resolution petitioning the government of the United States and the Secretary of War to rescind or modify the order of the Department of War requiring the raising of certain bridges over the Allegheny River.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

MR. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I am sorry at this time to be compelled to oppose this resolution. If I did not offer my objections and protest against its passage I should feel that I was not fair to the constituents of my own county.

The Allegheny River, as you know, passes directly through Armstrong County. It also borders on Clarion County, passes Venango County, into Warren County, and on up to the norther section of the State. The people residing along the Allegheny valley have been for years attempting to have the Allegheny river improved, slack-watered and made navigable as far north as Oil City. We have been spending hundreds and thousands of dollars attending hearings, hiring counsel and appearing before the Secretary of War or his representative during many administrations of our National Government. Congress has from time to time appropriated money for the slack-watering of the Allegheny river. A number of dams have been built and at the present time there is a large appropriation of money made by the National Government for the improvement of this river on the condition that the bridges spanning the Allegheny river would be raised. After years of fruitless effort we have succeeded in having the present Governor issue an order for the raising of the bridges. The purpose of this resolution is that this legislative body ask the Secretary of War to rescind or modify this order.

The jurisdiction over navigable streams in this country is a national question, one over which the states have no jurisdiction, and it seems to me it would be unwise for the legislature of Pennsylvania at this time to interfere with the orders of the Secretary of War. I called attention to the fact a few days ago when this bill was on second reading that this legislative body passed resolutions asking that the State Highway Department of this State improve the main and trunk lines of the State Highways of this State. For what purpose? For the purpose of transporting supplies and men more easily during the progress of the present war. While that has no doubt some merit to it, it is nothing compared to making our streams navigable, taking away those obstructions and making it possible, in case the railroads are so wrecked that it will be impossible for us to tranport ammunition and men, that we will still have those natural waterways that were placed here by the Maker of this universe. So I say that it is not only a bad thing to ask this legislature to do but it is unpatriotic for us in the time of war to try to hinder anyone connected with the War Department, and especially the Secretary of War, from making it possible for us to have the best possible advantages during the progress of the present war.

There is another side to it and that is the side of fairness. It is a fact that in the hills and along the valleys of the Allegheny river there are some of the greatest natural resources in this country. Those hills are filled with coal and ore and clay and stone and it is not anything more than we should ask for that the river be made navigable so that we may transport those minerals and the products from those minerals to market at as low a freight rate as possible to make. So that I say that it is not a selfish thing on the part of any county outside of Allegheny. Armstrong County has her bridges to raise, Clarion County her joint bridges and Warren County her bridges to raise.

We are not objecting. When you take the population and wealth of the county, the expense per capita would be equal to that of Allegheny County.

I want to call your attention to one fact at this time, that those of you who were here two years ago remember how, in my weakness, I tried to prevent the expending of any more money for the building of the Ohio and Lake Erie Ship Canal proposition. Up to this time there has been spent $186,000 and not one shovel of dirt has been turned; and the same civic bodies, the same Boards of Trade, the same Chambers of Commerce that are asking to have this resolution passed in order that the war governor may rescind his order for the raising of those bridges, came over here en masse, not only during the passage of the bill but when the bill was in the Governor's hands and urged him to affix his signature to a law that would expend seventy millions of dollars for the construction of a canal over dry land; and yet they come in at this time and ask you to vote to rescind this order to improve this natural highway.

Much more could be said on this matter but it seems to me that it is unnecessary and I leave the matter with you.

MR. SULLIVAN. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, fully realizing that this is my case and that it requires 104 votes to pass a measure, if I did not believe that this resolution was absolutely right I would not at this time permit it to come before the House.

As the author of this resolution, I have no desire to see it passed without a free, frank and open discussion of its merits and I am glad that the gentleman from Armstrong County has stated his side of the case. This bill pertains to an old old issue in Pittburgh, one whose history goes back to the days when Pittsburgh was but a thriving village on the banks of the Allegheny river. At that time some enterprising individuals applied to the proper authorities for permission to construct those bridges and to collect toll from all who desired to cross from the one side to the other. This condition, Mr. Speaker, prevailed for many years until the city officials of Pittsburgh and the officials of Allegheny County jointly purchased those bridges from the private owners and made them free to the people. This was not done, however, until after three successive Secretaries of War had on three different occasion refused the petition of the river interests (by the river interests I mean the Sand Companies) ordering the elevation of the structures.

After those petitions had been refused by three successive Secretaries of War the people of Pittsburgh and Allegheny County not only purchased the bridges and made them free to the people but they improved all the streets in the vicinity of those bridges, and this was done at a tremendous cost not only to the City of Pitsburgh and the citizens of Allegheny County but in the great sacrifice of business to the merchants by virtue of the deranged traffic.

I do not propose to argue that if the Allegheny river was made navigable from Pittsburgh to Oil City that the towns along its source would not derive any benefit or advantage, but Pittsburgh would be the chief beneficiary.

To make this river navigable is only the dream of the most visionary. The Allegheny river is a peculiar stream, and as I understand it, its descent is so great that it is absolutely impossible to construct locks to make it navigable to large boats. The government has appropriated three hundred thousaid dollars for the purpose of making this stream navigable to large boats but that sum is totally inadequate to the cost of the purpose. Mr. Speaker, as another argument in favor of this resolution I would like to state that this is the most inopportune time for the government to issue this order when guards are placed on practically every bridge in this Commonwealth to protect them. I feel that it is ridiculous on the part of the government to order these bridges elevated and traffic discontinued on the principal artery between Pittsburgh and points west. As to the traffic that is now on the river I may say that the type of boats that now ply that stream is the only type that can operate there, and it is just as reasonable for the Secretary of War to order that the bridges spanning the Susquehanna river be elevated to accommodate the coal diggers on that river as it is to order the Allegheny river bridges elevated to permit pirates to operate on that stream. This resolution was conceived in my own mind and I would like to state to you, Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, that I have positively no interest in the measure other than that I feel that it is an injustice to the taxpayers of Pitsburgh, but I wish that each of you members would see this as I do; and, as to my Democratic friends in this House, permit me to say that it is not my intention to cast any reflection upon the Democratic Administration at Washington. I hope that you gentlemen will see this resolution as I do;—By virtue of the fact that there is not one unopposed civic organization, not one corporation in Pittsburgh, and that the merchants, to a man, also are opposed to the elevation of these bridges. You men who are familiar with the peculiar topography of Pittsburg know that the commecial business of Pittsburgh is confined, constricted, to a very small area in the downtown section of the city. I have stated in this resolution that the cost of elevating these bridges amounts to fifty million dollars and I stand by that statement that more than twelve million dollars have already been spent and it will require as much more and I still say that the cost of elevating these bridges is fifty million dollars. When my friend from Armstrong stands on the matter of partiotism, I will state to him that I do not yield my spirit of patriotism to him or to anyone else in the United States of America.

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker, I have no desire to enter into this controversy that appears to have arisen between residents residing in the western part of this State, but I do think that they have brought their case into the wrong court. I really feel that this resolution should never have been brought into this House. This House has no jurisdiction in the matter; it is an issue of a purely local character, and I feel that it is not fair to ask us, from Berks or Lehigh, or men living in any other part of the State, to vote on a local controversy by snap judgment. This matter has been thrashed out, I understand, for years, before the War Department, and both sides of it have been heard. The case has been taken up by the War Department and both sides have had ample and fair opportunity to be heard. If there is to be any more protest against the decision of the Secretary of War I feel that the proper place to carry that protest, if there is any grievance, is before the Secretary of War at Washington. I feel that we are not qualified to vote, I for one, would hardly feel qualified to vote on the merits of this measure. I feel instead of it being brought to this House and asking the other members from all over the State who are not concerned in this local controversy to act on it, that it should be taken and carried where it belongs, before the national government at Washington. I understand that the Secretary has made his decision and if there is any argument why that reason or this reason should be presented before the Secretary of War, then take it there and not before this body. During the last few weeks I have voted several times to uphold the Speaker of this House on propositions in which I did not exactly agree, but I voted to uphold him, because I felt that we could not in any way interfere with the prestige which belongs to his office and which would hinder him from maintaining order. I feel, however, that we should not go on record here and try to more or less impair the prestige of the Secretary of War. I feel that if there is any grievance it can be carried to him and it should be heard there and it should not be brought into this House. At this particular time, especially, I feel that no reflection of any kind should be cast upon the national government, and I, therefore, say to the gentlemen of this House that I feel that it is not a fair proposition to put up to this House, or to bring this local question into this Legislature and ask us men here to vote on it because we are not qualified to pass snap judgment and decide this issue, and that it should be forwarded to the Secretary of War.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker, I am not at all surprised that the gentleman from Berks, who is considered and is looked upon by every man in this House as the Democratic Floor Leader, would come to the assistance of the Secretary of War, Mr. Baker. Permit me to say that every effort possible within the confines of human minds was promulgated and was placed in the hands of the Secretary of War, Mr. Baker, urging him to substantiate, to co-operate, to do just the same as every other Secretary of War of the three Secretaries who preceded him during a Republican administration. Those men I refer to were Secretaries of War during those times—they were Secretary Root, Secretary Taft and Secretary Dickinson. Now, let me tell you men that the gentlemen who are primarily interested in causing this vast amount of money to be expended by the County of Allegheny are none other than the men who have followed the flag of the Democracy all the days of their lifetime, not only that, but further even; one man, W. B. Rogers, president of the Rogers Sand Company, of Pittsburgh, was a delegate to the last Democratic National Convention. He himself, through his personal influence, through his Democratic influence with the Secretary of State or of War, has been able to use that persuasive effort to defeat the propositions that the people of Allegheny County has so urgently requested, not only by personalities but by every civic and commercial body within the confines of the County of Allegheny. This we know without contradiction.

Mr. Rodgers is the most important man who is asking, or who has passed upon this proposition, and he has stated that the bridges of Allegheny County must be raised. Now it has only been within the last three or four years that the City of Pittsburgh and the County of Allegheny have raised their streets above what we have called flood tide. Now it has cost the City of Pittsburgh from $12,000,000 to $15,000,000, and that has only occurred within the last three or four years. The Secretary of War asked the City of Pittsburgh and the county commissioners of the county, to raise those bridges and elevate those streets. Is it fair for them to insist upon this proposition? I will say to the gentleman from Berks, that this possibly is not the proper court to bring this proposition, but this enactment, this resolution, does not nullify and say that the Secretary of War's opinion becomes null and void. It is only a remedial agent, it is only in the hope that he may possibly be interested sufficiently to rescind the decision that he has already rendered upon this so grave a question. I say to the Republican members of this House and my Democratic friends that we are not throwing slurs on the Secretary of War, we are only trying to place before him a few of the facts with the hope that he can see them as we do, and if it comes from this body, it carries prestige and dignity with it. Therefore, gentlemuen, I ask you to vote aye on this question.

Mr. STADTLANDER. Mr. Speaker, I should like to interrogate the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Milliron.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Milliron, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. STADTLANDER. Mr. Speaker, I should like to ask the gentleman what is the population of Armstrong County?

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, about 78,000.

Mr. STADTLANDER. What is the population of Allegheny County?

Mr. MILLIRON. I cannot tell you that, sir.

Mr. STADTLANDER. What class of boats ply up the river through Armstrong County?

Mr. MILLIRON. Large boats.

Mr. STADTLANDER. What size?

Mr. MILLIRON. I cannot tell you the horsepower.

Mr. STADTLANDER. If the bridges were raised on the river, and the river was dammed, would not larger boats be able to ply up that river?

Mr. MILLIRON. Yes, sir, farther up the river.

Mr. STADTLANDER. Are you familiar with the construction of the locks?

Mr. MILLIRON. No, sir.

Mr. STADTLANDER. How many locks are there built?

Mr. MILLIRON. One dam backing water up as far as Kittanning.

Mr. STADTLANDER. What was the cost to Armstrong County of constructing that dam?

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I cannot tell you that, sir.

Mr. STADLANDER. Does Armstrong County pay anything towards the raising of bridges in Allegheny County?

Mr. MILLIRON. No, they raised their own, four of them.

Mr. STADLANDER. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Milliron.

One gentleman has spoken here of the fact that this is not the proper court to bring this particular resolution to. I say that it is. Allegheny County is an integral part of this great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. It is our duty, our sworn duty, to stand side by side and protect the interest of every part of this State, whether it is Erie County, Berks County, Luzerne County, or whatever county it may be. This bridge proposition is one of great and vital interest to Allegheny County. It would cost us about $5,000,000 to $6,000,000 to raise these bridges, and I think it is proper for us to influence, or try to influence, the national administration to rescind their recent decision.

It seems to me that the gentlemen who preceded me appeared to take a jealous view of this question, as long as it does not strike them they are satisfied, but immediately it strikes them, they begin to holler. Gentlemen, I ask you to give us assistance on this question to-day, it means not only the raising of the bridges, which will cost us between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000, but it means the destruction of property and the raising of streets in that vicinity where these bridges are located, and you can imagine the stress that we are in, and we are asking for help, we are a part of Pennsylvania, and we want you to help us.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman who has just preceded me, the gentleman who has interrogated me as to whether I knew anything about bridges or locks, has made a statement, and I just want to call the attention of this House to the statement which he has just made, contrary to one which the gentleman from Allegheny, who spoke before him, made. The gentleman who spoke before him, and the sponsor of this resolution on the floor of this House, said that it would cost Allegheny County $50,000,000 or $60,000,000. The gentleman who has preceded me said that it would cost $6,000,000. Now I want to call the attention of the House to those things.

I just want to say this in conclusion, gentlemen, that I am surprised to find that anybody would call this a political measure, because the gentleman from Berks has seen fit in his wisdom to stand for that which affects the whole of western Pennsylvania, saying that it should not be treated as a political measure, which it is not. It is not a political measure. I know that this resolution is going to carry, I know it absolutely. But, I would not be fair to Armstrong County or to Allegheny County, if I did not oppose it. I know what pressure has been brought to bear here in the last half hour. I know that the men who are occupying seats in this House now are not all members of this House, and I know that the resolution will pass.

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. STADTLANDER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. STADTLANDER. Mr. Speaker, I think that the gentleman is probably in error. I do not wish to question the integrity of any man in this House. I do not think he would ——

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny is out of order. That is not a point of order.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I ask the members of this House to vote "no" on this resolution.

Mr. STADTLANDER. Mr. Speaker, there is an attempt here this afternoon to throw dust into our eyes. I did not state that the total damage would be $6,000,000, but I did state that the cost of raising the bridges alone would be between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000. The preceding speaker said that it would cost $50,000,000 to $60,000,000, and he is probably correct for the reason that consequential damages arising from the raising of the bridges would probably exceed that amount.

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, it has been said here that there is an attempt to throw dust into this proposition. Now I tried as far as possible to clarify it. It has been said that we are here to protect the interests of western Pennsylvania, we are here in state matters, but this is not a matter that should be brought here for this reason: the districts which are affected, and even the whole State of Pennsylvania, is represented at Washington.

The State of Pennsylvania has thirty-six congressmen down there and two senators there, and if there is any grievance or wrong which should be righted, that is what these congressmen are there for, and these two senators. This State is, I say, amply protected against any wrong that the National government may inflict against their citizens, and it is their place, the place of the congressmen and the senators, to get together with the Secretary of War and make any such protests as they may deem necessary and advisable, and therefore I reiterate that this is the wrong court, that we have no jurisdiction in the matter, and this resolution is only brought here for the sake of influencing the action of the National government at Washington. This State is directly represented in our National government, and why not use the avenues, the proper avenues, to redress this if it is a wrong? As I said, I have not studied the issue, and would not be qualified to judge which is right and which is wrong, but I do say and insist that this is not the proper court and not the proper place, and we should not at this time do anything that might embarrass or hinder the national government at Washington.

Mr. JACK. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny County, Mr. Stadtlander.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STADTLANDER. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. JACK. Mr. Speaker, in interrogating the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Milliron, Mr. Stadtlander asked him the population of Armstrong County and also of Allegheny County. I want to ask Mr. Stadtlander if it is not a fact that Allegheny County, from Pittsburgh on up the Allegheny River, is interested in this and wants this river slackwater?

Mr. STADTLANDER. Mr. Speaker, the county itself is satisfied with the slackwater.

Mr. JACK. Mr. Speaker, I know positively that Tarentum and a number of the towns along the Allegheny River in Allegheny County and Armstrong County have been working for years to get this. Committees after committees have gone to Washington to bring bearing on the War Department for the improvement of the river. I do not intend to take up much time in the discussion of this bill, but I do know that the towns in the Allegheny Valley, from Pittsburgh to the headwaters, have been working for years and years to get some improvements in the Allegheny River. Congress, as Mr. Milliron has stated, has made appropriation after appropriation in different sessions of Congress for the improvement of this river, which would only become available by the raising of these bridges in Allegheny County, which are a menace to the whole Allegheny Valley. Mr. Stadtlander asked about the boats that run in the river. I will say that it is impossible for any boat of any size to go up this river. It would not be a good business proposition to build motor boats or submarine boats to use in the Allegheny River or any other river. Take the Ohio and Monongahela Rivers, they both have been improved for years. It is not right for them to say on page 2, "Whereas said bridges do not at present interfere with the traffic on said river and boats can be small enough and of sufficient power to handle all traffic on said river and which can pass safely beneath said bridges." With these boats traveling the Monongahela and Ohio Rivers, is it a good business proposition to build special boats for the Allegheny River? The government has already constructed, I believe, three dams and locks in the Allegheny River, and these dams and locks are utterly useless because of the bridges in Allegheny County and the boats of any size cannot and do not go under water. Now, gentlemen, the same people that are here working for this bill are the same selfish business interests that are working for this ship canal. When they speak of the expense of raising the bridges, they do not figure the expense of digging a ship canal from Pittsburgh to Lake Erie on dry land. They are the same people who are here to-day working for a State highway from Allegheny County to Erie, and they do not figure the expense of that. They are selfish in their motives, simply because it is going to cost Allegheny something. We all know it is going to cost Allegheny something, and it will also cost Armstrong and every other county along the river something. We have a number of bridges in Armstrong County to raise, and we are ready and willing to raise them. He also mentioned the name of a sandman. Dwight C. Morgan has made trip after trip to Washington pleading with the government and the Secretary of war for some improvements on this river, and I think that it is it nothing more than right that this bill should be defeated.

SPEAKER BALDWIN IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. GOODWIN. Mr. Speaker, I do not see why the time and attention of this House should be occupied in considering a question over which we have no jurisdiction. This matter has been considered by the War Department for years. Now after the controversy has been heard, and a full and fair consideration given, the Secretary of War has issued his order, and no resolution that this House may pass will have any binding force whatever on the Secretary of War. If those who are in favor of this bill have any cause to present, it is not before this legislature, but to the War Department, and I therefore object to taking up the time of this House in considering a matter over which we have no jurisdiction whatever. Therefore I move the previous question,

The motion was seconded by the following members:

RESOLUTION FIXING LAST DAY FOR INTRODUCING BILLS.

Mr. LEWIS asked and obtained unanimous consent to offer the following resolution, which was twice read, and laid over under the rules:

Be it resolved that May 1, 1917, is hereby fixed as the last day for the introduction of bills in the House of Representatives for the session of 1917.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Mr. RININGER asked and obtained unanimous consent to call up House Bill No. 1133, File Folio 1947.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1133, entitled

An Act to enable any city town borough or township owning and operating its own water works to require a water-meter to be installed upon every property supplied from such water works at the expense of the owner thereof and providing that the cost of and charge for installing such water-meter shall be a lien upon such property with the same priority and enforceable in the same manner as a municipal claim

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. RININGER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Municipal Corporations for the purpose of a hearing.

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would like to state that we have now a pretty heavy calendar accumulated. The Chair does not think it necessary to hold night sessions this week, but next week, unless we are able to work along and dispose of bills faster, it will probably be necessary to hold night sessions. I want to inform the House that it is the wish of the Chair that all members should be here to-morrow so that we can go right along with the calendar and if we can do so it is possible that we can get along without holding night sessions.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

The motion was agreed to and (at 3.00 P. M.) the House adjourned until to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Legislative Journal.

Session 1917 — 122nd of the General Assembly

VOL. 4. HARRISBURG, PA., THURSDAY, APRIL 19, 1917. No. 41.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

THURSDAY, April 19, 1917.

The House met at 10 o'clock A. M.
The SPEAKER (Richard J. Baldwin) in the Chair.

The Chaplain, Rev. S. G. Zerfass, offered the following prayer:

O God, we desire to walk with Thee this day. We cannot get on safely without Thy protection. Wilt Thou help us to walk with Thee and give us grateful hearts to acknowledge the divine power in everything. Give us, then, wisdom for all the duties, tasks, responsibilities and struggles of the day. Make us strong for work and deliver us from the arrow that flyeth by day and the pestilence that walketh in darkness. Keep us all day near Thine own heart and give us the grace and the mercy and the peace we need. As the clear spring of water grow into mighty rivers so may the good in our hearts become divine inspirations, kindling holy thoughts, pure desires and lofty aspirations after holiness and a gentle love that makes our lives like altars of incense before Thee. Thus may our influence for good become deeper, tenderer and more unselfish in the ministrations for good. Forgive us every iniquity, cleanse and purify our lives and save us evermore. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings, when, on motion of Mr. Urich, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

PETITIONS.

PRAYING FOR STATE HIGHWAY FROM MIDDLE SPRING TO NEWBURG.

Mr. BARNER presented several petitions from citizens of Cumberland County praying for the incorporation of the road from Middle Spring to Newburg in the State Highway Plan.

Section 1 (a) Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the orphans' court of each county of this Commonwealth shall have jurisdiction but not exclusive jurisdiction in the partition and valuation of real estate within the county or any decedent testate or intestate whether such decedent was at the time of his death seised or possessed of such real estate solely or as tenant in common or joint owner with any other person or persons and whether or not the surviving spouse of such decedent shall elect to take against his or her will and notwithstanding there may be a limitation of an estate or interest in the premises or some part thereof to a person or persons not in existence and several undivided interests in any premises derived from different ancestors by descent or devise may be parted or valued in one proceeding in said court Provided That such court shall not have such jurisdiction during the continuance of any life estate in the whole of such real estate

(b) Partition may be made under this act of lands and coal-rights therein and of lands and timber-rights thereon of any decedent whether the rights of all the parties be co-extensive with the whole or not and whether the rights of some of them extend only to the lands and part of the coal therein or only to the land and part of the timber thereon or only to an undivided interest in the land or in the coal therein or in the timber thereon and any person having an interest as herein set forth may compel partition of the entire tract of land and coal or land and timber provided said coal or said timber has not been entirely severed so as to constitute a separate estate

Section 2 The jurisdiction of the orphans' court under this act shall be exercised on the petition of the surviving spouse of the decedent of any heir of the decedent in a case of intestacy or of any devisee having an interest in the real estate in question in a case of testacy whether the interest of such person be vested in possession or in the remainder or of any person having a life interest in an undivided share of such real estate or of any alienee or devisee of any party in interest If the party be a weakminded person for whom a guardian has been appointed or a minor lunatic or habitual drunkard the petition shall be filed by the guardian or committee of such party

Section 3 On such petition supported by oath or affirmation the court may award a citation returnable at a day certain not less than ten days after the issuing thereof directed to all the parties in interest other than the petitioner or petitioners to show cause why an inquest in partition should not be awarded Such citation shall be served in the manner provided by law for the service of other citations in the orphans' court

Section 4 All parties in interest including those entitled in remainder shall be named in the petition citation decree and notices when known but if it shall appear on oath or affirmation that the names or residences of any of the parties are unknown to the petitioner for the partition the orphans' court shall have the power to direct such notices as shall appear to the court to be reasonable and proper to be given to such parties by publication describing the parties as far as practicable and the proceedings shall be as effectual to all intents and purposes as if all the parties had been named in the proceedings

Section 5 Where any of the parties in interest reside outside of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and their places of residence are known the court may in its discretion authorize any citations or notices provided for by this act to be served upon them personally or by registered mail or direct publication thereof

Section 6 If on the return of such citation no answer or an insufficient answer be filed or if after hearing on petition answer replication and proofs it shall appear proper the court may appoint on the agreement and nomination of the parties three or more commissioners to divide or value the real estate described in the partition with the same effect as a sheriff's inquest for the same purpose or if the parties cannot so agree may award an inquest to make partition among the parties in accordance with their respective interests the inquest to consist of three men

Section 7 The compensation of such commissioners and of the jurors when an inquest is awarded shall be fixed by the court but shall not exceed five dollars a day each for each day engaged in making such partition and valuation unless the parties interest shall agree in writing to a larger compensation Such commissioners and jurors shall also receive in addition to their daily pay three cents per mile circular for each mile necessarily traveled by them counting from the place at which such commissioners or jurors first met

Section 8 The commissioners or inquest shall if the same can be done without prejudice to or spoiling the whole make partition of the real estate in purparts among the parties entitled in accordance with their respective interests be equal or otherwise and shall make return thereof to the court

Section 9 (a) When any such estate cannot be divided among the parties entitled thereto without prejudice to or spoiling the whole the said commissioners or the said inquest as the case may be shall make and return a just appraisement thereof to the court

(b) When equal partition in value or partition in accordance with the respective interests of the parties cannot be made by the said commissioners or the said inquest they shall make a just appraisement of the respective purparts or shares into which they may divide the estate and the court shall award that one or more of the purparts or shares shall be subject to the payment of such sum or sums of money as shall be necessary to equalize the value of the said purparts according to the said appraisement thereof which sum or sums of money shall be paid or secured to be paid by the several persons accepting such purparts in the manner prescribed in section 17 hereof

(c) When such estate cannot conveniently be divided into shares equal in number to the number of parties entitled the said commissioners or the said inquest shall make a just appraisement of the respective purparts or shares into which they may divide the estate and the parties to whom such shares shall be awarded or some one in their behalf shall pay or secure to be paid to the other parties interested their respective parts of the value thereof in the manner prescribed in section seventeen hereof

Section 10 Where the decedent shall die seised or possessed as tenant in common or joint owner of any undivided interest in fee simple in any lands or tenements the commissioners or inquest shall value and return said interest undivided in all cases and if such decedent had other real estate such interest shall be valued and returned either by itself or in connection with some other portion of such decedent's real estate as one of the purparts or shares into which they shall divide the whole real estate and upon the return thereof the proceedings shall be as in other cases

Section 11 In all cases of appraisement or partition mentioned in sections eight and nine of this act the orphans' court shall on application grant a rule on all persons interested including those interested in remainder to come into court at a certain day to be fixed by the court to accept or refuse the estate or a share or portion thereof as the case may be A copy of such rule shall be served upon each party personally ten days before the return thereof in case such party resides within the county or if any party shall reside outside the county the court may in its discretion authorize service of such rule upon him personally or direct such publication thereof as shall appear to the court to be reasonable and proper

Section 12 In all cases of partition of real estate now pending or hereafter to be instituted in any orphans' court wherein a valuation shall have been made or shall be made of the whole or parts thereof the same shall be allotted to such one or more of the parties in interest whether entitled in possession or in remainder or to an undivided interest for life and including the surviving spouse of the decedent who shall at the return of the rule to accept or refuse to take at the valuation offer in writing the highest price therefor above the valuation returned but if no higher offer be made for such real estate or any part thereof it shall be allotted or ordered to be sold as herein provided

Section 13 (a) When no bid above the appraisement of such real estate or any part thereof shall be made as provided in section twelve of this act the court may order such real estate or part thereof to and among the parties in interest including those entitled in remainder as follows

First to the surviving spouse of the decedent if entitled under the interstate law or under the will of the decedent to a share of such real estate or part thereof in fee

Second To the other parties in interest in the order of their seniority in age

(b) In case the party entitled to a choice do not come into court in person or by guardian or committee or attorney duly constituted or in case he shall refuse the same a record shall be made thereof and the court may and shall direct the same to be offered to the next in succession according to the rules provided in clause (a) of this section

(c) In any case where a party has elected to take the real estate of a decedent in one county or any share thereof if divided into shares such party shall not have the right of preference or election to take the real estate or any share thereof in any other county or any other share in the same county until all the other parties shall have neglected after due notice or refusal to take the same at such valuation

Section 14 The orphans' court having jurisdiction in any case of partition shall have power wherever it shall appear advisable and proper to cause the share or shares of the party or parties appearing in court to be allotted and assigned to them and to permit the residue of the premises to remain for the person or persons entitled thereto and subject to a future partition among them if more than one person be so entitled

Section 15 Where the real estate or any part thereof shall be allotted to the widow as the highest bidder two-thirds of the purchase money thereof in cases where by existing laws the widow is entitled to a dower of one-third in the real estate and one-half of the purchase money thereof in cases where by existing laws the widow is entitled to a dower of one-half in the real estate shall be paid to those entitled thereto as provided by law the remaining one-third or one-half of such purchase money as the case may be shall be paid to a trustee or trustees to be appointed by the court which trustee or trustees shall give bond in double the amount to be received the trustee or trustees as aforesaid shall pay semi-annually in lieu of dower the interest on said one-third or one-half of the purchase money as the case may be to the widow during her life and at her death the said trustee or trustees shall pay the purchase money to such persons as are entitled by law thereto

Section 16 Upon return made by commissioners appointed by agreement of the parties or of the inquisition taken or when the real estate or any purpart thereof is awarded or allotted by the court and a final decree is entered the partition thereby made shall be firm and stable forever subject only to the right of appeal

Section 17 (a) In every case provided for in section twelve or section thirteen of this act the party bidding in or accepting the real estate or some one on his behalf shall pay to the other parties interested their proportional parts of the value of such estate according to the amount of the bid or the just appraisement thereof made in manner aforesaid as the case may be or shall give good security by recognizance or otherwise to the satisfaction of the court for the payment thereof with legal interest at such time or times as in the judgment of the court shall be to the advantage of those entitled to the estate and the persons to whom or for whose use payment or satisfaction shall be so made in any of the cases aforesaid for the respective parts or shares of such real estate shall be forever barred of all right or title to the same

(b) Where the court shall decree any share or shares to any person not residing within this Commonwealth with the payment of owelty annexed it shall be lawfully for the court upon application made by any party lawfully interested in the same to order a rule upon such party his or her legal heirs or representatives requiring the payment of said owelty at such time and upon such terms and conditions as the court shall direct If the said rule cannot be served within this Commonwealth the court may in its discretion authorize service of such rule upon him or them personally or direct such publication thereof as shall appear to the court to be reasonable and proper. Upon return and proof of service or publication as aforesaid and upon refusal or neglect to comply with the said rule the court may enforce the same by ordering a sale of such share or shares for the purposes aforesaid as in other cases of sales under this act

(c) Wherever it shall appear than any party or parties in whose favor a lien exists until payment be made to them of their respective shares of the money due from the party or parties to whom the real estate or any purpart thereof is awarded at the appraisement or at a price bid therefor above the appraisement is or are unknown or cannot be found the court shall have power to appoint a trustee to whom the shares of money due said unknown or other party may be paid with power in said trustee upon payment to him of said money to satisfy said lien upon the proper records whereupon the said land shall be freed and discharged from said lien Such trustee shall first file a bond to be approved by the court conditioned for the faithful application of the money to him so paid as aforesaid according to the trust and order of court it shall be the duty of the trustee to invest the said moneys in securities authorized by law

Section 18 (a) Should the widow of the decedent be living at the time of the partition and entitled to a life estate in one-half or one-third of the real estate under the intestate laws or should such widow elect to take against the will of the decedent and thereby be entitled to such life estate she shall not be entitled to payment of the sum at which her purpart or share of the estate shall be valued but the same together with interest thereof shall be and remain charged upon the premises if the whole be taken by one person or upon the respective shares if divided as hereinbefore mentioned and the legal interest thereof shall be semi-annually and regularly paid by the persons to whom such real estate shall be adjudged their heirs or assigns holding the same according to their respective portions to the said widow during her natural life in lieu and full satisfaction of her dower at common law and the same may be recovered by the widow by distress or otherwise as rents in this Commonwealth are recoverable On the death of the widow the said principal sum shall be paid by the persons to whom the said real estate shall have been adjudged their heirs or assigns holding the premises to the persons thereunto legally entitled

(b) When the real estate of any decedent shall consist of several different tracts or pieces of land and the same shall be adjudged to any of the parties entitled thereto or ordered to be sold by any orphans' court such court shall have authority to decree that the share or purpart of the widow of such decedent in the whole of said real estate where such widow is entitled to a life interest together with the interest thereof shall be and remain charged on one or more of the said tracts or pieces of land in the manner and for the purposes now provided by law and that the remaining tracts or pieces of land shall be wholly discharged from the share or purpart of such widow or any part thereof Provided

That the pieces or tracts of land upon which such purpart or share shall be so charged as aforesaid shall in the opinion of such court be fully sufficient to secure the payment of the principal and interest of such purpart or share and Provided further That such widow shall have the same remedies for recovery of her interest as are provided in clause (a) of this section

Section 19 Should any person other than the widow of the decedent be entitled under the intestate laws or should any person including the widow of the decedent be entitled under the will of the decedent to a life interest in an undivided share of the real estate the share of such tenant for life shall not be paid to him or her but the same together with interest thereof shall be and remain charged upon the premises if the whole be taken by one person or upon the respective shares if divided as hereinbefore mentioned and the legal interest thereof shall be semi-annually and regularly paid by the persons to whom such real estate shall be adjudged their heirs or assigns holding the same according to their respective portions to the said tenant for life during his or her natural life and the same may be recovered by such life tenant as debts of like nature in this Commonwealth are recoverable On the death of the life tenant the said principal sum shall be paid by the persons to whom the said real estate shall have been adjudged their heirs or assigns holding the premises to the persons thereunto legally entitled

Section 20 In case of partition of real estate now or hereafter held by two or more persons as tenants in common where one or more of said tenants shall have been or shall hereafter be in possession of said real estate the parties in possession shall have deducted from their distributive shares of said real estate the proportional part of the rental value thereof to which their co-tenant or co-tenants are entitled for the time such real estate shall have been in possssion as aforesaid

Section 21 Upon an appraisement or valuation of real estate made as provided in section nine or section ten of this act should all the parties neglect after due notice as provided in section eleven hereof or refuse to take the same or any part thereof at the valuation or to bid above the appraisement as provided in section twelve hereof the court shall on the application of anyone of the parties grant a rule upon the other parties interested to show cause why the estate or part thereof so appraised and not taken at the appraisement or bid for should not be sold which rule shall be returnable at such time as the court having respect to the circumstances of the case may direct and service of such rule shall be made in the manner provided by law for the service of citations in the orphans' court On the return of such rule the court may on due proof of notice to all persons interested make a decree authorizing and requiring the executor or administrator as the case may be to expose such real estate or part thereof to public sale at such time and place and on such terms as the court may decree Provided That the rule to show cause herein directed may be dispensed with by the court on the application of all the parties in interest if of full age and sui juris and of the guardians or committees of such as are weak-minded persons for whom guardians have been appointed minors lunatics or habitual drunkards for such decree and public notice of such sale shall be given by the person who is to make the sale once a week for a period of three weeks before the day appointed therefor by advertisement in at least one newspaper published in the county if there be one or if there be none then in ad adjoining county and in all cases notice shall also be given by handbills one of which shall be posted at a conspicuous place on the real estate proposed to be sold and at least three of which shall be posted at three of the most public places in the vicinity of such estate and in any case the court may by general rule or special order require such further notice as it shall deem advisable

Section 22 In all cases of the partition or valuation of real estate the orphans' court may upon the application of any party in interest instead of the separate rules herein provided for such cases grant a rule upon the parties interested to appear and accept or refuse the said real estate at the valuation or in case they or any of them should neglect or refuse to take and accept the same as aforesaid show cause why the said real estate or any part thereof should not be sold

Section 23 (a) Whenever any person shall die seised of real estate and the parties in interest desire the same to be converted into money for distribution it shall be lawful for the orphans' court of the proper county in its discretion upon the joint petition of the widow and heirs or devisees and the guardians or commmittees of such as are minors or under disability in whom the real estate of the decedent shall have vested by descent or will and legatées whose legacies are charged on said real estate or the representatives of such as may be deceased or under disability to order the executor or administrator or a trustee to be appointed by said court to make sale of said real estate Such petition shall set forth the description of the property the desire to have the same sold and its estimated value according to the affidavits of two disinterested and competent persons and said petition shall be duly sworn to Said order shall provide that before making sale the executor administrator or trustee shall give bond in double the estimated value of the said real estate and shall proceed thereafter in all respects in the manner provided by this act in cases of the sale of real estate under proceedings in partition The proceeds of such sale after payment of the expenses thereof shall be distributed to and among those entitled thereto the same as real estate Such sale shall have the same effect in all respects as a public sale in proceedings in partition of real estate under this act

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That every person of sound mind and of the age of twenty-one years or upwards whether married or single may dispose by will of his or her real estate whether such estate is held in fee simple or for the life or lives of any other person or persons and whether in severalty joint tenancy or common and also of his or her personal estate

Section 2 Every will shall be in writing and unless the person making the same shall be prevented by the extremity of his last sickness shall be signed by him at the end thereof or by some person in his presence and by his express direction and in all cases shall be proved by the oaths or affirmations of two or more competent witnesses otherwise such will shall be of no effect Provided That the presence of dispositive or testamentary words or directions or the appointment of an executor or the like after the signature to a will whether written before or after the execution thereof shall not invalidate that which precedes the signature

Section 3 If the testator be unable to sign his name for any reason other than the extremity of his last sickness a will to which his name is subscribed in his presence by his direction and authority and to which he makes his mark or cross unless unable so to do in which case the mark or cross shall not be required shall be as valid as though he had signed his name thereto Provided That such will shall be proved by the oaths or affirmations of two or more competent witnesses

Section 4 Personal estate may be bequeathed by a nuncupative will under the following restrictions

(a) Such will shall in all cases be made during the last sickness of the testator and in the house of his habitation or dwelling or where he has resided for the space of ten days or more next before the making of such will except where such person shall be surprised by sickness being from his own house

(b) Where the sum or value bequeathed shall exceed one hundred dollars it shall be proved that the testator at the time of pronouncing the bequest did bid the persons present or some of them to bear witness that such was his will or to that effect and in all cases the foregoing requisites shall be proved by two or more witnesses who were present at the making of such will

(c) No testimony shall be received to prove any nuncupative will after six months elapsed from the speaking of the alleged testamentary words unless the said testimony or the substance thereof were committed to writing within six days after the making of said will

Section 5 Notwithstanding this act any mariner being at sea or any soldier being in actual military service may dispose of his movables wages and personal estate as he might have done before the making of this act

Section 6 No estate real or personal shall be bequeathed or devised to any body politic or to any person in trust for religious or charitable use except the same be done by will attested by two credible and at the time disinterested witnesses at least thirty days before the decease of the testator and all dispositions of property contrary hereto shall be void and go to the residuary legatee or devisee heirs of next of kin according to law A disinterested witness within the meaning of this section is a witness not interested in such religious or charitable use this section not being intended to apply to a witness interested in some other devise or bequest in the same instrument

Section 7 The emblements or crops growing on lands held by a widow in dower or by any other tenant for life may be disposed of by will as other personal estate Rents and other periodical payments accruing to any tenant for life or to any other person entitled under the laws of this Commonwealth regulating the decent and partition of real estate may so far as the same may have accrued on the day of death of such tenant for life or other person be disposed of by will in like manner

Section 8 (a) Every person competent to make a will being the father or adopting father of any minor child unmarried may appoint a testamentary guardian for such child during his or her minority or for any shorter period Provided That such testamentary guardian shall not be entitled to the custody of the person of such child unless the mother or adopting mother if surviving shall relinquish such custody or unless the best interests of the child shall require that such surviving mother or adopting mother should not retain the custody of the person of such child

(b) Every person competent to make a will being the mother or adopting mother of any minor child unmarried may appoint a testamentary guardian for such child during his or her minority or for any shorter period whenever the father or adopting father of such child shall be deceased and has not appointed such a guardian Such mother or adopting mother who shall leave to such child an estate either real or personal may appoint a testamentary guardian for such estate of the child whether the father or adopting father of such child shall be living or dead and whether he shall or shall not have appointed a testamentary guardian for such child

(c) No father who shall have for one year or upwards previous to his death wilfully neglected or refused to provide for his child or children and no mother who shall have for a like period deserted her child or children or failed to perform her parental duties shall have the right to appoint any testamentary guardian for such child or children

Section 9 Every will shall be construed with reference to the real and personal estate comprised in it to speak and take effect as if it had been executed immediately before the death of the testator unless a contrary intention shall appear by the will

Section 10 The real estate acquired by a testator after making his will shall pass by a general devise unless a contrary intention be manifest on the face of the will

Section 11 A general devise of the real estate of the testator or of the real estate of the testator in any place or in the occupation of any person mentioned in his will or otherwise described in a general manner shall be construed to include any real estate or any real estate to which such description shall extend as the case may be which he may have power to appoint in any manner he may think proper and shall operate as an execution of such power unless a contrary intention shall appear by the will In like manner a bequest of the personal estate of the testator or any bequest of personal property described in a general manner shall be contrued to include any personal estate or any personal estate to which such description shall extend as the case may be which he may have power to appoint in any manner he may think proper and shall operate as an execution of such power unless a contrary intention shall appear by the will

Section 12 All devises of real estate shall pass the whole estate of the testator in the premises devised although there be no words of inheritance or of perpetuity unless it appears by a devise over or by words of limitation or otherwise in the will that the testator intended to devise a less estate

Section 13 Whenever by any devise an estate in fee tail would be created according to the common law of this State such devise shall be taken and construed to pass an estate in fee simple and as such shall be inheritable and freely alienable

Section 14 In any devise or bequest of real or personal estate the words "die without issue" or "die without leaving issue" or "have no issue" or any other words which may import either a want or failure of issue of any person in his lifetime or at the time of his death or an indefinite failure of his issue shall be construed to mean a want or failure of issue in the lifetime or at the death of such person and not an indefinite failure of his issue unless a contrary intention shall appear by the will in which such devise or bequest is made

Section 15 (a) No devise or legacy in favor of a child or children or other lineal descendant or descendants of any testator whether such children or descendants be designated by name or as class shall lapse or become void by reason of the decease of such legatee or devisee in the lifetime of the testator if such devisee or legatee shall leave issue surviving the testator but such devise or legacy shall be good and available in favor of such surviving issue with like effect as if such devisee or legatee had survived the testator unless the testator shall in the will direct otherwise

(b) Where any testator shall not leave any lineal descendants who would receive the benefit of any lapsed or void devise or legacy no devise or legacy made in favor of a brother or sister or of brothers or sisters of such testator or in favor of the children of a brothers or sister of such testator whether such brothers or sisters or children of brothers or sisters be designated by name or as a class shall be deemed or held to lapse or become void by reason of the decease of such devisee or legatee in the lifetime of the testator if such devisee or legatee shall leave issue surviving the testator but such devise or legacy shall be good and available in favor of such surviving issue with like effect as if such devisee or legatee had survived the testator unless the testator shall in the will direct otherwise

(c) Unless a contrary intention shall appear by the will such real or personal estate or interests therein as shall be comprised or intended to be comprised in any devise or bequest in such will contained which shall fail or be void by reason of the death of the devisee or legatee in the lifetime of the testator or by reason of such devise or bequest being contrary to law or otherwise incapable of taking effect or which shall be revoked by the testator shall be included in the residuary devise or bequest if any contained in such will In any case where such devise or bequest which shall fail or be void or shall be revoked as aforesaid shall be contained in the residuary clause of such will it shall pass to and be divided among the other residuary devisees or legatees if any there be in proportion to their respective interests in such residue

Section 16 (a) Whenever in any will a bequest or devise shall be made to the child or children of testator without naming such child or children such bequest or devise shall be construed to include any adopted child or children of the testator unless a contrary intention shall appear by the will

(b) Whenever in any will a bequest or devise shall be made to the child or children of any person other than the testator without naming such child or children such bequest or devise shall be construed to include any adopted child or children of such other person who were adopted before the date of the will unless a contrary intention shall appear by the will

Section 17 All pecuniary legacies contained in any will shall be charged upon and payable out of any real estate not specifically devised where the personal estate is insufficient for their payment or where the personal estate though originally sufficint has been wasted or misapplied by the executor unless a contrary intention shall appear by the will

Section 18 Unless the testator shall otherwise direct by his will the devisee of real estate which is subject to mortgage shall take subject thereto and shall not be entitled to exoneration out of the other estate of the testator real or personal and this whether the mortgage was created by the testator or by a previous owner or owners and notwithstanding any general direction by the testator that his debts be paid

Section 19 All income whatsoever devised or bequeathed by any will so as to be free from liability for the debts contracts or engagements of the beneficiary or so as not to be subject to execution attachment sur judgment sequestration or other process shall notwithstanding such testamentary provisions be subject to and liable for the support and maintenance of the wife and minor children of the beneficiary and for the value of necessaries furnished to them or any of them where said beneficiary has refused or neglectd to provide suitably for them and all of the income of said beneficiary shall be subject to all legal process issued by any court of this Commonwealth having jurisdiction in the premises in order to enforce such liability of said beneficiary

Section 20 (a) No will in writing concerning any real estate shall be repealed nor shall any devise or directions therein be altered otherwise than by some other will or codicil in writing or other writing declaring the same executed and proved in the manner hereinbefore provided or by burning cancelling obliterating or destroying the same by the testator himself or by someone in his presence and by his express direction

(b) No will in writing concerning any personal estate shall be repealed nor shall any bequest or direction therein be altered otherwise than as hereinbefore provided in the case of real estate except by a nuncupative will made under the circumstances set forth in section four of this act and also committed to writing in the lifetime of the testator and after the writing thereof read to or by him and allowed by him and proved to be so done by two or more witnesses

Section 21 When any person male or female shall make a last will and testament and afterward shall marry or shall have a child or children not provided for in such will and shall die leaving a surviving spouse and such child or children or either a surviving spouse or such child or children although such child or children be born after the death of their father every such person so far as shall regard the surviving spouse or child or children born after the making of the will shall be deemed and construed to die intestate and such surviving spouse child or children shall be entitled to such purparts shares and dividends of the estate real and personal of the deceased as if such person had actually died without any will

Section 22 No person who shall be finally adjudged guilty either as principal or accessory of murder of the first or second degree shall be entitled to take any part of the real or personal estate of the person killed as devisee or legatee or otherwise under the will of such person

Section 23 (a) When any person shall died testate leaving a surviving spouse who shall elect to take against the will such surviving spouse shall be entitled to such interests in the real and personal estate of the deceased spouse as he or she would have been entitled to had the testator died intestate Provided That nothing herein contained shall affect the right or power of a married woman by virtue of any authority or appointment contained in any deed or will to bequeath or devise any property held in trust for her sole and separate use

(b) A surviving spouse electing to take under or against the will of the decedent shall in all cases manifest the election by a writing signed by him or her duly acknowledged before an officer authorized by law to take the acknowledgement of deeds and delivered to the executor or administrator of the estate of such decedent within two years after the issuance of letters testamentary or of administration Neglect or refusal or failure to deliver such writing within said period shall be deemed an election to take under the will

(c) No payment from the estate of such decedent except the exemption allowed by law to the widow shall be required to be made to any surviving spouse unless his or her election shall have been first duly executed acknowledged and delivered as provided in clause (b) of this section

(d) The orphans' court on the application of any person interested in the estate of a decedent may issue a citation at any time after six months from the death of the testator to the surviving spouse of the testator to apear at a certain time not less than one month thereafter in the said court to make his or her election to take under or against the will which election shall be filed of record and shall be conclusive If the surviving spouse shall neglect or refuse to appear on such citation then upon due proof being made to the court of the service thereof the said neglect or refusal shall be deemed an election to take under the will and the decree of the court to that effect shall be conclusive

(e) The election by a surviving spouse or a certified copy of the final decree of any orphans' court in cases where there shall have been an election in accordance with clause (d) hereof or a neglect or refusal to elect within the time prscribed by the order of the said court shall at the cost of the estate be recorded by the personal representative of the decedent in the office for the recording of deeds of the county where the decedent's will is probated in the deed book and shall be indexed by the recorder in the grantor's index under the name of the decedent and in the grantees' index under the name of the surviving spouse and shall be registered in the survey bureau or with the proper authorities empowered to keep a register of real estate if any there be in said county The chrages for recording and registering shall be the same as are provided by law for similar services The election or decree of the court or a certified copy of either may also be recorded in any office for the recording of deeds within the Commonwealth with the same effect as if a duly signed and acknowledged declaration to the effect stated therein had been made by the person authorized to elect and at his or her request recorded in said office according to law After the said election shall have been recorded in the office for the recording of deeds as aforesaid the said election at the cost of the estate shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the orphans' court and a record made of such filing by the said clerk

Section 24 Nothing in this act contained shall be construed to apply to the disposition of personal estate by

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the real and personal estate of a decedent whether male or female remaining after payment of all just debts and legal charges which shall not have been sold or disposed of by will or otherwise limited by marriage settlement shall be divided and enjoyed as follows namely

(a) Where such intestate shall leave a spouse surviving and one child only or shall leave a spouse surviving and no children but shall leave descendants of one deceased child the spouse shall be entitled to one-half part of the real and personal estate

(b) Where such intestate shall leave a spouse surviving and more than one child or one child and the descendants of a deceased child or children or the descendants of more than one deceased child the surviving spouse shall be entitled to one-third part of the real and personal estate

Section 2 (a) Where such intestate shall leave a spouse surviving and other kindred but no issue the surviving spouse shall be entitled to the real or personal estate or both to the aggregate value of five thousand dollars in addition in the case of a widow to the widow's exemption as allowed by law and if such estate shall exceed in value the sum of five thousand dollars the surviving spouse shall be entitled to the sum of five thousand dollars absolutely to be chosen by him or her from real or personal estate or both and in addition thereto shall be entitled to one-half part of the remaining real and personal estate Provided That the provisions of this clause shall apply only to cases of actual intestacy of husband or wife entire or partial and not to cases where the surviving spouse shall elect to take against the will of the deceased spouse

(b) The appraisement and setting apart of the said five thousand dollars in value of property shall be made by two appraisers who shall be appointed by the orphans' court having jurisdiction of the accounts of the personal representatives of such intestate and shall be sworn or affirmed to appraise the property which the surviving spouse shall choose under the provisions of this act Each of such appraisers shall receive as compensation for each day or fraction thereof necessarily employed in the performance their duties the sum of two dollars and fifty cents and such additional amount as may be allowed by said court

(c) Upon due proof of compliance with such requirements as to notice by advertisement or otherwise as may be prescribed by the orphans' court by general rule or otherwise such court may confirm such appraisement and set apart such personal or real estate or both to the surviving spouse subject to claims of creditors of the decedent and to the lien of debts of the decendent

(d) Whenever the surviving spouse of any intestate shall claim the said five thousand dollars in value or any part thereof under the provisions of this act out of real estate left by said intestate and the real estate appraised cannot be divided so as to set apart the amount so claimed in value without prejudice to or spoiling the whole or any parcel of said real estate and the appraisers shall appraise and value the same at any sum exceeding the amount so claimed it shall be lawful for the orphans' court to which such application shall be made to confirm such appraisement and to set apart for the use of the surviving spouse such real estate conditioned however that the said surviving spouse shall pay the amount of the valuation or appraisement in excess of the amount so claimed within one year from the date of confirmation of such valuation If the said surviving spouse shall refuse to take the real estate at such appraisement or shall fail to make payment as above provided the court on application of any person interested shall direct the executor or administrator to sell the same and the procedure in such case shall be the same as is provided by law in cases of sales of real estate for the payment of debts of a decedent

(e) The real estate if taken by the surviving spouse as aforesaid shall vest in him or her and his or her heirs or assigns upon his or her paying the surplus over and above the sum of five thousand dollars or such part thereof as may be claimed out of the real estate to the parties entitled thereto Where the real estate is sold as provided in clause (d) of this section the sum of five thousand dollars or such part thereof as may be claimed out of the real estate shall be paid out of the purchase money to the surviving spouse and the balance after payment of costs and expenses shall be distributed to the heirs or other persons legally entitled thereto

(f) In all cases where the appraisement of property real or personal or both is confirmed and the property set apart to the surviving spouse under the provisions of this section said surviving spouse shall be entitled to receive for his or her own use the net rents income interest and dividends thereof from the date of the death of such intestate Where the property set apart shall consist of real estate appraised at a sum in excess of five thousand dollars or such part thereof as may be claimed out of the real estate and the surviving spouse shall fail to pay the excess over the amount so claimed as provided in clause (d) of this section and the property shall thereupon be sold there shall be deducted from the sum to be paid to said surviving spouse out of the proceeds of such sale a proportionate part of the rents and income of such real estate received by such surviving spouse

(g) Whenever the surviving spouse of any intestate shall claim the said five thousand dollars in value or any part thereof under the provisions of this section out of real estate left by said intestate and lying in any county of this state other than the county wherein said intestate shall be domiciled at the time of his or her death and the orphans court having jurisdiction of the accounts of the personal representatives of said intestate shall be staisfied upon petition filed of the property of allowing such claim the court may make a decree authorizing such surviving spouse to file his or her petition in the orphans court of the county wherein such real estate may lie or in a case where the real estate is divided by a county line in the county where the mansion house may be situated or if there be no mansion house in the county where the principal improvements may be or if there be no improvements in either county praying for the appointment of two appraisers

Upon the filing of such petition duly verified the latter court shall appoint such appraisers who shall be duly sworn or affirmed and shall appraise said real estate and shall be compensated as provided in clause (b) of this section and proceedings shall thereupon be had in said court and subject to its supervision and control in the same manner and with the same effect as is provided in clauses (c) (d) (e) and (f) of this section In every such case a certified copy of the decree confirming such appraisement or if such decree of sale and the confirmation thereof as the case may be shall forthwith be filed with the clerk of the orphans court having jurisdiction of the accounts of the personal representatives of said intestate

The court having jurisdiction of the accounts shall in all cases have exclusive jurisdiction of the distribution of the surplus paid by such surviving spouse or of the proceeds of such sale after the payment of costs and expenses as the case may be

(h) In all cases where a decree shall be entered by any orphans court confirming an appraisement of real estate and setting apart the same for the use of the surviving spouse a certified copy of such decree shall be recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds of each county where such real estate shall lie in the deed book and shall be indexed by the recorder in the grantors index under the name of the decedent and in the grantees index under the name of the surviving spouse and shall be registered in the survey bureau or with the proper authorities empowered to keep a register of real estate if any there be in said county and the charges for recording and registering shall be the same as are provided by law for similar services and shall be paid by said surviving spouse

Section 3 The shares of the estate directed by this act to be allotted to the widow shall be in lieu and full satisfaction of her dower at common law so far as relates to land of which the husband died seised and her share in lands aliened by the husband in his lifetime without her joining in the conveyance shall be the same as her share in lands of which the husband died seised The widow shall be entitled to the same share in an estate in remainder vested in interest in the husband during his lifetime although the particular estate shall not terminate before the death of the husband
